The Manager of the Grange Insurance Company has recently sent out a circular claiming that "in no conceivable case can any other contracts made exceed he branket policies of the Grange Company." Instead of this being the fact I wish to say that the advantages to farmers given in the Royal Canadian policy exceed these of the Grange in about a d-zen important narticulars. An examination of the relative merits of the two policies leaves no doubt as to which company gives the best blanket.

The manager advertises that in the Grange Company no premium notes are taken, (see his advt. in co-operater). Dou't believe a word of it. For an in surance of $3000 in that Co, the farmer gives a premium note for $0.0, a part of which he pays down and takes his chances as to future calls for the balance. In the Royal Canadian policy holders are secured by a surplus cand capital of over half a million dollars, while in the Grange C mpany the security consists of premium notes, which when given the policy holders received to be asked to pay.

Grange polic, holders are invited to examine the advantages I have secured for farmers in the Royal Canadian before they again put their signature to a large note for a policy not nearly as good.
