"The Bivouse of the Dead."

The muffled drum's sad roll has beat The soldier's last tatoo; No more on life's parade shall meet That brave and fallen few. On fame's eternal camping ground
Their client tents are spread,
And Glory guards, with solemn round.
The bivouse of the dead.

No more of the foe's advance Now swells upon the wind; No troubled thought at midnight haunts Of loved ones left behind; No vision of the morrow's strife

The warrior's dream starms;
No braying horn or screaming fife,
A: dawn shall call to arms. Their shivered swords are red with rust,
Their pumed heads are bowed,
Their haughty banner, trailed in dust,
Is now their martial shroud;

And plenteous funeral tears have washed The red strains from each brow, And the proud forms by battle gashed, Are free from anguish now.

The neighing troop, the flashing blade, The bugie's stirring blact, The charge, the dr-adful cannonade, The din and shout are past, Nor war's wild note, nor glory's peal, Shall thrill with fleets delight Those breasts that never more may feel The rapture of the fight.

That sweeps his great plateau,
Flushed with trumph yet to gain,
Came down the serried foe;
Who heard the thunder of the fray Break o'er the field beneath, Knew well the watch-word of that day Was Victory or Death!

Like the fierce northern hurricane

Full many a norther's breath has swept O'er Angestura's plain,
And long the priving sky has swept
Above its mouldered slain.
The raven's scream, or eagle's flight,
Or shepherd's pensive lay,
Alone now wakes each solemn height
That frowned o'er that dread fray.

Sone of Dark and Bloody Ground!
Ye must not slumber there,
Where stranger steps and tongues resound.
Along the heedless and
Your own proud land's heroic sell. Shall be your fitter grave; She claime from wer its richest spoils-The ashes of her brave.

Thus, 'neath their parent turf the rest,
Far from the gory field;
Borne to a Spartan mother's breast
On many a bloody shield.
The sunstine of their native sky Smiles sadly on them here, And kindred eyes and hearts watch by

Rest ou, embalmed and sainted dead,
Dear as the blood ye gave!
No impious footstep here shall tread
The herbage of your grave;
Nor shall your glory be forgot
While Fame her record keeps,
Or Honor points the hallowed spot
Where valor proudly eleeps.

You marble minstrel's voiceless stone In deathless song shall tell. When many a vanished year n The story how ve fell. Nor, wreck, nor change nor winter's blight, Nor Time's remorseless doom, Can dim one ray of holy light

That gilds you: glorious tomb. -Theodore O'Hara.

Special to The Warder.

Special to the Warder. New York, Dec. 19.—Erastus Wiman to day said that the defeat of the reciprocity candidate at the election in South Victoria, yesterday was a blow in the eyes for the cause of reciprocity between the United States and Canada. Both Tories and Liberals had made up their minds to regard this contest as an indication of what might be the outcome of the general parliamentary election next year. The chief cause of defeat, however, was the fact that there has not been the slightest indication on the part of the United States toward encouraging reciprocity arrangements. If Congress should pass the Sherman-Hitt reciprocity resolution which applies to Canada the whole aspect of the reciprocity question in Canada would change.

To Mr. and Mrs. Irwin and family,

Dear Friends,—We have met at your for the beyonder and energetic organizer of the Liberal-Conservative party, Mr. Robert Birmingham, here last Friday evening. Mr. Birmingham, who has made hosts of friends by his gentlemanly demeasor while in South Victorias, was drawn from the hotel to the G.T.R. station to night in what is known as the "Deadwood Coach." The vehicle was dragged by the members of the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association. In the coach were: Dr. V. C. Cornwall, of Omemee, Robert Birmingham, John Doussa, J. H. Sootheran and F. D. Moore. After three ringing cheers and a tiger, Mr. Birmingham bade his many friends farewell and returned to Toronto.

The people of South Victoria owe Mr. Birmingham a debt of gratitude for many past kindnesses shown by him, and he will always find a hearty welcome in this district. The name of the coach is significant of the contest last Thursday. "Bob" had the "deadwood" on the Gritz every time. Sefore leaving three shearty cheers were given for Mr. Charles Fairboarn, the member leet. [The editor of The Warder was at Kinmount and regrets missing the fun.
