A curious instance of trading with wives is reported in the newspaper Kavkaz of Tiffis. In the village of Zadroba a peasant by the name of Goosein married a good-looking young woman. A few weeks later his neighbor, Kerimoff, offered to buy his wife from him. He was satisfied to sell her for cost price if Kerimoff would pay him 150 roubles which he had spenton his wedding. The bargain was made. Goosein signed a paper renouncing all his rights on the woman, and Kerimoff took her to his home. Two weeks later the woman disappeared Moved by R. Adam, seconded by F.
