Ceaseless Toilers For Trade.

ENTERPRISE AND ENERGY ARE A GOOD TEAM

GOUGH BROTHERS

Are with you in the Clothing Trade. They are here to shatter old values, to fracture old foggy notions about Clothing, to open the eyes of the buyers of Goods, to show the people how much a dollar will return them when expended with men who know their business of sellers, and know you know yours as buyers.

WE ARE ANXIOUS TO PLEASE. WE ARE ALWAYS SQUARE. WE GROW BETTER AND BETTER. WE ARE SATISFIED WITH SMALL PROFITS.

Throw aside your ideas that Ready-made Clothing is not what it should be. We know it is. We know that style, fit and finish are as much a part of our Goods as of the best tailor-made garments. Capital, skill and enterprise have made Ready-made Clothing the equal of the best.

Hustle here! Hustle with us! We'll hustle too! Our goods must be hustled! We'll pay you to do your share of the hustling!

We have turned into our Store a new Plum picked up at Headquarters. $65,000 Worth of Clothing that we are selling at actual Wholesale Cost

COME ONE, COME ALL. THESE GOODS MUST FLY.

HIGINBOTHAM'S.

BOWMANVILLE, June 3rd, 1892.
MR. W. W. LOGAN, Lindsay:

DEAR SIR,—Referring to your inquiry, re rumor in your locality about our Company, we beg to say that we are now putting up quite an addition to our factory, and have made contracts for lumber for several years in advance. We are sending a traveller to Australia and Germany to open up and increase our trade there.

We have lately put in about $6,000 worth of new machinery, and have gotten out new patents and patterns for pianos, and have increased the number of men in our employ. Our goods will not only be the best but the cheapest according to quality in the market.

We have no hesitation in saying that long after the present generation have passed away the Dominion Organ and Piano Co. will continue to sell the best instruments in the world.

Yours truly, D. O. & P. CO'Y,
W. McKay, Sec'y.

Banquet to the Grand Orange Lodge, at Montreal.

Major Samuel Hughes, M.P., N. Clark Wallace, M.P., and E. F. Clarke, M.P.P., responded to the toasts proposed at the Montreal banquet. Below is a synopsis of the speeches:—

The toast of the "Dominion and Provincial Legislatures" was responded to by Major Samuel Hughes, M.P., and as he spoke he looked the same old Sam Hughes as he did when he crossed lacrosse sticks with the valiant champions of the Montreal teams years ago, before he was Major. He spoke of British institutions and of their foundations. The British Parliament previous to the time of William III. would not bear comparison with that of a later period. "We celebrate the battle of the Boyne not simply because it was a victory, but because that victory secured the civil and religious liberty we now enjoy. It was not a purely Protestant victory. Roman Catholics sided with William in the cause and for the principles which were fought for on that occasion." He spoke of the early struggles on the continent; in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, when thousands and tens of thousands of Frenchmen fell for the cause of Protestantism: "We remember William III. especially because he fought for the principles of individual liberty, which brought civil and religious liberty. William was not always lucky in his battles, but even his defeats BROUGHT WEAKNESS TO THE ENEMY.

Some people nowadays scoff at the idea of commemorating the victories of William, but "Old Derry walls" and "No surrender" tell a story that has a great deal more in it than those people think. Had William III. lost the Boyne public opinion would have gone against him; James would have been placed on the throne and the liberty which they fought for would not have been enjoyed for, perhaps, a hundred years later. The people then fought for their principles and in the North of Ireland, which is known as the cradle of Orangism, these principles are as strong as ever. Religious bigotry controlled the North of Ireland, and thousands of Protestants were murdered in cold blood. The North of Ireland is and was the backbone of the British Army. He referred to the brave deeds of the Irish regiments in the great European wars. The Major then branched off into politics, and referred to Lord Salisbury's recent speech against home rule and for the union of the empire. If the gates of Derry had not been closed Lord Salisbury would never have made this speech. He advised the Montreal members to carry the war into Africa, and to extend and promulgate their principles: "Make the people here acquainted with the principles of the order, so that they would be made

READER AND KETTER MEN.
He hoped the day was not far distant when the Orangemen would walk in the streets of Montreal as freely as they do in Toronto; not in defiance of other races and creeds, but by the right of a more liberal public opinion. He was satisfied that the Frenchmen here, as in old France, would walk hand in hand with them in the enfranchisement of the inhabitant.

"The Grand Lodge of British America" was responded to by Mr. Clark Wallace, M.P. He congratulated the Montreal members and the ladies present on the manner in which they showed their sympathy for the Orange order. When he considered past events in Montreal he was more than pleased, and was proud of the reception and the banquet. It was gratifying to see that the intense bitterness which had distinguished Montreal was passing away, and he hoped to see the day when the principles of the order would be sufficiently well known to sweep it altogether away. The order was advancing. In the high offices of the land members of the order were to be seen. Those present might feel proud that they were Orangemen and Canadian citizens. They had come from the West without fear because deep in their hearts were the principles of Orangism, dearer than life. It was for these principles that the Derry Boys shut the gates. "While we follow the principles of Orangism, the same to-day as they were then. Orangism will never die out. Our duty is to preach loyalty to our country, to the old land which we are so proud to form a part of, and to the British Empire, the greatest the world has ever seen." He was proud of the Montreal Orangemen, and also proud of the boys who bravely marched along St. James street to that hall. They had been placed under a ban in this city, but they need not be so any longer. The Hon. Edward Blake had said that the ban had been removed by the passage of the incorporation act of the Orange Order in the Dominion Parliament. They were as free now as in any part of the Dominion. They were ascending the scale of the estimation of the people of Canada by a manly, straightforward course, and by an open, honest advocacy of their principles. Why should Orangemen be interfered with? They were British subjects. "We wish to pursue our own way without offending any one, but we are not going to give up our principles for any one." He spoke of the advantages of Canada. It had everything to build up a great country, and it was going to do it.

Mr. E. F. Clark, M.P.P., was the next speaker. He paid a flattering tribute to the Orangemen of Montreal for holding true to the principles of the institution. It was gratifying to notice that the evidence of intense bitterness and hostility of former years was passing away. It was owing to the ignorance of the principles of the order on the part of Protestants, as well as Roman Catholics in this city, that the prejudice against it has been so great. Orangism is not dying out. Its principles are immortal and eternal, and can never die. There was nothing in Orangism that did not mean fair play and equal rights to all creeds and classes. The order is progressing. From one end of the Dominion to the other, progress is the watch-word, progress is the order of the day. In every city, town and hamlet, there are Orange lodges, and people are waking up to the principles of the order. Tolerance is the foundation principle of the order. "Brethren, be constant, be persistent, but be tolerant." If there was more Orangism, it would be better for the country. The annexation feeling has no existence in the ranks of the Association.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.
Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of a dry root and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it 2500 cents a package.—15-ly

Stock Notes.

Thoroughbred 2 year old bull for service, Sir Roger, (18408) Dominion S.H.H.B., is a dark red with rich yellow hide, was bred by R. Readdy, Linden Valley, now on the property of his present owner, A. F. Smith, lot 20, concession 6, Eldon. Out of 35 cows last year only two were returned and all have or will calve.—35-4.

Salvation Army Notes.

One of the best excursions of the season will leave the Lindsay street wharf for Bobcaygeon at 8.30 a.m. on Tuesday next. Remarkable success has attended everything the Army has undertaken lately, and this excursion promises to prove no exception. Every arrangement for the convenience of those who attend has been made. A vehicle will meet the boat and convey the baskets to the Park where hot and cold water will be provided. After lunch a meeting will be held, led by D. O'Shane of Toronto. This is announced as a farewell excursion as the present officers expect to leave shortly for another field of labor. Everyone who has been benefited directly or indirectly by the Army should buy at least one ticket. Come, expecting a pleasant and profitable time. Tickets 25 and 15 cents. See posters for further particulars.

Back-Ache.

Back-ache is caused by sick kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills will remove it. By their peculiar action on the kidneys they impart activity and benefit the system by purifying the blood. You cannot have pure blood with disordered kidneys; health's existence depends upon their natural condition; they are the governors of the system, continual disorder results in kidney consumption, which is Bright's disease.
