"Possibilities of the Country En- gives to the field a discouraging out-look, deavor Societies."

By Miss P. G. Allin, Little Britain. Are there grand possibilities before the we not through the earnest and untiring Christian Endeavor societies of our towns and cities, which in the past God has blest so marvelously? We think equally great are before those which exist or may exist in the quiet of the country, where young people possessing real christian enthusiasm, which has a due sense of the fitness of things, are endeavoring under wise and kindly guidance to lift mankind heavenwards, will not God continue to bless every endeavorer marching under the banner, whose motto "For Christ and the Church" has already now an honored name in religious history.

After careful and prayful consideration regarding the possibility of an Endeavor Society in the country, a meeting is called tor organization. But, as the small handtul of active workers is viewed how discouraging the prospect appears, and how small seem the possibilities of advance-ment. There are, perhaps, enough active members to form only one or two committees; but, discouraged one, the work is God's, He will not allow it to suffer loss, but desires that we should be co-workers with Him in leading weary souls to Himself.

Our work should not be confined to our endeavor meeting alone. Have you thought of those old people who once loved to meet in God's house, but being aged and infirm are now deprived of that privilege? How much they would enjoy having a number of young people spend an hour in prayer and praise with them.

Their pathway would be very much brightened, while to those who lent the cheer would come the assurance of their Master's approval even in this present

During the winter months sleigh parties could be sometimes formed, when young people with singing books and hearts tull of kindness might call at different homes, then away, never failing to persuade each home that we are Christian Endeavorers and love to work for our Master.

You will pardon me for referring to our own society just here, but to tell something of the work done will be but wife is visiting their daughter, Mrs. Jas. something of the work done will be but Hobbs. also Mr. A. The two families we hear are ing committees at the time of organizagoing to spend the fore part of this summer visiting friends both in Cartwright prove most beneficial to our society we scorned the idea of a flower committee, who in the country had flowers with which to embellish our church and what other use had we for them. But through THE farmers of this vicinity have at the influence of our President the comgood resulting from it through the past year will never be fully known.

Boquets were carried to the sick, turning the thoughts of the sufferer from the physical pain to the hand that created such beautiwas very ill, nearing death's shore. She was not prepared for the change awaiting her but would not talk about death, so much did she want to live. Our flower committee sent her a boquet together with a scripture verse which touched her heart as nothing else had done. Over and over again she read the words "The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear Him and delivereth them. O taste and see that the Lord is good." and when those who were so anxious about ber soul called again, she seemed so changed. Death had lost its sting tor she had tasted and found that the Lord was good, and as the end drew near she welcomed death with joy, glad to ex-change her earthly for a better heavenly

We speak of country life as affording God's greatest blessing that of perfect health, but—death has taken from our ranks during the past year, two active workers. In both instances our society sent floral offerings and also a letter of condolence to the bereaved friends. Useless, some might say, but had you seen the look of joy and appreciation in the faces of those sad hearted parents you would no longer say it was of no avail and were we not better and truer christians for having forgotten self in our en-deavor to throw one little gleam of sun-shine across the pathway of those who felt so keenly the loss of a loved one.
