Cure, Failure Impossible.

Many so-called diseases are simply symptoms of Oatarh, such as head-acae, partial dearness, losing sense of smell, foul breath, hawking and spliting, nauses, general feeling of debility, etc. If you are troubled with any of these or kindred symptoms, your have Catarth, and should lose no time in procuring a bottle of Nasal Balm. Be warned in time, neglected cold in head results in Catarth, followed by consumption and death.

Special to The Warder. FAREWELL.—The Kev. J. F. Mears on land to be got on easy terms, and will be Sunday last preached his farewell sermon in lots of it for the next ten years to come. the methodist church here. It was marked by earnestness and may be said to have been one of the most instructive as well as impressive sermons we have had the pleasure of beartug for many days. His text was Heb. 12th chap., 1st verse. He explained how the Apostle had probably attended a race, i.e., witnessed one, and had compared it to the race of life towards the "goal of christian perfection;" for which the prize is Heaven. He explained how certain Olympian youths had been in the habit of running these races and how they had laid aside every graint and how they had laid aside every weight and impediment to their progress. He particularly dwelt on the fact that we should not keep the prize so much in view as the goal, viz., christian character, which of course would receive the prize. These Olympian youths had a great many witnesses about them; so have we, viz., our children, our neighbors, the church, and the departed friends who 'look down from the battlements of Heaven" to see if we will win the race or lose it; "for it is with us a race of life and death" and in which we must throw saids all weights and sins that hinder our progress. He particularly exhorted the congregation to fight against their respective besetting sins, of men. Well, Mr. Editor, I think I whatever they might be and urged them to press forward to the highest attainments of christian excellence.

COBOCONK.

To the Editor of The Warder. DEAR SIR, -In following the course taken by Sir Richard Cartwright and his following threshing to do are anxious to get it done, in the House of Commons at Ottawa during the last, and the present session, and also threshing, some of the stacks are half listening to Sir Richard's speeches from the rotten. I know four farmers who threshed public platforms, wherein prior to the last trom one day to a day and a half and bye elections he made use of the following then stopped as they could not sell the outrageous expressions: — Mr. Chairman, Ladie: and Gentlemen,—"If I had the power, and was asked to choose as to whether I would prefer a national policy for Canada, or have war, or pestilence or famine," (Mr. Editor, just mark these last three words), continuing Sir Richard said:—"Mr. Chairman, f would acorpt war pestilence and famine altogether, in preference."

I thought when I heard him say these words that in some mysterious way, known only to himself, that he had waylaid one or all of the seven angels (spoken of in Revela-tions) and stolen from them the seven last plagues which were filled up with the wrath of God. But it might be that he was left in charge and thus came honestly by them. This at all events, would be his line of argu-

This at all events, would be his line of argument if he was charged with burglary.

But to my mind, his course throughout compares most favorably with the definition given by a Greek author, of the word "Envy" which is as follows:—

"A poisonous morsel in her teeth she chewed, And seized the dish of vipers for her food, Minerva, loathing, turned away her eye; The hideous moneter rising heavily.

Came stalking forward with a sullen face And left her mangled offals, on the place.

Soon as she saw the goodness gay and bright She fetched a groap, at such a cheerful sight, Livid and meagre were her looks, Her eye, in foul distorted glances turned away. A hoard of gall her inward parts possessed, And spread a greenness, o'er her cankered breast; Her teeth were brown with rust, and from her In dangling drops the stringy poison hung. She never smiles, but when the wretched

Nor lulis her malice with a moment's sleep, Restless in spite, while watchful to destroy, She pines and sickens at another's joy. For to herself, distressing and distressed,

She bears her own tormentor in her b.east.
What a terrible and distressing thought it is when you find a constituency so enslaved, as to elect such a bitter representative. It is enough to make a civilized people quake with fear when they find such men making, or at all assisting in the framing of our laws. But the glorious second thought comes when we remember that such men as Sir John Thomoson are on the lead, and reminds one of an incident which occurred on ship board during a heavy storm, when an old sailor asked a small boy if he was afraid, and his answer was, (as ours,) "My father's at the helm."

Can I Afford a New Dress?

Thousands of ladies are continually asking themselves this question, and many of them find it difficult to satisfactorily answer it. The lady who has but an ordinary incomto depend upon for the maintenance of house and family, is apt to debate long upon this important question before a final resolve is made. Even should the way seem clear to warrant such an item of expends ure, regrets

At the present time Black dresses are fashionable for the best dressed ladies. Old and young—the blonde and brunetts, always look stylish when wearing a neatly made Black dress. Let us strongly recommend you to take what you now call,—'imy old, soiled and faded light-colored Cashmere, Serge, Soleil Cloth, or Nun's Cloth dress" and buy a package or two of Fast Black Diamond Dye for Wool fallow closely the discontinuous control of the colored transfer of the colored tra Wool, follow closely the directions, and with very little trouble and loss of time, and for an expense of from ten to twenty cents, you will have a lovely, rich Black dress, equal to new, and the satisfaction of knowing that you have saved a snug amount of money. If you have never tried this operation before, rest assured your work, and the results, will agreeably While engaged at the pleasant work of home dyeing, remember the fact that, you may also do some work for the "Diamond Dye Competition," in which large cash prizes are offered.
