

Feed a Cold with SCOTT'S EMULSION

Yes, but feed it with Scott's Emulsion. Feeding the cold kills it, and no one can afford to have a cough or cold, acute and leading to consumption, lurking around him.

A union of hearts and a union of hands A union none can sever; A union of homes and a union of lands And the flag, BRITISH UNION, forever.

LINDSAY LADIES AND THE MARKET

Those Lindsay ladies who regularly make a practice of purchasing their butter, eggs, chickens and other small products from farmers at the market speak in the highest terms of their transactions.

The anti-Home Rule meeting the night following was addressed by Rev. Alex. Outhbert of Belfast, Ireland, Mr. McCostigan of Cork, Ireland, Mr. Joseph Oulbert of Coleraine, Ireland, N. C. Wallace, M.P., E. D. Armour, Jas. L. Hughes, Rev. Stuart Aheson, James Beatty, Q.C., Right Rev. Bishop Campbell, Rev. Mr. Cookburn and others.

The absence of anything like cheating or being cheated is also a most commendable feature of the market. The farmers there selling, and the townfolk purchasing are all honorable. Very few are the complaints heard of sharp practice on either side.

"SEND FOR THE CLERGYMAN." "While life's dark mass I tread, And griefs around me spread, Be Thou my guide."

When one falls seriously ill now-a-days, the first expression with many persons is "Send for the clergyman." On the way back it is usual to call for the doctor. This weak practice is growing very largely among protestants. It has always prevailed among and been part of the rule of Roman Catholics.

But with "protestants" it is consistent? Protestant doctrine has for foundation plank there being no human mediator between God and man. Therefore, the intervention of a clergyman at any time except as an act of neighborly love and friendship, is entirely contrary to the principles of that faith.

depths of his heart "God be merciful to me a sinner!" Some clergymen visiting sick-beds ply the sufferer with such questions as "Have you given your heart to the Lord?" "Do you not feel yourself a poor weak miserable sinner?" and others of that class.

Kind words, loving acts, cheering expressions towards the dying are proper from anyone; but each should be careful not to don the garments of the founder of the "Golden Rule." Let all be careful not to model after the priestcraft, which is one of the few remaining relics of pre-historic days.

A REQUEST TO THE TORONTO GLOBE. The Toronto Globe of Wednesday last among other unfounded stuff says: "In North Victoria such promises (of government expenditure of money) were made to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars."

Will the Globe kindly state one instance where even one cent much less one dollar was promised? Why, we did not even refer to any government work, not even the Trent Valley Canal.

SIR JOHN ABBOTT'S ILLNESS. The illness and indisposition of Premier Abbott continues, and his physicians urgently demand his voluntary retirement from the active operations of life.

HOME RULE AND ANTI-HOME RULE. Two monster meetings have been held in Toronto this week on the questions Home Rule and Anti-Home Rule in Ireland.

The Home Rule meeting was addressed by Hon. E. Blake, Hon. John Costigan, Hon. Frank Smith, Hon. A. S. Hardy, Mr. Bryan Lynch and others. Their tune was whistled for the anti-British Irish element.

JAS. GLENDENNING AGAIN NOMINATED

The conservatives of North Ontario in convention in Cammington last week again nominated James Glendenning to be their standard bearer for the Legislative Assembly of Ontario.

There was a large attendance and all united on Mr. Glendenning. There is no doubt whatever of his re-election by a large majority; but for all that neither the candidate nor the liberal conservatives themselves will relax their zeal and earnestness.
