For Bronchitis

"I never realized the good of a medicine so much as I have in the last few moaths, during which time I have suffered intensely from pneumonia, followed by bronchitis. After trying various remedies without benefit, I began the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and the effect has been marvelous, a single dose relieving me of choking, and securing a good night's rest."—T. A. Higginbotham, Gen. Store, Long Mountain, Va.

La Grippe

"Last Spring I was taken down with a grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breath seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

Lung Trouble

"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the poroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured. I can confidently recommend this medicine."—Franz Hofmann, Clay Centre, Kans.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 80, 1892. The Charge of the Twenty-Seven

As eighty-seven was rolling in With corner, drum and tambourine, To sing the praises of their King The mishty Lord of Heaven. And rescae those poor sinking souls Whom Saten by his art condoles. To lieger till the thunder rolls.
Out marched the twenty seven.

On they march a dauntless train, Singing a most solemn strain, Never habing to complain, They charge the foe right well. Rosring mob to right of them, Roseing mob to left of them, Roaring mob on every side, How horrible to tell!

Now the fight goes madly on, Loudly peals the gospel gun, No one daring now to run, Timid Christians wondered. Hot and hard the battle grew, Who would win ? ah ! no one knew. Firmly stood the faithful few.

Sceptics howled and blundered. Brave Captain Smith in command, Officers and army band, Yielding to the ruthless hand, The army was out-numbered. Shouting crowds in front of them, So using crowds behind them, Shou ing crowds on every side, Satau's soldiers thundered. Carried off by brutal away.

Carried off on New Year's Day, Carried to a cell to pray, Were the twenty-seven. Halited in that small recess. Feeble ones in great distress, Yes knowing that their King would bless Every heir of heaven.

And storcard at by ornel fors, Still praying for each one of those, That they should be forgiven. When the battle field is won, May they are und the great white throne Meet the twenty seven.

Though stormed at with oruel blows,

Yield ye not to Satan's plan, Cower not when signers scan, Obey your leader every man, For daty must be done. March through every street in town, Capture every sinful one,
Naver lay your waspons down
Till the victory's won.

Commamorate your noble charge, Caristian duties well discharge. Than the signer will enlarge

The ranks of the twenty-seven. Life najvation's banner high, Lift the fallen ere they die, Your reward is in the sky

Noble twenty-seven. E. E. SHARPE.

For Swellings and Felons. GENCLEMEN. - My little girl, aged 3, had a large swelling on her neck. I used Hagyards Yellow Oil on it and it dieappeared in a short time. It also cared a felon I was troubled with. Mrs. C. E. WENDOVER. Manda, Man. -65 3.

Dr. Richardson on Tobacco. The following is taken from a speed nade by Dr. Richardson, at Exeter Hal London, on the occasion of starting Society for the Suppression of Javeni

It is frequently said that if tobacc were very hurtful the doctors would no use it. But most of them begin to use before they become doctors. When the know it to be bad they sometimes say "I do not expect to live out haif of m days anyway, out I do not want my so ever to have occasion to struggle with th

That shows that these doctors as usually no braver than other peop when it comes to a question of self deni or breaking up a bad habit which has a firm hold on them. But they often acknowledge that if they were free from the habit they would not take it up. That is a good hint to the boys who are free, not to begin. But there are exceptions, and one of the noblest is that of Dr. B. work in showing up the bad effects of elcohol. He did not write very strongly On further inquiry, it was found he was against tobacco until he gave it up. Now that he has given it up, this is what he

"In my earlier life I was not a smoker; I went through all the arduous work of a be free from the vile habit." medical audent by being present at the operations in large hospitals, in studying tem rooms and in fever hospitals, and I never smoked, though I went through my work with great facility. Later on I learned to smoke, and continued to do so for many years. The whole of that time I was dyspeptic from smoking. At length I resolved to give it up. It was hard work to do so, but I eventually succeeded, and have never been more thankful than for the day on which it was accomplished. I gave up wine, beer, and every other alcoholic drink with infinitely less trouble. the day on which it was accomplished. I gave up wine, beer, and every other alcoholic drink with infinitely less trouble than smoking. It is very difficult indeed o abandon this pernicious habit. I sm informed by jail surgeons that their prisoners crave tobacco far more than anything else they are deprived of, which shows that the habit is one which is very nveterate when once established.

"Smoking is to a certain extent con-nected with drinking. I admit there are many who are exceptions to this, for I could name some friends of mine who are engaged in very active work in the tem perance cause, and yet are smokers.

They are so strong minded as to keep from the sicohol. But we often find that when a man smokes, he has a desire for alcohol to relieve him of the sinking sensation which the tobacco produces. While smoking has not the same injurious effect upon the system as drinking, it produces a disease which is functional in it character. Persons who smoke, experience a faintness, followed by nausea, which alcoholie drinks often allay. On this point I can speak from personal experience. I should have been led into the field of otal abstinence five years before I was, had it not been for the smoking habit which I had contracted.

"Tobacco stops the proper working of the digestive powers; it causes an irregular circulation, so that there is not a correct distribution of blood; and it deranges the whole nervous system. If it were a fact that all our young women and young men were to smoke, and continue the habit until they became fathers and mothers, their offspring would be so stunted and little as to be thoroughly incapable of carrying out the duties required by our generation.
We cannot praise our mothers too much for the fact that they have not become smokers. They have conferred a boon upon us by this forfeiture of indulgence, of which we cannot speak with too much earnestness and warmth; and now, happily, we find men who can efficiently carry out a movement which is absolutely needed. We feel ashamed when we walk along our streets, and see boys of tender age using the pipe; and more so when we find friends of Temperance and hard workers in that cause saying, It you cannot drink, you may smoke; that will do you no harm."

from the use of tobacco. Dr. Drysdale examine: 200 smokers who were patients of the Metropolitan hospital, and he found many who complained of habitual constipation, often alternated with diarrhoea and various other forms of dyspepsia, sometimes with emaciation. Dr. Hardwicke says, after much observation, that he thinks no one who smokes is perfectly healthy. They may say they is perfectly healthy. They may say they are, but if you get into conversation with them. you will find them complaining inquired the doctor.

"How long have you smoked tobacco?"

"I have never smoked very much till of late, but I have chewed the article ever since I was sixteen years old." "How old are you now, sir ?"

"Thirty three."

He had consequently used the weed about seventoen years.
