Cleanliness and Lindsay Market.

To the Editor of The Warder SIR, -With your permission I would like to draw the attention of the ladies of Lindsay and surrounding country for a short time while I ask, do you like good butter, when I imagine I can hear both loud and shrill why yes, yes, of course we do.

Well then go into Lindsay market any Saturday and the minute you enter the door you can spet a clean butter maker by the look of her clean basket and snow white towels, and on the other hand if you see a person with a dirty looking backet and pieces of old cotton over her butter you may teel sure she is not very particular at home. We think there is no excuse for either dirty baskets or towels, for soap is cheap and water free, and if we cannot have a new one we can have our old ones clean, for what is so easily tainted as good butter, or what is so nice when properly made Now perhaps you will think I am a town bug wanting to find fault, which is not so. 1 am a farmers wife and one who sells butter on Lindsay market, and many a time I have been disgusted with the sppearance of some butter coming into the market, but we are glad to state that the resjority of farmers wives are clean butter makere. Now a word to your town people, when you go to buy butter certainly you want to taste it, well above all don't scrape a piece out with your thumb neil if the lady has not a knife with her butter, take a piece of silver and confine yourself to a small taste, I will just here tell you why I say small taste

As I was uncovering my butter in the market on a certain day I observed a gentleman coming along tasting every ones butter as he cam, when he stepped up to my basket with a very polite good morning mam as he flourished his knife into one of my rolls of butter and took out a piece nearly as big as half a thimble, tasted it, stood a minute, and then remarked, it is very good Mrs., it is excellent, and was about to pass on when I asked him if he would not buy that roll, for I said 16 ounces make one pound. I am now going to ask a question, and I would like some one interested to answer it

We have been told on several different occasions while in Lindszy that the gracerymen sell butter all week at the market figures and when Saturday our market day comes they drop their prices 1 and 2 cents to kill our market, now Mr Editor is it true, is it fair, or is their no remedy for it. We know that we have one of the best market clerks Lindsay ever could boast of. I will now close Mr. Editor by thanking you for the valuable space afforded me. Yours respectfully.

Mesers. Kennedy, Taylor, Deacon, Mac-Gachen, and Sam Hughes M.P, were appoint. ed a railway committee. The question of increased fire protection for the town and its bearing upon the cost of insurance was discussed at some length. The following is the President's address :-To the members of the Lindsay Board of Trade: GENTLEMEN, -In accordance with the usual custom at your annual meetings it devolves year just closed, and to make a few observa-tions that may be of interest to the Board. Yeur Board has now been six years in exist-ence, and those who, like myself, have been actively associated with it since its establishment are well aware of the important part the Board has taken in furthering the various undertakings in which the town has been interested during that period. In all the local improvements and other matters that have had an important bearing upon the growth | for printing for the eneming year. and prosperity of the town, you have lent your assistance and advice; and the cordial manner in which the town council has on various tution to the community. MONDAY, February 20 h. Present the Mayor, reeve Kylie, deputy reeve Crandell, councillors Head, Lovell, Tully, Johnston, Touchbourn, Mailon, Bryan and Keith. The Mayor informed the council that a deputation from the committee appointed last week at the meeting held to raise a fund for the widow and family of the late John Mark of Fenelon, were in attendance, and suggested that they be heard before the regular ousiness of the council was entered upon, as one of the deputation, Rev. Mr. Ware, had another engagement. The suggestion of his worship was assented to, when the Rev. Mr. Ware read the memorial prepared by the committee, supporting the prayer of the memorial, asking for aid from the council, in a brief but elequent speech, followed by Mr. R. J McLeughlin the other member of the deputation. The Mayor assured the deputation that their representations would be considered by the council in due course, when the deputation withdrew.

The following communications were read:-From Thomas Welters, thanking the council or appointing him on the board of directors of the Midlat d railway company. Fyed.
From J. R. McNeillie, chairman of the board of education, asking for the report of the truant officer. At a later stage of the meeting the clerk was directed to forward the report. From D. Brown and others asking for an electric light on the corner of William and
