THE TORONTO TELEGRAM APOL.

The colored editor of the Toronto Telegram, so long engaged in slandering decent men, has finally been brought to book and made apologise by W. McLean, M. P., editor of the loronto World. THE WARDER and its editor have long enjoyed the favor of the puppy's vituperation; of the Telegram will, however, now doubtless place the editor referred to at some congenial employment such as cleaning the cellar and closets.

I treated the animal accordingly for this complaint when it had relief in an hour and a half after treatment. Being suddenly called away on business to attend a sick mare in the country, and returning home at the appointed time I found Dr. Kenny treating my patient for congestion of the lungs. DEAR SIR,-I noticed an article your paper signed by W. Kenny, V.S., making some very erroneous statements in regard to the sickness of the horse "Canadian Star," that I was called to see at Veitch's hotel, Lindsay. I was called up by Dr. Nasmith to come immediately to decide a dispute. I, as a disinterested party, am bound to say that I knew absolutely nothing about the case till my arrival at the stable. I questioned G. H. Curtis as to the sympoms of the complaint, and after thoroug examining the horse I at once diagnose statements, I made the offer to take it in the yard and shoot it, and if it proved to be congestion of the lungs I would pay for the horse and providing Dr. Kenny was wrong he would stand the loss, and

I received no answer to my challenge.

I also made a suggestion to write down the symptoms and send them to Prof.

A. Smith of Toronto for examination and A. Smith of Toronto for examination and see his reply, but he did not accept my offer. It undoubtedly east a reflection upon both Dr. Broad and myself as to our professional knowledge. And I can safely substantiate that Dr. Broad's treatment was perfectly right and the same as I would have treated the animal myself had I been called in to attend it. I am surprised that Dr. Kenny, while knowing that he was in the wrong should be so unprincipled as to insinuate that honor should come to him to whom ne honor is due. DE. E. T. WILLIAMS.

Dr. Frank Adams, professor of McGill college, Montreal, obliges the Dominton Government in devoting some months annually to the discovering of Canada's Then the course led down Black River valley past Steen's, McCutcheon's, Kehoe's, and other localities, all of which received notice. Then Dr. Adams and Mr. Cole made for Sebright and thence along the Monck Road past Dartmoor, to their camping ground. They thus made the entire circuit of Dalton, besides several side visits and inspections in one day. Many traces of ore, especially iron, were seen but not sufficient to be exciting. As Dr. Adams did not reach camp until sleven o'clock at night we did not meet him until morning. Digby was to be examined this week, and also Dalton more in detail.
