

For Scrofula

"After suffering for about twenty-five years from scrofulous sores on the legs and arms, trying various medical courses without benefit, I began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and a wonderful cure was the result. Five bottles sufficed to restore me to health."—E. H. B. Jones, 105 E. Commerce st., San Antonio, Texas.

Catarrh

"My daughter was afflicted for nearly a year with catarrh. The physician being unable to help her, my pastor recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I followed his advice. Three months of regular treatment with Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills completely restored my daughter's health."—Louise Rielle, Little Canada, Ware, Mass.

Rheumatism

"For several years, I was troubled with inflammatory rheumatism, which had at times to be entirely helpless. For the last two years, whenever I feel the effects of the disease, I begin to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and have not had a spell for a long time."—E. T. Hansbrough, Elk Run, Va.

FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1893

"Far off Hills Look Green."

By a Collegiate Institute Student.

It was over a selfishly-ostentatious corner, with its comfortable couch wheeled close to the fire, and the soft red curtains slanting out all sound from the outer world. Selfish, horribly selfish, for everything here bespoke beauty and ease, and we wanted none of "the still, sad music of humanity" intruding, like a spectre at a feast. And, tonight it is doubly cosy; for, without the wind sobbing and moaning like some weeping, wandering spirit, and bursting into a wild, demoniac shriek, it rushes down the street scattering straggling sleds from its sombre pinions, and freezing to the very marrow the homeless, homeless, street waifs.

We are not heartless, but we don't care to think of the outside world, so we sink deeper into the luxurious cushions and turn to our dreams mid the bright, red embers. How many of the dreary hours of gloaming we had spent building the airy, fairy nothing that crumbled to the ruins at the first breath of reality! Here we had viewed the world through Utopian glasses, and had drawn sunny-tinted pictures of what we would do in the future. Slowly, yet surely, we would climb the ladder of success, and while the world resounded with laudations on our name, we would turn from it all, to help our fellow men. O! how we would help them. The hungry would be fed, the poor clothed and the homeless housed. And in return they would regard us as some good angel, and breathe our name with soft reverential tones. Yes! when once the top-most rung had been reached magnanimously by all the pomp and vanities of fame would be renounced to work among the poor.

Surely the picture was fair, fair as an angel's dream; but the bright picture faded away and instead—it was mid-winter and we stood on the cold snow-covered street with the bitter wind howling about us. Opposite was a handsome grey-stone church with its beautiful windows, rich in tracery and fairy etching. A woman, clad in this worn garment of sorrow, stood at the portals, and as she raised her pallid, pinched face, we started back involuntarily. She was the same one who had begged so piteously, only this evening for shelter, and we had gathered about our skirts, dropped a few pennies in the thin, attenuated hand, and hastened back to our couch and our dreams. Somehow we knew that she had wandered from house to house asking for shelter, but every door was closed against her. And now she stood before the church, where she had spent so many of her childhood hours, hours of which she could have said:

"The time when I remember to have been joyous, and free from blame." While the good doctor had preached long, dry sermons she had dreamed her dreams by the side of a fond, proud mother. Day-dreams? Why, yes. She had day-dreams. She had planned to become famous. O, what a grand, good woman she would be! How her country women would call down blessings on her name!

But "far-away hills look green" he they never so barren, and now she stood within her native town; and her country-women wrapped their cloaks more closely about them and hurried by, while the once proud and fond mother had long since gone broken-hearted to her eternal rest.

Slowly up the cold stone steps she staggered and then sank wearily on the top-most one. Suddenly a burst of low sweet music fell on the air, and as she listened to the old familiar words the cold was forgotten, in the sweet melody of the invisible choristers.

Come ye sinners, poor and needy, Weak and wounded, sick and sore; Jesus ready stands to save you, Full of pity, love, and power: He is able, He is willing; doubt no more.

Come, ye weary, heavy-laden, Bruised and mangled by the fall;

If you tarry till your better, You will never come at all; Not the righteous, — Sinners, Jesus came to call.

As the last words fell on her ear a light of celestial beauty passed over the face, and the weary, heavy-laden one had passed into rest.

We awoke with a start. It was morning, and nothing but cold grey ashes lay on the earth. "True emblem of our day-dreams" we thought as we saw it. Then some one came in and told us—about a poor frozen woman had been found on the steps of our church.

We turned away with a shudder and that evening among the cushions we pondered the words:

"I count that thing to be grandly true, That a noble deed is a story told in blood, Lifting the soul from the common sod To a purer air and a broader view."
