> I pay cash for all ORGANS, PIANOS and SEW-ING MACHINES I purchase, on receipt of goods, if satisfactory. No manufacturer nor any one else living has my note nor never had—this is something no other Agent in Lindsay can truthfully say—I am allowed a good discount for cash—do not have to pay for getting notes discounted or renewed—and for SAID reasons am able to sell chapper according to quality than any other in cheaper according to quality than any other in the business here. Neither do I go around nor pay others for going to parties who may have pur-chased from some one else and tell lies to make them dissatisfied. Am glad to know that in some instances those gents were quietly asked to pass on and attend to their own affairs. "Square dealing" in the mouth of such a person would seem as much out of place as a GOLD RING in the snout of a Berkshire. I deal straightforward and above board and ask no favors from any manufacturer noragents.

To Farmers and Breeders.

The undersigned would respectfully intimate to the Farmers and Breeders in this district that he has been compelled to change his arrangements in regard to sending the popular Olydesdale stallion, Lawie Gord's, and the equally popular German Coach stallion, Ri'as No. 1457, to the World's Fair, at Chicago. The change has been rendered compulsory owing to the extreme wheavy season, in the stud, causing animals to run down in flesh, and not having the time left to place them in show-ring form, after this week, when the season will be completed and both stallions withdrawn from the route, they can be found at their own stable, Lot 10, Con. 10, Manvare. This pleasant spot is rapidly becoming a popular summer resort, and ere long, no doubt, will rival Sturgeon Point. There is no regular boat running to and from the island, but Mr. Wellington Sweetman, the popular overseer, intends having a trim steam yacht next year for the benefit of campers. The following are the names of those at present living under canvage and the state of the oat crop is eaten.

On Sunday divine service was held on the Island by Mr. Gillfillan of the high school staff. Bowmanville. About the hour of 10 a.m., the campers might have been seen going in the direction of a platform erected in a shady spot on the grounds by Mr. Sweetman, each carrying a chair, camp-stool, or some other improvised seat for his or her own convenience; also might have been seen skiffs, cances and sail bosts with two or three occupants in each approaching the shore from the direction of Caesarea. The sesembly to the number of 60 or 70 having become seated, Mr. Gillfillan gave out that grand opening hymn "All hali the power of Jesus name" etc., which was sung with great enthusiasm. The sermon was very appropriate, earnest and clear, and was listened to by all with rapt attention, and it was a beautiful sight to see the little children who every week day play and gambol round the platform intently gazing into the earnest countenance of the speaker, and seemingly catching every word that coame from his lips. The singing was led by Miss Gillfillan, Mrs. Higinbetham, Miss Tilley and On Sunday divine service was held on the some other members of the Bowmanville methodist church.

Vol. XXXVII.-Whole No. 1898

Mr. Wellington Sweetman has opened a store on the island which is a great convenience, enabling the campers to buy their little necessaries without having to send across the lake for them as formerly.

Fishing has not been good, yet some of the inny tribe have been hooked, the largest weighing 23 lbs. net. The women are more successful at the art than the men. Mrs. Dickson, of Ackron, Ohio, and Mrs. Butler of Oakwood, each captured fine ones this morning. Miss Gillfillan hooked a 12 pounder.

One of the most imaginative of the campers came in from Port Hoover one evening last came in from Port Hoover one evening last week at a 2.40 gait, out of breath and scarcely able to speak. On being investigated he gasped out that he had been stopped about mid-way between the island and that place by some object moving in the water coming up to his boat and actually raising its head and neck over his boat, and gazing into his face with large green waking eyes. A moment after, it gave a plunge and disappeared, almost causing his boat to upset. The writer and some others persuaded him to return with them and on arriving at the spot where the great plunge was made they found a log about 50 feet long, curved in the middle and at one end. It certainly in the dark would present end. It certainly in the dark would present the appearance of a monster with its back and head out of the water. Thus ends, like all others, the sea serpent story of the Island. Mr. Sweetman, Sr., who has been round the ake for 48 years entertains the campers with very interesting stories about the early days when he came to Scugog Island a young man. It appears the Indians formerly resided on this island, had the point all cleared, and were wont to grow "big corn and much potato" thereon, but through fear of their Mohawk enemies they remeved to Scugog Island, where but a remanant of the tribe at present 55 | exists.
