The Duke of Connaught's Case. LONDON, Oct. 19.—The apparently endless argument concerning the Duke of Connaught and the Egyptian case has been given a fresh impetus by the Right Hon. the Chidlers, who was secretary of State for War in 1880-88. It will be remembered that it was charged that the Duke of Connaught, commander of the British forces in Egypt, ordering him to have safety during the battle of Tel-el-Kebir. It was also charged that in compliance with these instructions the Duke of Connaught on the right of the line troops ordered to the rear and out of danger. The story had its origin in the Manchester Guardian. Mr. Chidlers has written a letter to the Duke of Connaught denying that any instructions or suggestions were made to him to withdraw from the battle of Tel-el-Kebir. He enclosed a letter received by him from General Wolsley declaring that the letter is absolutely untrue.

Paris, Oct. 18.—(Copyright)—The Russian fleet are a plentiful source of amusement for foreigners. It has been humorously suggested by Anglo-Saxon onlookers that Admiral Alava was selected to visit France on account of his emollient and soothing qualities and his singular facility for bringing tears to his eyes. According to French newspapers Admiral Alava in one day at Toulon was eight times found to be weeping and five times to be sobbing. One emotional correspondent describes himself as moved almost to tears four times in the course of the morning while frequently noticed that among the people who frequented the streets of Toulon and Paris leaves a contagious epidemic of weeping and sobbing. It consists of 10 forms of tears of various kinds. The solid, describing Admiral Alava's reception at the town hall in Toulon, says: "The admiral showed such emotion that he wept for himself into a private cabinet and handed him a glass of champagne. The admiral, still trembling with emotion spilled a few drops of the wine, whereupon the admiral, who happened to be present, cited the name of the wine as 'the wine of Marshal Adam, who happened to spill wine when about to drink was a sign of good luck and a plentiful harvest, and she therefore hailed the incident with joy. The admiral poured the wine over his face and sobbed and wept upon his uniform." The papers are full of such stuff, and in the general excitement little note is taken of the death of Marshal Adam, which occurred on the 15th inst. at Moulins, which, occurring on the same day as the death of the admiral, would have been a most interesting coincidence.

VALENTIA. Special to The Warbler.—A number of our young people attended the tea at Janetville on Monday last. It is reported that one young lady assisted in the programme by singing "The physician now is near" which was greatly applauded by the town dudes is said to have returned from the tea at Janetville singing in a mournful voice, "Never, never, no more," after which he struck on "Bring back, bring back my Bonnie Lassie," which was very heartrending indeed. A party went through our village a week ago Sunday night at a 2.40 gain amid the howling of rags, the driver singing, "Zion, Zion, beautiful Zion. Washburn's Island is still a favorite resort for some of our East Warders. A meeting was called last Wednesday evening to arrange about our thanksgiving services. After stirring speeches from J. L. Casey, Burk Swain, and an entertainment on that evening. Mr. Sam Hughes addressed a very large meeting at the orange hall last Tuesday evening, which was listened to with very great interest. The thoughts that Bro. Hughes brought out were no doubt of great benefit to those who belong to the order and to the many who did not belong. He gave many useful points which we will not soon forget for time.
