PETERBORO RACES.—On Tuesday the far famed races at Peterboro came off, on the track in the agricultural society's grounds, and not on the ice. Owing to circumstances beyond the ken of the outside public, the races were a fizzle. In the two-thirty class, go as you please, there were three entries, the other races named on the list not being called although there were fifteen horses entered, although there were fifteen horses entered, some being from Terento. Explanation of the cause of the failure will new be in due course. Some, if not all, who went from here are waiting to hear the excuse the Peterbero people will make about the affair.

BOTH REFORMERS AND CONSERVATIVES STAND FIRM TO US.—THE WARDER sincerely thanks the public for the confidence displayed during the past, as well as promised for the future. A very high compliment was paid us last week by a Mariposa "Quaker" reformer. "Though holding different views from Hughes in some things, I being a reformer and he a conservative, yet I always like him. He tells the truth against himself as quickly as for himself and never hides anything." Our worthy friend will kindly accept The Warder's sincere thanks for the confidence. Long ago the fact became plain to us that the only true guide and rule for any kind of government is to command the respect of the intelligent individual members of the community. TELEPHONIE — To Editor Sun.—Dear Sir.

In otice by the Sun of January 5th inst. that you have had a Bell telephone instrument placed in your office. Last spring when Mr. Culverwell and yourself called upon me you represented the Automatic to be the great and only telephone. Kindly give your reason for adopting an instrument of the Bell telephone after representing the Automatic to be the better system, we would say, that at the time we represented the Automatic Company here we firmly believed it to be superior to any other system known. It was claimed to be in every way ahead of the Bell system, one ad your specifical that each subscriber could make his own connection in a very simple way, without applying to the central office to have the connection made for him, and the service thereby being secret. Now, after the system has been in operation for about three months, with two men almost continually in attendance to keep it in order, we have discovered that it does not possess all the superior qualities claimed for it. One Automatic to the covered that it does not possess all the superior qualities claimed for it. One Automatic to the covered that it does not possess all the superior qualities claimed for it. One Automatic to the covered that it does not possess all the superior qualities claimed for it. One Automatic to the doctrine that "holy life is more than it may noble, honorable true men in the country. None are superior to plain outspoken Abraham Webster.

This, alone with other objectionable business transactions in connection with the Automatic Company, is why we changed our opinion regarding the Automatic system and accepted the Bell instrument. Just here we wish to state that our remarks in no way apply to or reflect upon Mr. W. R. Counter, in whose store the Automatic telephone plant is situated. We have only attempted to faithfully answer the question submitted, and are fully persuaded, after close observation, that the Bell system is superior in every respect to its rival.—Ed.
