A Business Government.

The Dominion Parliament costs a great many hundreds of dollars a day to run it.

The more expeditious therefore the government are in bringing the business before the House the more money is saved. The preent ministers are certainly no idlers. They are business men pursuing good basiness methods. Last year everything was ready when the legislators were called together and the business of parliament was quickly done. This year the same course has been pursued, and not an hour's time need be wasted on account of any delay upon the part of the ministry. If the session is dragged on and made to cost a large sum of money, it will be entirely due to the desire of the Opposition to talk for office at the country's expense. The reports have all been laid upon the table; the estimates are ready; the billis are prepared and ready to be introduced at the first opportunity; and the tariff programme of the government will be given to the House by the Minister of Finance on Wednesday, the 22nd of March, only a week after the opening of the session is day wasted after day as the present session of the Local Legislature of Ontaria, where a month almost was wasted to begin with, and day wasted after day as the session proceeds.

TION PROJECT, Mr. T. V. Powderly, speaking at the Pavil-n on Sunday afternoon and evening, lectured

The Editor's Dream.

It was one of those dreamy, sultry summer days, so characteristic of June. The editor sat listlessly among his exchanges, now dipping his pen in the mucilage and mechanically wiping it in his hair, now gazing at the blue bottle fly which gazed monotonously on the window, now saizing the scissors with determination, and letting them slip from his fingers the local connection many people who ination, and letting them slip from his ingers into the waste basket, now turning to the fly into the waste basket, now turning to the fly seived. He is here as an apostle of temperie, and as such the temperance party rallies

It may surprise on till he reached the gates of a beautiful

Now, who is this Mr. Powderly who undertakes to tell us of our intemperance and our ignorance of true liberty? It may surprise many of the good people who hung upon the flowing periods of his Sunday harangue to learn that he is the identical T. V. Powderly who attended the Clan na-Gael convention in the Palmer house, Chicago, in 1881 to recommend and provide means for the perpetration of dynamite outrages in English cities. He is the same T. V. Powderly who made at that convention an amexingly temperate speech which we will take the liberty of quoting of the convention, says:

"At last Feeley concludes, and there rises another well known figure, that of T. V.
Powderly, for years the chief of the largest workingmen's organization in America, known as the knights of labor." Little doubt can there be of his views. Listen to what he saye;
"The killing of English robbers and tyrants enables them to carry on their robberies and
