ARE NOW IN ORDER AT

Warner & Co's.

ow is the time, and WARNER & CO'S is the place, to prepare for the warm weather which seems to be coming on us with a rush after al!.

his is the kind of weather to think about White Lawns, Check Muslins, Embroideries, Prints, Challies and Delainettes Our stock in each of these lines was never so attractive or cheap as NOW.

his is the kind of weather to think about a New Dress of some kind or other. Our offerings in Dress Goods of all kinds were never so interesting as they are to-day.

his is the kind of weather to think about light weight Underwear, light weight Hosiery and Gloves. Our stock of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Underwear is very complete and cheap. Our Gloves are imported direct from the Manufacturers in Germany and are unusually good value.

Hosiery we always excel.—Our 3 pairs for 25c., our two pairs for a quarter, cannot be approached for value, Full range of Cashmere Hosiery in plain and ribbed goodsthe best values we have ever shown.

What about a Parasol?

If you need one don't miss seeing our stock.

This is the kind of weather to think about House Cleang and Furnishing. Bear in mind we always take the lead values in Carpets, Oil Cloths, Lace Curcains and Curtain etts, Sheetings, Towellings, Table Linens, etc., and are tter prepared than ever to give the greatest amount of ods for the least amount of money.

We'll Meet the French in the

Now that we've pledged each eye of blue,
And every maiden fair and true,
And our green island home—to you,
The ocean's wave adorning;
Let's give one hip, hip, hip, hurrs,
And drink e'en to the coming day,
When someten to process. When, squadron square, We'll all be there,

To meet the French in the morning. May his bright laurels never fade, Who leads our fighting fifth brigade, Those lads so true in heart and blade, And famed for danger scorning: So join me in one hip, huera, And drink e'en to the coming day,

When, equadron square,
We'll all be there,
To meet the French in the morning, And when with years and honors crowned. You sit some homeward hearth around, And hear no more the stirring sound,

That spoke the trumpet's warning;
You'll fill, and drink, one hip, hurra,
And pledge the memory of the day,
When, squadron square,
They all were there,
To meet the French in the morning. Handsome Nell.

[Tune, "I am a man unmarried."-"The following composition," says Barns, in his Common place book, "was the first of my performances, and done at an early period of my life, when my heart glowed with honest warm simplicity, unacquainted and uncorrupted with the ways of a wicked world. The performance is, indeed, very puerile and silly, but I am always pleased with it, as it recalls to my mind those happy days when my heart was yet honest, and my tongue was sincere. The subject of it was a young girl, who really The subject of it was a young girl, who really deserved all the praises I have bestowed on her. I not only had this opinion of her then—but I actually think so still, now that the spell is long since broken, and the enchant-ment at an end "—"This balled," says Lock-hart, "though characterized by Burns as a very puerile and silly performance, contains here and there lines of which he need hardly have been ashamed at any period of his life."

Y.P.S.C.E. Notes.

Owing to repairs being made in the lecture room of the Cambridge St. methodist church, the meeting of the Lindsay local union of C.E. which was to have been held in that place was held in the Queen St. methodist church, on Monday evening, April 23rd. Between the hours of 7.30 and S o'clock the lecture room of the church was filled with an ever-moving throng of happy faced young people who were making the moments fly with bright snatches of conversation and warm handshakes. Rev. Newton Hill, pastor of the church, welcomed the young people at the door and the social committees of all the societies did their duty inside. At 8 o'clock all went upstairs into the body of the church, where for the next half hour they were entertained in listening to a programme of a must-cal and literary character. The meeting here was presided over by Rev. Newton Hill, who announced the opening hymn "Bringing in the Sheaves." Mr. J. L. Allin and Rev. R. Johnstor, B.A., B.D., then led in prayer. Another hymn was sung after which, in the Another hymn was sung after which, in the absence of the secretary, Rev. Newton Hill read the report as submitted by the nominating committee. The report which was as follows was adopted:—President, Mr. J. L. Allin; vice presidents, H. Porier, J. Low, R. Morgan, Mr. Folliett; secretary, Miss Hattie Mimms; treasurer. Miss G. Trotter; corresponding-secretary, Miss I. Gilpin. The first number on the programme was a recitation, rendered very sweetly and naturally by Miss Mainprize of the baptist society. Following Mainprize of the baptist society. Following this was a vocal duet by the Misses Gross and Seaton of the presbyterian society. The next was a recitation by Miss Bowen of the Queen St. society, entitled "The three Warnings." A quartette was sung by four young ladies of the Cambridge St. society, Misses Winters, Rose, Pattyson and Walters. And the last number on the programme was a recitation society, the title of which was "Carly head." The tupic for the evening was then taken up—the passage of scripture from which the subject was taken, being read alternately by Mr. ject was taken, being read alternately by Mr.
Hill and the congregation. The topic "What, how, and when to provide for the tuture" was divided into three parts, Mr. Foliiett of the Queen St. church taking the first division—
"What to provide for the future, Mr. Alex.
Horne of the presbyterian society, dealt with the second division—"How to provide for the future," and Mr E. A. Hardy B.A., of the baptist society with the third-"When to provide for the future." The future as relating to this life and that which is to come was dwelt upon and in view of the fact that character is the only thing which will last through time, and eternity as well; it was strongly impressed upon all the necessity of building up a character which will stand the test when time is no more. The time to provide for the future is now. The past is gone -the future is not ours to count upon- the present, only is ours. This most interesting and largely attended meeting—for the church was tull—was closed by singing "God be with you till we meet again" and the benediction.

The official trial of the new boat showed that her speed exceeded twenty-eight knots an hour. The Hornet is one of more than thirty vessels of a similar type ordered by the English government. The Havock and Hornet are built exactly alike in every detail except their boilers.

The disadvantage under which ordinary first-class torpedo boats labor is their loss of speed in a heavy sea. These larger and more powerful craft were constructed after the torpedo type for the purpose of overhauling the torpedo boats in a storm.

The Hornet is a twin-screw boat, 180 feet long and 18 feet and 6 inches beam. The reverbless are three bleded. The reverbless are three bleded. The reverbless are there bleded. The reverbless are there bleded their regular quarterly meeting at Liuden Valley on Tuesday evening, April 17th. The meeting was a decided success in every respect. Notwithstanding the fact that evange-listic meetings were held only a few miles away the church was filled. A paper on "Foreign Missions" was read by Mr. J. F. Carmichael and a paper on "Home Missions" by Mr. Alex Gilchrist, Glenarm. In these papers the need of the milions yet without the gospel was shown and the great necessity for all endeavor societies to engage in this noble work. Missionary meetings should be held often and the work of the missionaries tion, you have the means of prevention and cure. You can save yourself from a, or Fever by putting tions of the body in a e, besides building up, by taking the "Dis-", by taking the "Dis-" The Hornet is a twin-screw boat, 180 feet and 6 inches beam. The propellors are three-bladed. The engines are of the tri-compound type, having cylinders 18 inches, 26 inches, and 30½ inches in diameter by 18 in stroke.

The two sets of inverted triple-expansion engines are capable of developing collectively and compared our christianity and compared our christian countries with those who know not the general countries and 180 feet and 6 inches beam. The propellors are three-bladed. The engines are discussed.
