You Shall Have Strength.

And as thy days, so shall thy strength be.-Douteronomy, xxxiii., 25.

Human nature is made of very strange material. We are constantly surprised at our ability to bear what seems to be unendurable. Under the pressure of a great incentive we can accomplish miracles, and when necessity compels, we can endure anything.

No man is thoroughly acquainted with himself. There are depths and heights in his soul which he has never explored. In one environment he is a commonplace creature; in another he develops into a hero, The possibility of greatness is hidden somewhere in every man's nature. He is an unconscious giant, but will never do a giant's work until the emeregency forces him to. Give him an ordinary road to travel, and he shambles along like a peasant; give him a hill to climb, then thunder in his ear, "You must!" and he becomes transformed from a clod to a

Gentlemen.—About three or four weeks ago I had an attack of Itching Piles. I tried two or three different remedies recommended by druggists as "the best and only cure," etc., etc., but got no relief. About the time I was beginning to despair of finding any relief, with some slight misgivings I bought a box of your pill cure, which I am pleased to say gave me almost instant relief and permanent cure. I consider your Ointment
