A Baby I Know.

God's angel was bidden to make her fair, So he wove the sunshine into her hair; He took of the mid-noon's cloudless skies, And fashion'd therefrom her two blue eyes. He wash'd her white with the sinless snows. And painted her cheeks with the dawn's faint

He dimpled her tiny hands and feet; He made her sunny, and soft and sweet; He moulded her round white limbs with art He got her from Heaven a pure child-heart. Then he kies'd her lips, and her brow and eyes, And brought her, sleeping, from Paradise. Such virtue lies in those kieses three. That, how so weary at heart are we, The look and the smile on our baby's face takes that is made by our dairymen and especially by patrons of cheese factories, that I wish to mention is the great mistake of not preparing summer tood for their cows. Looking at it from a business stand point, it is quite as essential that food be prepared for summer teed, as for winter, as it is during the summer months that the greatest profits are expected to be realized and this depends with which the taxes are paid must be the result of labor, says "true but not the result of his labor." Here I take issue with him and I know whereof I speak I say yes, entirely the result of his labor, so far as the farmer is concerned and I don't pretend to speak for any one else. If I did I might make as great an ass of myself as some professional profits are expected to be realized and this depends months that the greatest profits are expected to be realized and this depends al men do when speaking of farmers. If a people the catholic minority of Manipetted to be realized and this depends al men do when speaking of farmers. Milking.—A great many people pay no attention to regularity of milking. Some milk between five and six in the moring and any time between four and nine o'clock at night; a very good plan to lessen the supply of milk. To ensure an even flow of milk cows should be milked at a regular time, about twelve hours between each milking.

Fo the Editor of The Worder.

Sir.—Notwithstanding the amount of your valuable space which I have used of late on this subject, I must beg room for a reply to Mr. Foster's letter in The Warder of the 19th inst. Mr F. begins by saying that I am laboring under a "misconception of the essential features of single tax." Now I may be so, but I think I understand what the single taxers want, and I in my turn, think they are laboring under a very great mistake as to the results that would accrue from the earrying out of their scheme. Not only that, but they appear to have a very crude idea about how money is got as money is the material with which taxes are and must be paid, no matter what the basis of taxation. Tax the land, or land value, which is the same thing single taxers to the contrary notwithstanding, I will illustrate this. I have 101 acres, (so the patent says), but there is a river crossing one corner which takes off perhaps 3 acres. A road has been taken off two sides, which take some five acree more. A neighbor asked me the other day if I were assessed for 100 acres? I and still thinks the place worth so much. If he put it down as 90 acres, he would still put the same number of dollars and my taxes would be exactly the same."

This appears to be misunderstood by the single taxers. The fact is it is values that are being taxed under the present system. So much for land value and now to return. You can't take the land by bucketfulls to pay your taxes; you must convert it or something else into money. The single taxer seems to think that the user of land has some magic way of producing wealth. The farmers are by far the greatest users of land, and I say it without tear of successful contradiction, that the farmers get the least remuneration for their labor of any class in the community. If farmers were com-pelled to hire men to do all their work and to pay as much wages as is paid the most common laborers in other callings, his bired help would have his farm in a very short time (unearned increments and all), and right here is where the great mistake comes in. A few men have bought city lots and in a few years have realized very handsome profits on the investment, and some covetuous and jealous individuals say that is a shame that man never done anything to earn that it should belong to the community.

It they themselves had been the lucky will be in full operation, it would be profitable for our dairymen to glance over the past, see where they have made mistakes, and from these be prepared to do better this coming season.

Care of Cows.—One of the first mistakes that is made by our dairymen and especially by patrons of cheese factories, that I with to mention is the great mistakes of not preparing summer lood for beir cows. Looking at its from a busiless stand point, it is quite as essential it food be prepared for summer teed, or winter, as it is during the summer feed, or winter, as it is during the summer feed, or winter, as it is during the summer date.

A few days ago an Ontario druggist said: The ladies are buying more Dismond Dyse and buy one package as an experiment, and fat the dyse os any tous that they now color most of their old clothing, and come out with the works of themselves up to the highest bounder this beautiful theory there would be prod enough to pay in the country of the champion of protestantism Blain.

A few days ago an Ontario druggist said: The ladies are buying more Dismond Dyse we had not an about they now than in past years. They come to manuality? Most certainly under single tax theory the community? Most certainly under single tax theory the community ought to said: say that I can condemn the Dominion government for the action they have find they go connell to the province of Manitobas governing power. So far as druggist, I must say, that Diamond Dyse are the only package dyes, they are freud and nevised themselves up to the highest authority of the champion of protestantism Blain.

Is it right? Is there any justice in the county good water can be procured at a small least to mean and the position it now occupies and want to enforce a separate school system in Manitoba. The matter now being placed in the hands of Manitoba's government is the first step towards finding out, if any difficulty really exists. in almost every section of this county good water can be procured at a small cost.

Milking.—A great many people pay no attention to regularity of milking. Some mulk between five and six in the moring and approximate the cost in the increased value of his farm. Is it right? Is there any justice in saying that a man shall work like a slave and live on the plainest of fare all his life and be poorer at the end than in the beginning? Yet under the theory proposed by the single taxes that would be in duty bound to remedy it: the position of nine-tenths of the farmers. | medy it:

"Oh," said he, "I would not have that; you have not the use of 100 million dollars to idemnify slave owners acres." when they abolished slavery, than for Abraham Lincoln who only issued the Well, now, said I, "Look here, I am assessed for so many dollars; the assessed proclamation to liberate slaves when it seemed necessary to do so in order to seemed necessary to do so in order to crush the slave owners who were at the time in actual rebellion.

In conclusion, it is all very well to tell what great benefits would accrue from the adoption of this theory, but unless the arguments and expectations are based on reason and common sense with which all the single tax arguments I have yet seen are entirely at variance I must beg to be excused from taking any stock in them.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, for the space allowed me in the past and in advance for this rather rambling letter. (When I read the nicely worded articles of my opponents and think of my poor efforts, I think of Mark Antony, and think "were I Provided and Parties Antony." how I I Brutus and Brutus Antony," how I would set off this most absurd fad.) I will promise to be silent for a time at least, as I shall be very busy. Yours etc., Sam. SUDDABY.

Questions of the Day.

DRAR EDITOR,-Kindly allow me a space in your most valuable paper which is always open to the hearing of opinions on any matters tending toward the advancement of protestantism, and orangeism in particular.

Oh! but says the single taxes, we don't propose to take anything from the farmers more than he owes the community for the results of the farmers more than he owes the community for the results of the farmers more than he owes the community for the results of the farmers.

No one views with more alarm the attempted encroachments of priesthood on our rights than I do, but yet catholics have tempted encroachments of priesthood on our rights than I do, but yet catholics have farmers more than he owes the community for the use of his farm." Who, pray, is to determine just what he owes the community for the use of his farm? I will tell you.
