So William, on a brief vacation, More pleasantly the time to pass, Essayed flirtation; And as they strolled in twilight dim, While near the time for parting drew, Asked if she'd like to have him from A billet-doux.

Of French this simple girl knew naught, But doubting not 'twas something nice, Upon it: meaning quickly thought; Then, in a trice, Upward she turned her pretty head, Her rosy lips together drew, For purpose plain, and coyly said: "Yes, Billy, do."

The event took place at the handsome residence of the bride's father, Mr. Jas. Spier, on Duke-st. About eighty guests were present and the ceremony was solemnized by Rev. J. Edgill Hill, pastor of one of Montreal's leading Presbyterian churches. The bride was attired in white corded silk, and wore the bridal veil which was fastened with a diamond pin, the gift of the groom. The bride also carried a spray of bouquet and looked charming. Her attendant was Miss Duncan, who was dressed in pale yellow silk crepon. Mr. A. E. Matthews, of Ottawa, brother of the groom, was the groomsmen. Mr. Charles Matthews is a well known young man in town and is secretary-treasurer of the Matthews Pork Packing Co. METHODIST PARSONAGE.—During the past week extensive alterations were being made on the methodist parsonage, Cambridge street, by enlarging the portion in the rear and raising the walls four feet. The roof of the main building was raised by jack-screws, intending to build up to the roof. An accident occurred yesterday which fortunately was not attended with any injury to the men employed, which considering all things may be said to be almost miraculous. The supports of the roof gave way letting it slide down, partially injuring one of the walls, but being quickly detected the accident will necessitate a slight change of plans as a new roof will have to be put on, consequently delaying the completion of the work for a short time longer than the work for a short time longer than it was intended to have it completed.

FOUND DEAD.—On Sunday last considerable excitement was created when it was learned that Mrs. Mann, a resident of the south ward, was found dead. The house had been closed all week and it was supposed Mrs. Mann was visiting friends in the country. On Sunday this was found to be incorrect, and a young man entered and found her dead. An inquest was held by coroner Poole, the verdict being that death was caused by swallowing Paris green, no evidence being had to show whether by accident or design, the opinion of the jury being that it was the former, as she had been in the habit of keeping Paris green in a house for the purpose of killing mice and cats with which she was annoyed. The funeral took place on Monday to Riverside cemetery.
