FRIDAY, AUGUST 28, 1895. The D.P.R. Getting Ready for one of the Biggest Wheat Rushes Ever Known.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—The enormous yield of 58,000,000 bushels, which is expected from the crops in the North-West, will be the finest for the past six years. and will mean increased prosperity, signs of which are even now visible. "Some additions to the rolling stock of the company are contemplated." These were the words spoken by Sir William Van Horne to a reporter. The C.P.R. authorities have realized for some time past that this year's crop would be something altogether out of the ordinary, and they have been preparing in anticipation. Every available boarding and spare car has been called in by the car service department from all over the system and are now dismentled and ready to assist in transporting the wheat promptly and satisfasterily. Just how many new ears are to be built is not known at present, but the through wheat trains begin to follow one another steadily, all the new cars will be at the disposal of the railway. The only cause for dissatisfaction among the C.P.B. officials is that nearly all the cars will have to be sent west "light," and consequently the margin of profit will be considerably reduced.

NEW ELEVATORS FOR THE BIG CROP. The Winnipeg Tribune states that last year was not a very vigorous year in the matter of elevator building, only some ive or six being erected. The total capacity of all warehouses and elevators from Fort William westward was 11,817,-100 bushels. This year the companies, both great and small, and private individuals, have been putting up elevators in a way that shows they tear the present supply will not meet the demand of the

From May till October the girl with naturally curly, wavy hair can crow over her sister with straight looks, for heat and dampness are deadly, invincible foes to artificial curls. The rest of the year it is share and share alike, for cold, crisp weather makes the natural curls stiff and straight. There are a hundred and one aventions and appliances to make hair eurl, and some are remarkably successful. But the trouble with all is the same. The results are not lasting, and a sudden shower, any fog, or the thermometer going up into the nineties, makes all previous toil fruitless. It may seem a small matter to the world at large, but it is no small matter to the woman concerned, to start out looking trim, neat, and really pretty, and in half an hour to be a hideous fright, with long lank locks in place of the coquettish, trimly arranged ringlets. The only plan that has proved efficacious is to wet the hair thoroughly with alcohol or cologue, curl it while wet, leaving the curls uncombed until the hair is thoroughly dried. Then putting a touch of powder both on curls and forehead will remove any temporary damp. ness, and the curls will stay in—myster-ious saying—for hours. The alcohol dries up the natural moisture of the hair, and the curling while wet with the spirit is what produces the desired results. The dash of powder is so slight as not to show, and gives an additional dryness. The curls must be curled with hot tongs; there is no use in using the patent curlers for this purpose.

The waved effect which has been so fashionable for the side locks comes under this same rule, and it is surprising how ong the waves remain wavy even on the hottest day, and, best of all, how natural they look.

Constant curling and waving with hot irons is bound to be prejudicial to fine hair, but much damage can be prevented by being careful not to use the irons if they are in the least rough. A perfectly smooth, evenly heated iron, not hot enough to burn the hair, will do no harm, and the roughness that cuts can easily be discerned, and consequently guarded against. It is a good plan if one is in the habit of constantly curling the hair with irons to take a vacation for a month or tix weeks, and during that time wear one's hair onits a month. air quite smooth.

A good way to make the hair look naturally wavy across the top of the head is to wet the front locks very thoroughly before going to bed, then to pull them forward and tie as tightly over them as is comfortable a band of net. This holds the hair down, and when taken off in the morning makes a most natural and becoming wave, much more graceful than can be produced by even the broadest tron.

The various washes which are sold to make the hair curl have all a tendency to take it, even alcohol and cologue have the same fault, but in a modified degree, to that it is as well to examine very thoroughly anything of the sort. Washing twice a week with pure soap and warm water will keep the front and side looks in good order, and will do away with any injurious effect of the alcohol

Bang nets, as are called the nets for the front hair, are necessary parts of every woman's summer outfit, and save a lot of trouble, keeping the hair in place nicely.

The Depth of the bea.

Small boys often ask their parents, "How deep is the sea?" The answer depends entirely upon the sea. The following table, conpiled by one who has investigated, may help one to the solution of one of the small boys problems: Average depth in vards:—Pacific, 4252; Atlantic, 4026; Indian, 3668; Antarctic, 3000; Aretic, 1690; Mediterraneau, 1476; Irish, 240; English Channel, 110; Adriatic, 45; Baltic, 48.—Harper's Bound Table.

Bought Als Own Furniture.

An amusing story is told of a gentle-man living in London. As the anecdote goes, it seems that he had a passion for the purchase of second hand furniture at auctions, and that in making "good bar gains" he had filled his house with antiquated and almost useless articles. Upon one occasion his wife took the responsibility, without consulting her husband, to have a portion of the least useful of the pieces removed to an auction-room to be old. Great was her dismay when, on the evening of the day of the sale, the majority of the articles came back to the house. The husband had stumbled into the auction-room, and, not knowing his own furniture, had purchased it at a greater bargain than at first.—Harper's Round Table.

India Rubber Bait.

According to a Troy fisherman, the atest triumph of Yankee inventive genius is an India-rubber fish worm. It is eatd to be a remarkably good imitation of the common earthworm, is indestructible, and in actual use proves as alluring to the fishes as the genuine article. The old in spite of the modest utterance of the president, the number is thought to be shipped will undoubtedly be loaded on boats at Fort William, and by the time to the thought to follow the time to follow the thought to follow the thought to follow the time to fo whole season, and there will be no necessity for pulling up the line every few minutes to see if the small-fry nibblers have left the hook bare. It is possibly hardly necessary to add here that the fisherman who tells of this invention may be like other fishermen, in which case the reader need not believe the story unless he wants to.—Harper's Round Table.

GENTLEMEN, — For ever three months I was severy ill from what I believe was a malignant type of dyspepsis. I at once consulted a type of dyspepsis. I at once consulted a type of dyspepsis. I at once consulted a type of dyspepsis. I then went to a specialist who diagnosed the case as Catarrh of the Stomach, his treatment also failed and i was getting worse every day. I could not rest at night and had to welk the floor to get any case. I failed from 195 pounds down to 185 pounds and about gave up in despair when I heard of Burdock Blood Bitters as a remedy for dyspepsis. The first bottle made a change for the better, and I bought six more being delighted to find myself better. Under the use of B. B. B. I gained a pound a day. I took 18 bottles in all and am now nearly back to my old weight. I recommended dyspeptics to try the eld reliable B. B. B. that always cures.

A Wonderful Boat.

A wonderful submarine boat has been built in Paris for the Brazilian government. It is of the Goubet type and only cost 250,000 francs. Her shape is that of a cigar and she can make eight knots an hour under water. The crew will consist of an officer and two men, who can withof an officer and two men, who can with-out difficulty remain under water for fil-teen hours. She is furnished with oars similar in shape to a duck's feet, by means of which she can be rowed in any direction in case of accident to her ma-chinery. The absolute safety of those on board is secured by a safety weight of twelve hundred kilogrammes fastened under her keel, the unscrewing of which will cause the boat to rise to the service like a cork. She can be made to sink to any depth by taking in water ballast from the sea, or to rise by expelling the same. She can be steered either by her same. She can be steered either by her screw or her rudder. A vertical telescope enables those on board to take their bearings. Automatic torpedoes can be released at any depth, obviating the plunging and lurching which attend the launching of torpedoes by the ordinary method. Boats of the Goubet type can be used in finding dormant torpedoes or to cut the wire by means of which torpedoes are to be exploded.

Bloycling and Temperance.

L. A. W. Bulletin and Good Boads. The following, which appeared recently as an editorial, headed "Belaxation and no reaction," in the Philapelphia "Call," invites attention to the well known fact that the bicycle is the most practical emperance reformer of the age:
We don't know whether those who are interested in the subject have noticed it, but we believe the growth in bicycling is largely conductive to temperance. There are several reasons why we think so. To ride a wheel with any degree of pleasure or success it is easy to understand that one must have a reasonably clear head and be able to control the movements of both his body and limbs.

It would be quite impossible for a man who was unable to preserve his equilibrium to long alt astride a bicycle. A degree of inebriety that might not seriously interfere with the success of a carriage ride would render a bicycle ride utterly out of the question.

It will be seen, therefore, that bicycling imposes upon those who indulge in it moteration in the use of intoxicants, while they are riding, at any rate.

But the beneficial influences of bicycl ng in the matter of temperance does not end there. There is no doubt that an excursion awheel takes the place of many an after-office hour stay with "congenial friends." It furnishes the timulous for which the weary man of affairs has for-merly looked elsewhere. To brace a man up those who have had experience with both tell us that the bicycle is immeasurably superior to the bar, and the statement seems plausible enough.

After a hard day at the desk or behind the counter, surely a dash awheel out among the trees and green fields should put new life into ones blood and new buoyancy into ones spirits. And one great advantage of such exhibitration is that it is not followed the next morning remorse. Judicious bicycling affords relaxation without reaction. For these reasons and others which will suggest themselves to the reader, it is our opinion that its value as a temperance agent is not the least of the virtues of

There are mothers present, and I wish to utter to them a special note of warny will not meet the demand of the crop. The Oglivic Milling Co. have Gentlemen,—For over three months I was leads them to exaggeration of the ailprone to resort to medicine for their benefit. It is this practice that is responsible for the receptivity of young men for drugs and alcohol. As I have said, for drugs and alcohol. As I have said, these remedial agents reek with nareotics and all of them contain alcohol. Soothing syrups, cordials, drops, etc., are the infinite curse of childhood. The mother would be much kinder to her child it she the human body readily adjust themselves to any condition, and when filled with opiates in childhood they are ready enough to take them or whiskey, any sort of a toxic, because they all effect the cells measurably the same when they reach young manhood: Knowledge of a fact remains. The bodily cells have a persistent memory. They have the faculty of acquiring a taste for anything. Once they have learned to like opium they never forget the fact. The child who has been directed. The cells of reputation wherever employed. As a nerve tonic and blood builder they are unrivalled. They increase the appetite and promote a healthy performance of all the functions of the body. they never forget the fact. The child who has been given opium is far more likely to acquire this habit, and certainly can acquire it infinitely more readily when he is grown up than will one who has no acquaintance with the drug.

Mothers, learn this fact, and bear it always in mind. Do not go to the sin of the father for the inebriety of your sons. Drunken fathers do not produce drunken sons. If a man is a drunkard or opium habitue, inquire what kind of medicines were given him as a child. It is in the nursery too frequently and not in the possibly do worse was bound to do better. This cheerful calculation has been upset. In the coming season England will import a larger preportion of meat and flour even than last year. As matters stand, wheat can only be grown at considerable loss, and though the large farmers may continue to produce it at loss for the sake of collateral advantages, the small ones cannot afford to do so, and more arable land is bound to go out of cultivation.

Every crop runs far below the average and the results of the season's farming in Great Britain and Ireland are less favorable than those of 1898, which was the worst harvest since 1879. Naturally parliament is already solicited to legislate in the interests of the tarmers, and adopt the programme of the National Agricultural Union. Land is steadly going Agricultural Union. Land is steadily going out of cultivation in England, the farmers being unable to face the low prices and foreign competition, and being also harassed by high rents and restrictions upon methods of agriculture.
