FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1895. The Late Major Preston.

PROMINENT LANDMARK OF CANADA'S

EARLIER DAYS IS REMOVED. Free Fress dispatches from Vancouver announced a few days ago the death of Major Preston. With the demise of Major Preston Canada lost a man who for many years has been a conspicuous figure in her history. Major Preston died at the advanced age of 79 years and leaves a widow and nine children, seven daughters and two sons, all of whom, with the exception of Mrs. Johnston, of Chicago, reside in Canada. Major Preston was well known on the Pacific coast, where he spent the last five years. Four members of the family live in Manitoba, Mr. W. A. Preston, and Mrs. Wilson, of Edmonton street, widow of the late J. B. Wilson; Mr. T. A. Preston, of St. Charles, and Mrs. A. F. Preston of St. The deceased gentleman was born in 1816 in the State of New York, where his father, an ex-officer of His Majesty's 28rd Light Dragoons, had been detained by the American authorities at the outbreak of the war of 1812, for at the outbreak of the war of 1812, for refusing to take the oath of allegiance. The family removed to Kungston, "Upper Canada," the same year, and here deceased passed his childhood and youth; later removing with the family to Amherst Island, where his father had purchased property and decided upon making a home, on the shore of the Bay of Quinte. At the outbreak of the re-bellion of 1837 the major and three of his brothers volunteered to defend their chosen country, the former serving in Jackson's artillery at Kingston. It was during their absence in June, 1888, that their home was raided, and plundered by that notorious "Bill Johnston" and his robber crew. The father and two younger brothers were overpowered and beaten into insensibility, one having two fingers shot away by striking up a pistol aimed at his father. In December of this year the rebels landed at Windmill Point, below Prescott, and took possession of the windmill, a six story circular stone building of great strength. Col. Dundas, with two companies of regulars and about three hundred militia men, and a battery of two six pounders, was sent down to volunteer artillery being paraded as in-fantry on this occasion. The British in their first advance drove the enemy's sharp shooters from the stone fences and stone buildings which flanked the mill, but their artillery was not heavy enough to dislodge them from the tower, and as forced them to retire. They fell back slowly and in good order, leaving about thirty dead on the field. And here occurred an incident not re-corded, it is believed, in history. Lieut-enant Johnston, who commanded one of the companies of regulars, had his thigh broken by a rifle bullet and fell close to the tower. His company had fallen back some distance before he was missed, and before he could be rescued three of the rebels ran out and beat him to death with their rifles, in a most brutal manner. That night his body was stripped of its slothing and with a rope tied round the ankle and thrown over the projecting limb of a large tree, was suspended about thirty feet from the ground, where frozen and black and swaying in the wind it pre-sented to the eyes of the young volunteers when roused by early bugle call on that said December morning, a horrible illus tration of the cruelties and barbarities of ed, the rifle fire from the upper windows,

Two days after the first assault the British having obtained two eighteen pounders from Kingston, drove the rebels from their stronghold and forced them to accept an unconditional surrender, and the next spring the three men who murdered Lieut. Johnston and eight of the officers of the expedition were hanged at Kingston. It was at the windmill engagement that deceased again met John Alexander Macdonald, the companion of his boyhood, who also had volunteered for the defence of his country; amid such scenes as these and in after years during political campaigns a friendship was renewed that ended only with the death of Canada's great statesman and idolized premier. After the disbandment of the volunteers, Mr. Preston and three of his brothers settled in the township of Manvers, County of Durham, where their father had purchased them farms of 200 acres cach. For a half century Mr. Preston resided continuously upon this larm, and built and adorned one of the most heartiful homesteads in Ontario. most beautiful homesteads in Ontario. In educational, municipal and political matters he always took an active and matters he always took an active and leading part, being an excellent orator and great student, as well as a man of wonderful capacity.

When Canada was threatened with a imian invasion, Mr. Preston assisted the late Colonel Williams in forming the 46th lattalion, he himself organizing No. 6 company, which he commanded for years, lettring with the rank of major. He was a rigid disciplinarian, but very popular with his men. In politics Major Preston was always a staunch liberal-conservative and on the hustings and during atormy political campaigns his elequence was freely given and in great demand. For a number of years he represented the township of Manvers as reeye in the county councils of Northumberland and Durham.

Twice during his career he received the Souncile of Northumberland and Durham.
Twice during his career he received the homination of the conservative convention for the Ontario legislature but befored the homor on each occasion owing to having taken an active interest in temperature.

island. The major on his first visit to the prairie in 1888, was very enthusiastic over the grand heritage of Canada in the Northwest. In speaking of the frost and difficulties experienced in raising fruit trees, he stoutly declared that the early settlers of Ontario experienced the same difficulties during the forties, and that these drawbacks disappeared there with the settling up of the country, and believed that these difficulties would eventually disappear here as they did there. In 1890 after fifty years of happy, prosperous life on the Ontario farm. Major Preston decided to remove to Vancouver in order to be with members of the family who preceded them to the far west, Major Preston was married to 1841 to Miss Mary Woodside, of Kingston, a descendant of one of the oldest north of Ireland families, the Twiggs, of Coal island. Mrs. Preston now in her 76th year, is still hale and vigorous, and after 54 years of married lite, mourns the loss of a kind and indulgent husband.

Major Preston affiliated early in life with the orange society and for fifty years took a prominent part in all its counsels in Canada. His father, Isaac Preston, who died at the age of 99 years, was at the time of his demise the oldest orange.

in Canada. His father, Isaac Preston who died at the age of 99 years, was a the time of his demise the oldest orange man in the world, having joined No. Derry lodge in 1798, and being the four teenth member. This was the first lodg which received a charter under the British constitution.—Winnipeg Evenin News Bulistin, Saturday, Sept. 7, 1895.

prizes during the year. A successful, reliable man, his statement will be of interest to many:

"I have suffered for seven or eight years with Itching Piles; the torture and agony I cannot here find words to describe. Night after night was kept awake with the painful itching. I tried all the physicians and every known remedy all to no account, not even relief. In remedy all to no account, not even relief. In talking over my curious trouble with Mr. Chas. Thomson, our well known druggist, he recommended Chase's Ointment. To my wonder and surprise, I got relief from the second application. I firmly believe one box sufficient to cure any case of Itching Piles no matter of how long duration. I would not be without it for ten times its cost. In volunteering this testimony and my consent for the manufacturers of Chase's Ointment to use it as they wish, it is that like sufferers may know they can be cured."
