New York, Nov. 5.—Up to a late hour the republican plurality above the Harlem is estimated at 100 000. The democrats have New York by a plurality of fully 40,000 for the head of the state ticket, and have carried Brooklyn by nearly 6,000. This gives the republicans a state majority of about 54,000, and shows a net republican gain over the election of two years ago of nearly 50,000.

The Press says:—This is a republican United States. That is the most important fact which yesterday's voting established. A republican president in 1896 is assured.

The Tribune says:—It is a great victory, the republicans hold the battlefield, and if pushed from some points, have gained others of larger importance. Tammany hall has won a local victory, but one that does not dislodge the present city government, which will continue to insure honest elections. But the state is solid as a rock, in spite of the city. A republican majority of 50,000 with both branches of the legislature makes the prospect for next year most cheering.

Forty People Dead.

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION OF A BATTERY OF

Detroit, Nov. 6.—The battery of boilers in the building of the Evening Journal exploded at 9 o'clock this morning, wrecking the building, Nos. 45 and 47 West Larned street, killing at least 40 persons, wounding 20 others, more or less seriously, and causing a loss of $60,000.

The Detroit Journal was located at Shelby and Larned streets, occupying for its main offices a 70-toot front in Larned street. Next east of its building and in part of the same block, were two 20-foot fronts, which constituted the scene of the disaster. One of these, No. 45, was wholly occupied by John Davis & Co., saleratus manufacturers and dealers in grocers' supplies, while in the basement of the other were the two boilers which exploded. Just above the boiler room on the first floor was the Journal's mailing room. The second floor was occupied by the Kohlbrandt engraving company, and W. W. Dunlap's agency for Rogers typograph supplies.

On the third and fourth floors were J.

ngineer, fireman and several pressmen.

The first intimation the neighborhood cleared away the whole live noors and the people working on them were in an inextricable mass of wreckage.

The scenes attending the digging among the debris were of the most ghastly character. Here a head protruded, there an arm, and there a leg, and as the work-proceeded the sights were sickening.

Just above the boiler room on the first floor was the Journal's mailing room. The second floor was occupied by the Kohlbrandt engraving company, and W. W. Dunlap's agency for Rogers typograph supplies.

On the third and fourth floors were J. George Hiller's bookbindery, and the top floor was the Journal's stereotyping room. There were three stereotypers at work in the Journal's floor, about thirty girls in the bookbindery, besides the proprietor, a machinist and several others in the typograph shop, seven engravers and assistants in the Kohlbrandt Co.'s rooms and a force of clerks on the ground floor in the main room.

There were six persons in the Davis building. In the basement were the engineer, fireman and several pressmen.
