OBITUARY.—This community received a shock when it was announced that the Rev. Robert Boynton was dead. This popular voting man died at his father's residence, Kirkfield, on Saturday morning last at the comparative yearly age of 31. The deceased was ever a young man of sterling qualities whether on the field of sport or in the pulpit he carried the same quiet unobirustve demeanor that characterized him in his private ife among his more intimate acquaintances who can yet hardly realiz; that one of the best of fellows has gone to j in the silent maj rity, yet his examplary lite will long live after him to the lives of those who were for unste enough to come in contact with him in life. His life is a lesson on what can be accomplished by every young man who possesses the energy and perseverance that were part and parcel of the life of Robert Boynton. Saring at a companatively late period of life to s'u'y he worked his way up until at his decease he had almost completed his course of study in the methodist ministry. The cause of death was Bright's disease to which he finally and patiently succumbed after a gallant struggle. In life he was known as a preacher who would make his mark as a public speaker and whose in fluence for good in Oakwood and Little Britain, where he was stationed, will long be felt. As an able and fair minded all round athlete he had few quals. The funeral took place on Monday at Kirkfield and his intimate and particular iargest ever seen in that sec ion, snowing the high esteen inwhich he was held,
