At the meeting of the town council on Monday evening which was the last regular meeting of the year, the business was not completed. A special meeting is to be held subject to the call of the Mayor. From the proceedings on Monday evening it is evident some of the members were talking to catch the ear of the electors on a fed, instead of appealing to their intelligence.

THE CAMBRIDGE ST, METHODIST CHURCH pulpit was occupied last Sunday evening by Rev. Mr. Shorey, who preached from the following texts: Joshua, 3rd chap., 4th verse, "For ye have not passed this way heretofore," and Deut., "Ye shall henceforth return no more this way." These words refer to the pilgrimage of Israel, but they also illustrate lite. Man, having never gone this way before and never going this way again, should feel anxious about this journey to an undiscovered country and from which no traveller ever returned. He is necessarily ignorant of the way he ought to go, and his natural religion is not enough to show him. Therefore he should get the advice of people standing at the other end of life's journey, and he will avoid a multitude of sins. Get the advice of the bible, in which are exceeding great and blessed multitude of sins. Get the advice of the bible, in which are exceeding great and blessed promises. We shall not go this way again, therefore we shall not be able to repair our mistakes and that which we have dene and can't undo is the most grevious burden to bear. Besides merely avoiding mistakes, we should make the best of our opportunities, as this is the only chance we have of making for ourselves a character through all eternity. The toil of this life disciplieus for the great country the which we are to come. We should not ally anticipate the future of this life but the three which is higher and grander, and prepare ourselves for that. To Become a Mother? If so, then permit us to say that Dr. Picrce's Favorite Prescrip-tion is indeed, "Mother's Friend,"

FOR IT MAKES Chitdbirth Easy by preparing the system for parturition, thus assisting Nature and shortening "Labor." The painful ordeal of childbirth is robbed of its terrors, and the dangers thereof greatly lessened, to both mother and child. The period of confinement is also greatly shortened, the mother strengthened and built up, and an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child promoted.

Ex-president Harrison receives a larger sum for his articles on "This country of ours," which he is writing for The Ladies' Heme Journal, than has been paid to any public man in America for magazine work of a similiar nature. His first article in the Christmas number of the Journal, seld over 100 000 extra copies of the magazine, of which 725,000 were printed as a first edition.

725,000 were printed as a first edition.

The critics of Harry Perry Rebinson's labor novel, Men born equal, which was published by Harper & Brothers in February, 1895, almost unanimously assumed the story to be based on the incidents of the great Chicago strikes of the preceding July. Nearly all the characters were identified by one critic or another with the various men who took prominent part in those strikes on one side or the other. The book has now gone into a second edition, to which is prefixed a short note by the author, in which he for the first time makes public the statement that the story was written some months before the strikes in question broke out. Nor is there, he asserts, one single line of portraiture in any character. If this be true, as presumably it must be, then the book, apart from the merits of the story, becomes a very remarkable example of literary prophecy.
