A Little Feiler.

He was only a little feller an' scarce higher than my knee. But lawdy, he made more mischief than any child you see. An' he kept his mother worryin' from one day to the tither. Fur he was the blarneyed child to git in danger an' run nuther. Mor'n once he'd play some trick o' his an' make me all-fired riled. But I couldn't no more worry him than I could a mouth old child. For he'd laugh an' look so inerner with them big eyes of blue. An' most afore I'd know it he would have me laughin' too. Sometimes he'd come on tiptoe an' git round behind my chair. An' put his hands smack on my eyes fur me to guess 'whis' there. It wa'n't no use in gettin' mad fur anything he done. Fur the chances was 'ere long he'd have us joinin' in his fun. One day sunnow we jest him, an' I looked nigh half a day. An' I found him on the railroad track an' busy like a bee. I hadn't more than got him when I heard the whistle blow. An' I saw the freight cum rumblin' down thar in the bend below. Skerred? Why, law sakes, mister, you couldn't skeer that child. He cared no more fur danger than an Injun runnin' wild. But I was skeered, I tell you, when I see what he had done. But when I soon was laughin' an' a-cryin' all in one. Here now? No. He's been away agoin' on two months. An' I miss the merry prattle that we heard around here once. No; don't reckon he'll cum back, fur he has gone away to stay. But wife an' me are dotin' on a seein' him sun day. You see he took the fever arter we had all got well. But sunnow he's only reckoned it would find him down a spell. An' he kept a growin' worse an' sinkin' lower every day. But the doctor couldn't help him, an' one day—he went away. Yes, we miss his noisy clatter an' the pranks he used to play. And when I feel lonesome now since he has gone away. The house seems kind o' still like, an' wife sits thar an' cries. But I tell her that's no use in—blame! that lamplight hurts my eyes.

Collegiate Institute Notes.

Miss Outho, who was supplying Miss Millock's place for a short time, resumed her studies in Toronto this week.

Miss A. Dickson has been on the sick list this week.

Fenelon C.I. have organized a basket ball club, which will practice Wednesday and Fridays in the drill shed.

A few of the young ladies and gentlemen, mostly from the third forms, enjoyed a pleasant drive Tuesday evening.

Last Friday's programme, prepared by section A. of the Lit-ray society, was a decided success and much appreciated by the audience. The first number, a recitation by Miss So-la's Houghton, given in her usual excellent style, was beautifully executed. The next, a lecture, a solo 'Queen of the Earth,' by Mr. Morris. It is needless to say was a rare treat, and we hope to have the pleasure of listening to Mr. Morris again in the near future. This followed a choral in three acts which was the occasion of considerable amusement. The last number on the programme, a piano duet by Misses Ferris and Vaseo, was well received. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

One of the chief features of next Friday's programme will be a solo-ton by the L.O.L. Glee club which is being trained by Mr. Morris. Come and hear them.

CANVED OYSTERS, peas and tomatoes, 3 for 5c. as at G. F. H.'s; also preserved plum-pudding, peach, plum and berries. Best Moulton and oysters.—32-2.

Divided Opposition.

Ottawa, March 6.—(Special.)—It is evident to-night that the debate on the second reading of the remedial bill will next week assume a wider and more important scope. So far it has served to elicit the fact that the opponents of the measure are so much divided in opinion among themselves as they are opposed to the bill itself. On the one hand, there is Mr. G. G. Brown and Mr. Laurier, Mr. Laurier's partner who will vote nay to the second reading because it is not stringent and coercive in its terms. On the other hand, there is Mr. Craig and his followers, who oppose the bill because they believe, no doubt conscientiously enough, that the only proper and lasting solution of the difficulty would be the establishment of a system of national schools. These are the two extremes of opinion which Mr. Laurier has called to his assistance. If they by any chance were able, with their combined forces, to defeat the bill they could agree upon no other solution, and a deadlock would ensue. If they unite to overthrow the government, and fall in their effort, as is most probable, what will be the result, the opponents of the school bill have done nothing further than subvert the purposes of those who are insisting that the most objectionable features of the system shall be saddled upon Manitoba, and there would ensue the confusion which the liberals are hoping to see and the enactment of the following:—In and by the Dominion of Canada there shall be one system of national education, embracing (1) the intellectual branches, including mathematics, history, geography, English and other languages, and the sciences; (2) the principles of morality; and (3) political and sanitary science. But in and for each province the legislature may enact any law in relation to the same, subject to the following provision:—Religious education shall not be a part of the national education, but nothing in this act shall prevent those legally controlling school buildings and premises from granting the use thereof for religious purposes of any and every religious faith or denomination of the Christian era, on the day of the day of the week.

The advocates of national schools look for encouragement from the liberal leader. His position, as explained in Ontario, is that if the school of Manitoba are sectarian, then the Catholics are suffering from an injustice, but if they are non-sectarian or national, there is no grievance to remove. If this is a fair presentation of his view, he may see his way clear to support Major Hughes' motion, particularly as a vote for it is a vote against the present bill. At all events, parliament has now to consider the proposition to embody the principle of national schools in the constitution for all the provinces. The idea cannot, of course, take effect, until it commends itself to the imperial parliament, but in the meantime the amendment, if carried, will effectually dispose of the remedial bill. There is however, no more likelihood that it will carry than that the coercive programme of Mr. Laurier will be accepted, but it will at least serve to clear the atmosphere. What gives point to Major Hughes' motion is the shape the debate took to say. The speech of Mr. Moncrieff like that of Mr. Ives, yesterday, was an appeal for the protestants of Quebec. He pointed out that if the constitutional guarantee of the Manitoba minority are disregarded it will be impossible to enforce the guarantee of the educational liberties of the protestants of the province of Quebec. Mr. Moncrieff asked those who are opposing the present bill if they would support a remedial measure should ever circumstances compel the Quebec protestants to ask for federal relief. To this Dr. Spruce replied in the negative. In his opinion, therefore, the protestants of Quebec and the Catholics of Manitoba have no cause for complaint. It will be argued that in this view of the case the present state of affairs leaves the door open to all sorts of trouble. To avoid this, two methods are offered. Some would settle all doubts as to the position of the Quebec protestants by constructing the constitution to guarantee the rights of the Manitoba Catholics, and others would settle doubts by altering the constitution so as to make national schools the general rule. Those who are determined to keep the question open for party purposes will oppose both these propositions.—Mail Empire 26th.

ANOTHER look up of the roads. Shovelling snow seems to be the order of the day in this part. The summer roads will be minus a week this year, as of almost every year—have more than paid their share of labor.

MISS AMY STEWART left this week for Manitoba to join her father and mother. She has been visiting friends here for the past two years.

THE funeral services are still going on in the Frank in church.

FRED is scarce in this section of country but a person visiting Mr. James Stewart's stable would not think so. He has eight very fine head of fat cattle that I don't think can be best in Fenelon, being of an average in size and quality.

MR. RICHARD MADWIN and his amiable wife partner have in a few days to the farm of Mr. John Jordan, near Fenelon Falls, where Mr. H. has secured a good position as manager. My success crown the efforts of Mr. H. and his wife and bride.

MESSES Shannon & Dames of Mariposa were through here last week and purchased some fine stock from Mr. R. Lamb. Mr. H. Austin, the well known buyer of Fenelon Falls also secured several good animals throughout this locality for shipment.

THE many friends of Miss Maggie Flett will be pleased to hear of her recovery from a severe attack of palsy.

A LARGE supply of telegraph poles pass through here daily to Fall's station.

ROADS about blocked. Feed scarce, labor cheap and everybody anxiously awaiting spring.

COBOONK.

Special to The Warmer.

ON THE 3rd inst, the members of L.O.L. No. 1264 at Coboonk, held their regular meeting, and after their general routine of business, two of the brethren were addressed to the mysterious and never to be forgotten degree known as the 'royal arch purple mantle' degree. There was a large number of visiting brethren from surrounding lodges including Burnt River L.O.L. which was well represented by a number of loyal boys who were the guests of the lodge. The evening was worthily represented by a brother who is a credit to the association; a number of no-renter boys were also present from Norland. After all business in connection with the degree had been concluded there was a number of speeches given by the candidates and some of the visiting brethren, including Bro. Bro. Johnston of Fenelon Falls L.O.L., who, during his loyal remarks said that we had a representative for North Victoria worthy our continued support and confidence in the near future. After singing 'God Save the Queen' the brethren repaired to the Patisserie house where supper was prepared in their usual brilliant style which is second to none. Many regrets were made regarding the serious illness of Bro. Derry, but we hope will soon be his former self again. The brethren of Coboonk are neither dead nor dying yet, and are still able to sing:

Behold our crimson banners hoist
On yonder turret's height
They tell of days of mighty note,
And Derry's deathless glory.

BASKET SOCIAL.—The Sabbath school of this place will hold a basket social in the orange hall on Friday, March 20th. A good programme, consisting of dialogues, readings, recitations, vocal and instrumental music, will be furnished. Sale of baskets will commence at seven o'clock. Come one, come all.

SUPPER PARTY.—There was a surprise party at Mr. O. Thurston's on Friday night, Feb. 28th. A very pleasant time was spent by all, the good folks of the house doing all in their power to make every one happy.

HYMNICAL.—An interesting event took place at the residence of Mr. Matthew Wilson on the 28th inst. The marriage of his second oldest daughter, Maggie, to Thomas Fisher of Janetville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. Metherell in the presence of a number of invited guests. The bride looked charming in a handsome suit of light colored hairnet trimmed with gold velvet. Miss Lizzy Moffat of Bury's Green acted as bridesmaid, and was attired in a suit of light brown cashmere trimmed with ribbon gold cloth. The groom was assisted by his brother Donald. The marriage took place at four o'clock and was immediately followed by an elegant wedding supper. The happy couple soon after left for their new home near Janetville, where they will be pleased to meet old friends. They have the best wishes of many friends. (THE WARDER extends its congratulations.)

BLOCKADE.—The roads are again blocked with snow. They have to be shovelled out in all directions. It makes it very disagreeable to get around.

MISS Hugh Bailey has been for the last week visiting under the parental roof..... Mr. K. J. Sney, principal of Mount Pleasant school, was home on Sunday paying his people a visit..... Mrs. Estburn, who has been very poorly some time, is now a little better. It is hoped she will soon be able to be around again.

THE only work around here now is taking out wood.

CHURCH.—We are informed that there will be no services in the presbyterian church next Sunday.

OBITUARY.—Mrs T. E. Jennings, late of the Windsor Hotel here, died very suddenly at the home of her sister in Toronto last Saturday. She left Oswego for Toronto on Feb. 29th in her usual good health.

LAW.—The much talked of law suit came on Tuesday. The defendant was fined $15 and costs—total about $25. Horse play is expensive.

SPELLING VOICE.—A bad case of spelling voice broke on a week ago in L-bacon school. Mr. Hooper of Orange County school with twenty of his pupils, and every Fair with ten of his, invaded the L-bacon school. Alex. Evans teacher. Mr. Hooper pitched his twenty against twenty of Mr. Fair's and A. Evans' spelling match took place. Mr. Hooper's pupils came out victors.

CONVALESCENT.—We are pleased to hear that Capt. Evans is able to be around again. Mr. G. Bellair is still confined to his bed..... Mr. A. O. R. is also very ill.

ANNIVERSARY.—The presbyterian Sunday school anniversary was held very nicely last Tuesday evening at 4 p.m. A number of sleighs arrived at the church and took the scholars for a drive. The youngsters enjoyed themselves very much.

FENELON FALLS.

From our regular special correspondent.

ON SUNDAY last the Victoria E.R. track was visited to such an extent that snow-plough with two engines attached passed through the village for the purpose of clearing a way for the Monday a.m. train. But about Mr. J. Ellis' mill, the plough struck in a heavy drift, swung partly round and struck a telegraph post, thus disabling itself, and the engines were obliged to back to the station and telegraph to Lindsay for another plough. In the course of a couple of hours another plough with a reversed engine came to the rescue, and leaving the former on the switch at the station, the latter attaching itself to the other engine, engaged in drawing back the disabled plough to the station and thus allowing the new plough with two engines to proceed to Hamilton, which place they reached with but a few minutes to spare. The old resident says that the snow of the winter of 1895-'96, has not been exceeded within his recollection.

MR. R. EYERS, the popular local agent of the N. York broom, manufacturing company of Ilogeroll, has met with even more than his usual success during the present season in the sale of agricultural implements. On March 20th he intends to have a parade through the streets of the implements sold during this season, and the fact that on this occasion he expects to employ fifty teams of horses speaks well for the firm and better still for the agent.

THE present season has been all but appearance a most trying and unhealthy one. Mr. John Jordan, one of the most highly esteemed of our citizens, has been afflicted with the last of the lungs with pneumonia and now lies in a most critical condition. Mr. Jordan has the best attention which human power can supply in medical skill and careful nursing and the greatest sympathy is felt by the general public for the suffering gentleman and his sorrowing friends..... Little Miss Ethel Calder, the grand daughter of Mr. E. D. Hand, the well known editor of the Globe, also lies in at the point of death from consumption, and the many friends of the family feel the deepest sorrow for the youthful sufferer.

MESSES John Chambers, R. H. Maybes and F. Sandford are making preparations for building early in the spring, in the 'grove,' on the lots purchased by them last fall. The prospects are that in the near future Oak Street will be one of the prettiest thoroughfares in the village.
