"The answer is not here."
Then within my bosom
Softly this I heard:—

Each neart holds the secret;

(FOF THE WARDER)

Canadian women are women of brains,
Able and willing to work,
Women who've risen to highest planes,
And helped to dispel the dark;
Preesing enward day by day,
Till now in the fore they stand,
Helping their fellow, along the way,
Are the women of this, our land.

Canadian women are women of faces,
Faces which lift and cheer;
Beauty deep set, begetting new graces,
As the days pass into years,
Art has no room to improve
Such fairnesse divinely planned,
"Twould be only right to love
The women of this, our land.

And so in whate'er olime known
Our women have found no peets;
They lead and help others on
In tite and all its spheres.
We hope that they always will Lead on in the grod and grand,
And he are interesting attill.

And be subjects for tribute still, The women of this, our land.

His Mother's Bonge.

Beneath the hot midsummer sun.
The men and marched all day;
And now beside a rippling stream
Upon the grass they lay.

Tiring of games and id.e jests,
As swept the hours along,
They called to one who mused spart, Come, friend, give me a song,

"The only songs I know Are those my mother used to sing For me long years ago."

"Sing one of those," a rough voice cried,
"There's none but true men here; To every mother's son of us A mother's songs are dear.

Then sweetly rose the singer's voice Amid unwonted calm, "Am I a soldier of the cross. The Women of This, our Land A follower of the Lamb?

'And shall I fear to own His cause?" The very stream was stilled, And hearts that never throbbed with fear With tender thoughts were filled.

Ended the song; the singer said.

As to his feet he rose,
"Thanks to you all, my friends; good night,
God grant us sweet repose."

A Theatre Incident.

New York, March 15.—The Tribune publishes the following to-day:

"A highly successful attempt to excite a patriotic demonstration was made last night at the Empire Theatre. It does not take much to do that, but the present interest the statement of the statemen stance was notable, as showing not only loyalty to the United States of America, but friendliness to Great Britain, and that is rather unusual in an American theatre.

"As a rule British flags and British songs have been introduced on the local stage as a foil for the American, and they have in most cases been received with half-hearted applause, or with silence. But the clearly friendly attitude of the English Government toward the United States in the present crisis seems to have changed all that. The theatre was decorated last night with American and English flags, outside and in, the colors of the two nations being draped together in a manner em-blematic of their present mutually friendly relations.

"After the first act of the play the orchestra played and the members of the company sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" and then 'God Save the Queen, and the audience not only applauded both, but heartily joined in the singing. It might not be exactly easy for the oldest inhabitant to remember just when an American tant to remember just when an American audience in an American theatre has before joined in singing 'God Save the

According to the correspondent of a London paper the dismage are pretty advanced in the suppression of unaccessery noises. Bestim leads the van. Reitway engines are not allowed to him their whistles within the city limits. There is no load bewing by hucksters, and a man whose wegon gearing is loose and rattiling is 'u' j' et to a fine. The courts have a large discovious as to fines for noise making. Strangest of all, plane-playing is requisted in Bestim. Before a certain hour in the night the plane must be atleat in their musical city. Even during aloging hours a face is imposed for more banging on the plane. If a dog barks unnecessarily his owner is notified to mustle him or kill him. The only person in Germany ellowed to make all the noise he iligas to the Keiser.

Sir William Van Horne's retirement.

New York, March 15 .- In view of the peated denials which have been made Sir William Van Horne of any intention to retire from the presidency of the Cananian Pacific Rallway it is interesting to note a statement made by him to the Washington correspondent of a leading New York paper yesterday in which he announces his intention of laying aside the reins of power after the year 1900, and outlines plans for improving the facilities of the trans-continental line before he makes way for a successor. He spoke as tollows regarding these
