> Our party was the largest that has left ictoria this spring. Well, this Skegusy is the toughest place on earth; it is away from all communication to the outer world, with one exception, and that is by boat. There has not been a boat to here for seven days, NO LAW IN THE PLACE.

There is no law, and people can do instes they like. There are five thousand inhabitants, and the biggest half are of the toughest character. The town is loca ed in a valley running down to the seashore and extending about four miles up the canyon. The houses consist of small buts and tents. Our camp is four miles from town, toward the White Summit, which is 32 miles from here. We took our first loads up over the pass last Tuesday, and arrived back to camp on Tour. day evening. It is an awful contract, and a person cannot realize it until they have been over the pass. We had very good luck with our horses, although some of them had some very bad falls, but our men escaped without being hurt.

JAM ON THE PASS.

The jam of people on the pass is something awful. It is very hard work to press your way through, as the trail or path is only 22 inches at its widest point, and when you put your horses off the trail to allow another person to pass it goes almost out of sight, covered with snow, and then the trouble begins. I from both my cheeks going up, but not very bad; otherwise I am is splendid condition. I expect it will take us three weeks to get to the top of the summit. We ought to be at Testin Lake in about six weeks. This camp life is not as bad as I expected. We have a first class cook. If you have any influence over anyone that hes the notion of coming out here, for their sake use it, that is if they are coming out merely to locate a WISH THEY WERE HOME AGAIN. There are hundreds on this trail that would give anything if they were home spain. It is something beyound description for me to picture to you the condition they have placed themselves in. We had a sleigh and two of our dogs stolen the other night; but the police located them for us. We are trying to get out of here as soon as possible, and I thank goodness we are four miles away from town, or we would be in trouble all the time.

There have been three or four steamers wrecked coming up the coast in the last two weeks. There are hundreds on this trail that would

I saw Inspector Strickland at the top of the summit the other day. He says it is all talk about grub being short at Dawson, as there is plenty to carry the people through until spring, then we will be able to relieve them of some of their gold dust.

DANGEROUS TRAVELING.

The boys are going to town, so I must go clong with them, for our trail is through a thick forest, and is very dangerous to travel. Three or four have to go together or you would be held up and everything taken from you. It is nothing to hear of a shooting affray, there have been several killed since we have been here, but they are mostly people that do not mind their own business.

We are charged $200 for just landing our goods on the wharf, and another $150 for landing them out here at camp. My letters will be longer when we get to Teslin Lake.

Injustice to Farmers and Oitizens

Rd. Victoria Warder. Sin,—Will you kindly allow me a short space in your valuable paper to give a few ideas as to how the "Farmers and citizens" ideas as to how the "Farmers and citizens" are being dealt with. In the first piace I claim that the farmers are being very unjustly dealt with by the "millers" with respect to their gristing. Instead of the miller taking the amount of toll, which the law allows him, I find him taking about one half of every bushel of wheat which the farmer brings in to get ground. The farmer receives only from thirty to thirty-three pounds of flour without either bran or shorts for each bushel of wheat brought to the mill. which I claim is a gross injustice to the farmer for the following injustice. brought to the mill, which I claim is a gross injustice to the farmer for the following reasons: In the first place he does not get value for his wheat, and in the second place he is robbed out of his bran and shorts which are two very countal viands for his stock, and thirdly the citizans have to pay just about the same for the bread they can now as they did not be overlocked.

[Our correspondent is somewhat in error in the conclusions he comes to in regard to the mills in Lindray, as well as many others. The custom of gristing as was practised some years ago is not now done, in fact by the introduction of the roller process it could not be; that is to give each customer the flour produced from the wheat brought by him to the mill. The practice now is to allow the market price for the wheat, giving the customer the value thereof in flour at market prices, and bran and shorts if he wants them in the same way.—ED.
