The 1tem for $000,000 for the Trent Valley Canal Passed.

The Mail and Empire has the following account of the debage ever the Tren Valley canel, which came up in the House of Commons on Londay hight of last week.

The Goycrament's demand for a vote of $600,000 for the construction of the Trent Valley canel drew forth a protest to night from Mr. Osler against any further expenditure upon what he termed an entirely useless piece of work. The canel would never pay even the wages of the lockmen, who might be employed on it, and he expressed his regret that the Government had not seen fit to put an end to additional expenditure.

Mr. Bennett regretted the antagonism displayed by Mr. Osler towards the work, and at ributed it to the latter's fear that the Trent sans would divert trade from Toront. He strongly defended the usefulness of the work, and asked how it was proposed to expend the $600,000

A Letter from Chicago

To the Miller of The Worder.

A few lines from "the States" will not be an offense to many Wanders rendere just now that war and rumors of war fill the six. The war is or, and the ideas of the 16th century are in conflict with those of the 19th; the narrow, illiberal selfichness of continental Europe in a hopeless struggle with the wild and wooly West. It seems a paradox that two professedly Ohristian nations should be at war at all, and the constucion is forced upon us that either Christian sivilization is an empty pretence or that those who prefess this religion are insiscere.

Europe folded her arms and saw Christians butchered by the unspeakable Turk, and each to called Christian nation said "I am powerless to help," There probably was some exense, but Spain reckoned without the American hoat when she supposed that similar indifference would be shown towards the perishing Cobane by their neighbors. As a result, this blind, unthinking, unteachable and superstition-loving people will find its empire out in two and bounded by the same limits as it had in the days of leabells. It is the same detusion which lost to livitath her fairest possession and sost Spain and Portugal most of South American papers and orators toil us that this is the first war for humanity known in history and I suppose they are more than haif right. There can be but one in history and I suppose they are more than half right. There can be but one end to it all and he who cares may read end to it all and he who caree may read it. There are two results very apparent already and they rejoice the heart of the wise. They are the knitting together the bonds of love and sympathy between North and South, suadered by the rebellics of 1861 5, and, of equal interest to he, the development of good feeling between Britain and this alienated land. The seeds of hate sewn in two unnecessary most be ween these countries grow and ware between these countries grew and have been diligently watered by enemtee of both in multiplied forms and en all eccasions. There was one general cause of it all: False standards of greatness and enceses; a turning away from the sermon on the mount; the substitution of things general for things spiritual. It has ever been my aim as a teacher in the high schools of this country to heal as far as my little power could heal, the wounds of past folly; to bring England and the United States to closer friendship and to deory and minimize all these influences and forese that have tended to keep them apart. It will take time, but co operation and organization and "sweet reasonablenors" can effect wondere. In my front window are seen by hundreds daily two intertwine? flags, the one the reflection of the starry heavens, the other blazoned by the emblem of the world's hepe, the cross of Ohrlet! espable of misconstruction it certainly not that part is which he discloses particly of Russia in the negotatic egarding Chine. His language is olded unmistakable. After stating the stating to the compations of the Arhitar by Russia, he said:

Le to the way in which Russia.

Port Ashtur by Bussis, he said:

As to the way is which Russis secured that occupation, as to the representations which were made and repudiated as soon as they were made, as to the promises which were given and bruken a formight afterwards. I had better perhaps say sothing except I have always thought that it was a very wise proverb, "Who supe with the Davil must have a long spoon." (Laughter). The present government did try to come to an understanding with Russis. We took care to inform her that we had no jealousy, no objection to what we understood to be her commercial objects, or to the development of her trade or to the expansion of her legitimate authority, but we sought to induce her to give up the idea of political predominance and military occupation. We failed—that was not consistent with the ambition of her government—we failed to persuade her and then fell back upon the alternative policy which had always been in our minds as the only alternative polity. We obtained the cession of We Hai-Wei, and we obtained commercial privileges for ourselves any the whole of the world, the importance of which I believe will be fully recognized at no short distance of time. (Cheere). Now I contend that in this prelimitary shiemich, for it is nothing else, we have done very well. (Hear, hear). I do not think Russis is one atom stronger than she was, let us say, five years ago. I think that we are in a hear). I do not think Bussia is one atom stronger than she was, let us say. five years ago. I think that we are in a rather better position, but I don't want to conceal from you my own conviction that the position, the general position, is is very far from satisfactory. We have to the future to count with Russia in China, as we have to count with Russia in China, as we have to count with Russia in Afghanietan, and with this difference that in China we have no army and no defensive frontier. But what was the alternative? What more could we have done under the elecumetances at the time, being, as we were, entirely isolated, for being, as we were, entirely isolated, for that again is the point on which I want to lay emphasis? Some of our critics cay: "Oh, you might have come to an understanding with Russia." It is easy to say that, but an understanding takes two parties to the bargair, and Russia wanted what we did not want, and we have nothing to offer her to induce her to desist from her plan. And if we had made an understanding with Russia, who would guarantee that the understanding allouinges to the Reitish Crown. She

I will not say that so Shaker was ever a boy, but I firmly decline to think that no boy ever was a shaker. The growing youths at Lebanon were hearty and healthy as outdoor air and exercise could make them, and full of fun and mischief—the exuberant vitality that makes itself heard and seen—this in striking con-trast to the extreme quietude and precision of the grown-up members. "It is sometimes asked how Shakers amuse themselves. A pertinent answer would be that they do not appear to feel the need of amusement, because their days and hours are so full of interest. Nevertheless, such need is provided for, two evenings in the week being set apart for social pleasures, conversation, music, recitation, reaking aloud, etc, in which both sexes participate. In summer pleasant outdoor reunions are held.
