GOVERNMENT WARNS THE FARMERS.

C. H. Telegram to WARDER.)

Toronto, June 17th.—The Ontario Government issues the following circular:—The press of Ontario will confer a benefit upon the fruit growers of this province by giving prominence at once to the following notice.—Yours, G. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

For five weeks agents of the Ontario Department of Agriculture have been giving instructions in the spraying of fruit trees at thirty orchards in different parts of the province. Reports sent to Mr. James, superintendent in charge of the work, have just been received at the department, to the effect that fungus is now appearing upon apple and pear trees, and threatens to do extensive damage to the crops unless checked at once by spraying. Insect enemies are more numerous than usual this year. Apples, with the exception of the Spy, have set well; and where properly cared for there is promise of a good crop.

When spraying apple trees to check or prevent the "Spy," see the Bordeaux mixture made as follows: Copper sulphate, 4 pounds; lime, fresh, 4 pounds; water, 10 gallons. Suspend the copper sulphate in five gallons of water; this may be done by putting in a bag of coarse material and hanging it so as to be covered by the water. Sink the lime into the same quantity of water, then mix the two and add the remainder of the forty gallons of water; water will dilute the copper sulphate more readily than cold water. If the lime is at all weak, add a few solution.

In connection with the above, one reads that Mr. W. M. Orr, the provincial spraying expert, will pay his annual visit to Mr. H. (Glenelgton's) orchard at Manilla on Monday, July 1st, at 2 p.m. Every fruit grower in and vicinity should make it a point to attend and gain information.

THE FREDERICKS.

The Executive of the Dominion Alliance Saturday afternoon last, at a general meeting, passed the following resolution:

All Friends of Temperance in Canada.

The Prohibition Bill has been passed by Parliament. The money for the expense of voting has been appropriated. It is now evident that early in the coming autumn the electors of Canada will be asked to vote "yes" or "no" on the question of the total prohibition of the liquor traffic.

This contest will be one of terrible intensity, nothing like it has ever before taken place in the history of our cause. The liquor traffic realizes the situation, and will fight it as never fought before.

The very life of this wealthy, grasping and powerful evil is at stake. To meet it we must be earnest, united and organized.

We cannot win without personal sacrifice. We must be ready to give money, time and energy to the fight. Organization must be perfected. Literature must be circulated, meetings must be held, every voice must be personally canvassed.

Men and women, we appeal to you to help in this work in this hour of need. Do it for the sake of the homes that will be desolated and the innocents and weaklings that are doomed to rule and shame if this trifling goes on.

lose no opportunity for work. Every available assistance will be needed. Weekly seek to promote our cause in your home, your church, your Sunday school, your Young People's organization, your temperance society, your business, your social life. Kindle every one of these influences to support of this great reform. Every one of them is a force that may be utilized.

Make special efforts to secure the aid of the press in your locality. If it will often find a warm and pliant friend. Help it with facts, arguments and information that will easily always be welcome, appreciated and used.

If there is a plebeian organization in your locality unite yourself with it. If not take steps at once to have such a work begun. Lose no time. A great responsibility is given us. Do your utmost for God and home and Canada.

By order of the Dominion Alliance Executive.

MacDonald.

There were doubtless features in Sir John MacDonald's life and character, that are better forgotten. He was no angel, but—unlike many a worse man—he never pretended to be. All was fair that came to his net. Often he used base instruments to work out his aims; in many cases he acted on the principle that the ends justified the means, but however devious his course may have been, it was always directed according to his lights, towards the ultimate glory of his country.

During years of discouragement and disappointment, during years of doubt and danger, with despondency and some disloyalty within, and much hostility without, Sir John MacDonald never wavered in his belief in Canada's future, and never ceased in his efforts to assure that prosperity which he believed could best be conserv'd by lasting connection with the British Empire.

It was this intense Canadianism which was remembered by the thousands of people who met last week to honor his memory. It was in his intense and unwavering loyalty that his real greatness lay. And it is for these things that his memory will be revered by millions as long as Canada exists.—Rat Portage News

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Mr. James, deputy minister of Agriculture is authority for the statement that the three best districts for growing apples that will keep are Antigonish, N.S., Grey county, and the belt between Cobourg and Rice lake.

Arrangements have been completed for the centralization of the dead letter office, as authorized by parliament. There are to be six offices for dead letters. They will be located at Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Halifax, Winnipeg and Victoria. Besides these, offices for disposing of other dead mail matter will be located at Charlottetown, P.E.I.; St. John, N.B.; Sherbrooke, Que.; Kingston, Hamilton and London.

General Grant was a poor teacher the year before the American Civil War broke out. He got a military command almost accidentally by some chance political influence. Admiral Dewey, by the U.S. naval age regulation, would have been retired from service next year without record or note, but for the sudden war with Spain. So narrow is the margin between fame and obscurity so near do some men get to greatness whose names come to be household words for generations. But it is noted that Grant and Dewey had made themselves fit for their hour before it came.—Montreal Times.

A deputation has waited upon Mr. Hardy asking that Mr. Dryden be retained as Minister of Agriculture.—Mr. Dryden is the originator of this deputation idea. When he wanted to appoint his brother to office, he had a deputation to wait upon him, and to ask him to make the appointment. Then he compiled graciously with the prayer of the petition, and afterwards said that it was a pressure from outside that had caused him to practice the nepotism. Now we have the deputation to Mr. Hardy urging the continuance of the wrong that has been going on since March 1st—namely, the handing of Ministerial office by a politician who is not in the Legislature. Mr. Gladstone will of the people.—North Ontario Miner.

Lient. Hobson's exploit has set another upon a discussion of the origin of the phrase "Hobson's choice." A correspondent of a New York paper says that during Shakespeare's and Milton's time it was the custom for gentlemen to ride home from the theatre on horseback, hiring a horse as we do a cab, at a stand. Naturally, each one wished to have the best horse, and much confusion ensued, while some poor animals were never taken. A university carrier and the first keeper of a horse stable at Cambridge, England, named Thomas or Tobias (1514-1601), devised the plan of placing his horses in line and forcing his customers to take the one nearest the door of the theatre. It then became no longer a matter of personal selection, but of "Hobson's choice"—that is, "this or none."

The arrangement between the Dominion Government and the provinces of Ontario regarding the inland fisheries follows the line of the division of work in the legislation and administration of criminal law. The Dominion Government makes a law, and the provincial Government enforces it. This means that the inspectors appointed by the Dominion Government must go. The work of the position of inspector of fisheries, which is now held by Mr. G. B. Sheppard as a Dominion official at $1,200 per year, will be taken over by Game Warden Tinsley. Very few new officials will be appointed. The provincial game wardens will become

THE ALCHEMISTS

Failed in Their Work of Changing Metals Into Gold

Diamond Dyes Never Fail to Make Old and Faded Things Look as Good as New.

Alchemists like Geber, Alzschri, Avicenna, Albertus Magnus, Aristotle and others, who pretended to be able to change all the base metals into gold, were, in their times, first class imposters and deceivers.

The art of making old, faded and dingy dress, capes, shawls, jackets, coats, pantaloons and other articles of wearing apparel as good as new has been brought to perfection by the introduction and use of the Diamond Dyes, those triumphs of modern chemistry.

famine came she had gone out into the country and brought in 300 young widows. She found them in the jungles and on the roadside and everywhere deadened and half-starved, so that they were like living dead. They have been brought to life again and now 215 of them are thoroughly recovered and are being taught to work. What is wanted is a training home for girls. She closed with a strong appeal to all Christians to do their duty in this matter. There were 200 millions of Christians in India; if they were to do their duty all Hindu men and women might hear of Christ. There is also a great need of more missionaries in that country.

A Promise to a Mother.

While drinking whiskey was the fashion all about him, Abraham Lincoln never forgot his dead mother's request to close his lips against intoxicants. Once, when he was a member of Congress, a friend advised him for his seeming rudeness in declining to eat the rare wine provided by his host, urging as reason for the refusal, "There is certainly no danger of a man of your years and habits becoming addicted to it."

"I meant no disrespect, John," answered Mr. Lincoln, "but I promised my precious mother only a few days before she died that I would never use anything intoxicating as a beverage, and I consider that promise as binding to-day as it was the day I gave it."

"There is a great difference between a child surrounded by a rough class of drunks, and a man in a home of refinement," insisted the friend.

"But a promise is a promise forever, John, and when made to a mother it is doubly binding," replied Mr. Lincoln.

A BLACKSMITH'S STORY

He Became so Run Down that Work was Almost Impossible—His Whole Body Racked with Pain.

From the Bridgewater Enterprise.

Mr. Austin Fancy is a well known blacksmith living at Baker Settlement, a hamlet about ten miles from Bridgewater, N.S. Mr. Fancy is well known in the locality in which he lives. He is another of the legion whose restoration to health adds to the popularity of Dr. William's Pink Pills. Mr. Fancy related his story of illness and renewed health to a reporter of the Enterprise as follows:—"During the last winter, owing I suppose to over-work and impure blood, I became very much reduced in flesh, and had severe pains in the muscles all over my body. I felt tired all the time, had no appetite, and often felt so low spirited that I wished to give up the world. I was unable to take a little work in my blacksmith shop, but I was not fit for it, and after doing the job would have to lie down; indeed I often felt like fainting. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after using a couple of boxes I felt a decided relief. The pains began to abate, and I felt again as though life was not all dreariness. By the time I had used six boxes I was as well as ever, and able to do a hard day's work at the forge without fatigue, and those who know anything about a blacksmith's work, will know what this means. Those who are not well, will make no mistake in looking for health through the medium of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Unless religion is converted into terms of conduct, that holy thing becomes a mockery.

The right to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors for drinking purposes will, in the future, be largely based on the system that they bring to the people who never drink them.

There are two kinds of mind: One fits, the other walks; one looks up, the other on; one says "the best shall be"; one is called an idealist, the other a practical character.

Not to agree in one's own group is a most potent source of disintegration than to be pressed upon by those ponderous forces from outside that do not make for righteousness.

The crown of creation, so far as we know, is the domine head carried on human shoulders.

The watch cry soon will be, personal protection, home protection, national protection from the worm of the still and the sodden beverage brewed from golden grain and fragrant hops by the profusion of honest labor and expert skill.

If only the belief were general that the moderate drinker is doing himself harm, men would soon become a law unto themselves, to such a degree that statutes, enactments would be but the outward expression of an inward grace.

Now, as an association whose object is the promotion and development of all that is decorative and beautiful in horticulture and forestry, we desire to record our approval of any local effort to mitigate or exterminate anything that would mar the beauty of our trees. But in order to be practical and useful, we must extend beyond our neighborhood. Then we must exceed our boundaries in such alarming numbers as to threaten the defoliation and death of valuable shade, fruit and forest trees. Indeed, as apparent was the ravage of the locusts insects that a public appeal had to be made to town officials to arrest promptly in applying some means to arrest, and, if possible, to exterminate this devastating and repeated army of invaders within the differential corporations.
