Our Carden correspondent takes a fling this week at what he calls 'an ovil that is sanction ed by churches and states the world over, that is permitting poor young silly men and women to get married without furnishing satisfactory proof of how they are going to support themselves and family. He thinks this ovil a greater curse than the liquor traffic lifered support themselves and family. He thinks this evil a greater curse than the liquor traffic. Our correspondent tells the girls to die an old maid before marrying any of those poor, very poor young men. There's a deal of wisdom in what he says. There is no doubt but that there is too much nowa-days of the spirit of the Swede who cace asked his best girl to marry him, and when she answered that they were too poor, replied, '"if two love each other they can live on bread and water, so if you hustle around and get the bread me tanks me can get the water."

Y.M. O.A. Notes.

Three town boys, averaging about fourteen years, started out last week to seek their fortunes in the world. One proposed to go to New Orleans, another to Cuba, while the third laid out to do up Californie. They reached Calingwood via Midland, but the third day found them home again looking for something to est. They are now studying geography and finance.

The Lindsay Central.

The great Central fair opened yesterday. Each succeeding year has seem a more successful fair than the las'. The fair this year bide fair to eclipse the efforts of former years and Victoria's Fair, will take high place this year as in other years, as one of the benner fairs of the province. Never before were there so many exhibits. As we go to press a large staff of judges are hard at their work, which in view of the crowded state of all departments will be no easy tack this year. The weather, that important factor in the success of all fairs so far has been superb and from present appearances there will be larger crowds in attendance than ever. The usual number of side-shows etc. are in attendance at the grounds. But it is not to acrobatic performences, side shows and funny fakirs that the Central owes its success but to the fact that it is an agricultural exhibition of the highest order.

THE weather is beautiful. FARMERS are busy plowin TARNERS are busy prowing.

A NUMBER of our country folks went to Toronto exhibition, and have returned to tell the wonders they seen whilst in the city.

THERE is nothing talked of now but prohibition. We have no use for it in our township. We have no hotels, and all our men chip. We have no use for it in our township. We have no hotels, and all our men are sober. But there is an evil that is sanctioned by church and State all over the world, and it is a greater curse than the liquor traffic; it is the law that permits poor young silly men and women to get married without furnishing satisfactory proof how they are going to support themselves and family ff they are unfortunate enough to have children, and if they are very poor there will be lots of children. Foolish youths and young girls who should be attending school are getting married every day who cannot call one dollar their own and their parents are not able to help them. How are they to make a living! I say Parliament should pass a law to prevent such marriages. There was a Sweed once who asked his best girl to marry him. She said "they were too poor." He said "if two love each other they can live on bread and water, so if you hustle around and get the bread, me tanks me can get the water." I am afraid that too many young people never consider until too late how they are to get either bread or water. If a young man truly loves a girl and is poor, no prospects of ever having a comfortable way of living, surely he will not ask her to share his poverty. Let him go to work and get a home and pay for it and then look for a wife. Girls take
