Rev. R. Douglas Frasor, M.A., the new editor of the Freshyterian Sabbath School Publications, has just brought out the first numbers for 1899. These are new issued from Toronto and through one of the foremost printing firms in the city, which has done its part of the work exceedingly well. With handsome covers, and freely illustrated, the Lesson Helps should prove attractive as well as useful. The lessons are treated evidently from a practical standpoint, the matter being arranged so as to be ready of reference, and the five publications, Teachers Monthly, Home Study Quarterly. Primary Quarterly, Home Study Leafist and Frimary Leafist form a complete series suited to the various grades of the school as well as to the needs of the home department. The names of well known Sanday School writers appears among the

A oraze has developed among farmers and gardeners throughout the Dominion this year for growing big equashes. Our exchanges east and west have devoted columns to describing memm at equashes that have reached the modest weight of 150 and 200 pounds. We have read these with equanimity knowing that our own Silas Calvert of Reaboro had exhibited one at the recent Lindsay fair that went the record breaking weight of 200 pounds. Every time we picked up our contemporaries and read about these huge vagetables of 175 and 200 pounds we thought of the Reaboro equash and emiled, for where ignorance is bitse 'its folly to be wise. But now we confess we feel somewhat creatfailes, for a Clinton paper tells in cold, triumphant terms of a 330 pound squash grown in that district. The thought of the pumpits ples that that Clinton editor will eat makes us feel and, very sad. This district is still in the ring though. Give Mr. Cuivert another trial next year and if he don't raise such a one that extre space will have to be secured for its accommodation at the Lindsay Central next year we are very much mistakes.

OVER CAMPBELL'S GROCERY STORE, KENT STREET.

Half-a-Minute Talk!

THE true reason as to why our store—Campbell's store which started in Lindsay many years ago-grew larger and larger and then kept on growing so large that now it can scarcely handle its growing trade—is simply this: Good goods at reasonable prices; selling standard commodities, and truthfully advertising, following up the advertising by courteous prompt store service. We say this to our customers and our employees—the ear of the firm is yours at any time, to adjust a difference, remedy a grievance, or adjust a wrong.

We are going to give you a great chance to buy goods cheap this Fall. We want you to know it, and that's the reason we are advertising it, hoping you will read and remember it when you get ready to buy.

Pardon us if we again refer to a much discussed question, but the following item from one of the Toronto dailies will almost explain itself.—"We think we are safe in saying that twice the quantity of goods is now distributed from Toronto as has been distributed at any past time. If the wholesale trade has suffered, the retail business has more than made up for it. The increased business necessitates the employment of a large number of extra clerks, salesmen and saleswomen. Moreover, the indirect benefits which accrue to the city from the expansion of the retail trade are fully as important as the direct advantages." Does this mean that twice the number of people from outside points are buying from the departmental stores, that is, that the retail merchants in Ontario towns, the men who pay taxes and are helping to build up these places, have lost one half their trade, which goes to build up departmental combines. The increased business in Toronto necessitates the employment of a large number of extra clerks, salesmen and saleswomen. The decreased business in struggling towns about Toronto, means that clerks, salespeople and others are forced out of a situation. They move to other centres and thus the towns become depopulated and in a few years where there were prosper-
