OMEMBE.

Our village has assumed quietness after holiday visitors taking their leave—being unusually large this season, comprising teachers, book-keepers, and other prominent occupationers in Toronto, Hamilton and other western towns.

THE cantata, "Story of the star," rendered by the presbyterian S.S. teachers and scholars on New Year's night gave general satisfaction. The decorations of the church were particularly fine and attractive, reflecting great credit on Mr. Hunt, principal of the high school, and

Mrs. Hunt. AMB (1987)
The news of the sad death of Isaac Watson of Reaboro, cast quite a gloom over our village. His brother, a respectable farmer here has the sincere sympathy of every one.

MR. HUNT, principal of our high school with his able staff of teachers has began duties again for the new year. MISS McMILLIAN of Toronto, teacher of the junior department has arrived. CORPORALS W. Neil and Newman left for C school, Toronto, last week.

WORK SPOILED.

Did Not Get the Right Kind.

Why labor in vain? Why do you try to dye cotton or mixed goods with common dyes that the makers prepared for all wool goods?

Well, you are not altogether to blame; the dealer who sold you the dye, and who told you it was good for either cotton or wool, is the one who is directly respon-sible for your loss and failure. He sold you worthless dyes because they gave him a large return of profit.

If you had bought the Diamond Dyes made specially for Cotton and Mixed Goods your work would have been well and truly done. These special cotton colors of the Diamond Dyes are the latest discoveries of the best chemists of the world, and are far superior to all other dyes for the coloring of cotton goods.

Fast Diamond Dyes for Cotton are quite fast to light, and if you use them your carpets and rugs will be as bright after years of wear as the most expensive earpets you can buy. For dyeing Cotton or Mixed Goods, ask for fast Diamond Dyes for Cotton; take no others.

A Boy Poet.

cure made by these pills.

There is a little English boy, who may be a great poet some day, for already his verses are attracting much attention. His name is Edmund Curtis. He is only 15 years of age, but he workes in a Silvertown rubber tactory in the east side slums of London. His father has been an architectural draughtsman, but has met with reverses. The boy has always been fond of reading and studying. His father taught him Latin. Edmund wrote his first long poem when he was 11 years of age. Here are some verses he has recent.

One pleasant summer day my footsteps wandered into the ancient churchyard, where the dead

A Great Hubbub.

There is a great hubbub in the province of Quebec over the banning of L'Electeur by the bishop. It is a question, in our opinion solely between the grit party and the bishop and in which conservatives, and especially protestant conservatives have nothing to do. Conservatives cannot afford to waste any sympathy on Mr. Pacaud, he was the right hand man of Mr. Mercier in his lifetime. It papers less sensational than they seem to | was he who had the Quebec toll gate. It was be, and says, very truly, that you may he who received $100,000 from the Bats des Chaleurs railway subsidy for election purposes look in vain in them for such matter as He has been the man who has done the dirty the divorce reports which the most proper English papers publish. Un-shouting for the Quebec clergy to help Mr. papers we have better, on the whole, than any others in the market; but we are so continually advised that our passion for continually advised that our passion for the liberals would give them separate schools them is guilty, that while we satisfy it up to the hilt. Other journals support the with prodigality, we seldom attempt to manitobs settlement by reasoning they are justify or even to excuse it, so that to not banned. L'Electeur on the contrary, hear our journals praised by a visitor while approving it attacked the motives of the excites emotions of considerable novelty.

Atter all, a liking for newspapers is, like a liking for one's fellow-creatures, apt to concentrate i self on individuals. If Dr. man, be he priest or pastor, would calmly lie under such incinuations or who can biame under such insinuations or who can bisme them if they try to prevent their people frem reading them. The Toronto World calls loudly for the exclusion of the priest from politics. We can hardly keep the roman catholic clergy out of politics and let in the protestant, and that we have protestant clergymen who enter very strongly into politics we have only to mention the names of the Rev. Dr. Grant and and the Rev. Dr. Dewart.—The Canadian (Parry Sound.)

This is an admirable sentiment and worthy of practical application. But to a great extent the evil complained of—of buying out of town—is occasioned by the negligence or the lack of foresight of the local merchant.

In nine cases out of ten the local merchants can auccessfully compete both in quality and prices with his city competitor.
