JENNY LIND'S TERRIBLE NERVOUSNESS. A reminiscent article on Jenny Lind and her home life has been prepared by her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Maude, for publication in the May Ladies' Home Journal. It is said to be filled with interesting memories of the famous singer, and is noteworthy also as being the first view we have of her through the eyes of her adoring daughter. Mrs. Maude brings to light the fact that Jenny Lind was always nervous and overstying before events—just nervous and overstrung before events—just before singing in a new opera or oratorio, but was quite calm when the very moment of

THE LESSER POETS.—Mr. Percy Punshon of Oshawa delivered his well known lecture on the "lesser poets" in the collegiate institute last Friday night. In spite of the inclemency of the weather and the last that the lecture was given here a short time ago, a good audience greeted Mr. Punshom. Besides giving a profitable lecture, the speaker strove to make it pleasing and in this he succeeded. In treating of the lesser poets, or as the lecturer said, the less known poets, Mr. Punshon gave a short biographical sketch of each, followed by a slight cuiticism of the more prominent features of their style. In each instance he gave recitations from their writings, and on these he depended for his success with the audience. Possessed of a very musical voice, equally well conforming to humor or pathos, and very happy in his choice of selections, it is needless to say he won favor with the audience. In his lecture he showed that he had true poetic conception and that his judgment was well balanced; in his recitations in his recitations. Head Lake; Mr Robt White, East Galway; Messrs: Frank Dooly and Matthew Kennedy of North Emily, have all left for cater to his hearers. The fact that few agree as to place has left for Rat Portage where a situation his best choice beare out the latter statement, awaits him. Success to all. Among the poets discussed in this way were Praed, Proctor, Leigh Hunt, Eugene Field, Kipling, James Whitcombe Riley, Swinbourne and others. In closing he stated that Swinbeurne, whom many thought should now be poet laureate, was his favorite of the present day poets. Although a very versatile lecturer, lecturing is not Mr. Panshon's only forte, as was demonstrated when he sang several of the God Save the Queen.

The other features of the programme were an instrumental solo by Miss Eva Ferris in her usual good style and a solo by Miss Teresa MacDonald. Miss Ferris is too well known to Lindsayites to need comment here. Miss MacDonald, on her first public appearance, won for herself golden opinions from the public which will ask for her reappearance frequently. The collegiate octette, owing to various reasons did not score a brilliant success. Mr. Wm. Argue, president of the L.C.I. literary society, made an excellent chairman. The next collegiate concert will be looked forward to; they are always good.

It is the only medicine of its kind prepared by an educated, skilled physician.

Mr. J. F. Sneed, of Omen, Texas, writes: "My wife was badly afflicted with female weakness. We tried three of the best physicians in the country without benefit, but at great expense. My wife grew worse, and we gave up in despair. She could not get in and out of doors without help; was not able to stand on her feet long at a time, complained of dragging down, pains in abdomen. Nothing but an untimely death seemed awaiting het, when — happy thought!— the name of Dr. Pierce came to my mind. I wrote to Dr. Pierce received his advice followed it, my wife improved perceptibly from the first two week's treatment, continued the treatment six months, and pronounced the cure complete, at a cost of less than one month's treatment by the last physician we employed before consulting Dr. Pierce. She used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and the lotions recommended by him. It has been two years since, and the good effect is permanent."

Many pedestrains are inclined to resent the action of bicyclists in riding on the sidewalks. This is not to be wondered at.
