THE CROP OUTLOOK.—The unusually large fall of rain last week did some damage to the Barn Door Hinges and Rollers, Fibre wheat and coarse grains in the province. Building Paper, Tarred and Plain Reports have been received of a more or less citizens' band" music? Why don't we sensational character, but they do not represent the whole wheat growing section. Some damage has certainly been done but it is to be hoped, indeed it seems certain, that it is not as extensive as at first reported. It must not be forgotten that the standing grain has wonderful recuperative powers and that a few warm days such as we have been having has made a great difference in fields that did not look favorable last week for cutting. The weather in Manitoba and the Northwest last week was all that could be desired. According to reports cutting in those regions commenced this week, which is much earlier than last

PROTECT THE LITTLE ONES .- A little child was killed in Toronto recently by being run over in its baby carriage. The carriage had been left standing and had rolled onto the been left standing and had rolled onto the street. The question is now being discussed whether it would not be wise to pass an enactment making it a criminal offence for any person to leave ungarded in its carriage on the streets any child of whom they have charge unless the wheels of such carriage are firmly locked. A few cents invested in one of those cheap, aimple devices to keep wheels from turning, would save a heap of trouble, Children must be taken out for exercise in their carriages and it is often inconvenient or impossible to take these into shops or houses whilst those in charge of them are attending to necessary duties, but it seems cruel and heartless to allow these little ones to be subject to constant danger when the expenditure of a few cents would furnish a safe guard for them.

A MIDSUMMER NUMBER —A very pretty cover envelops the midsummer number of The Canadian Magazine. The contents are quite attractive and include stories by Mrs. Elia S. Atkinson (Madge Merton), Esther Talbot Kingsmill, H. J. O'Higging, Percie W. Hart, and G. M. Fairchild. "The Boyal Canadian Academy," by James Smith, is historical in character, and is profusely illustrated from special photographs of the academicians and their work, including reproductions of paintings by Reid, O'Brien and Harris. David Christie Murray writes of Mrs. Humphrey Ward and Clarke Russell. Lawrence J. Burpee gives some interesting facts about Balzac, while John A. Cooper compares recent social writings of Bellamy and Howells. Fergus Hume's new story, "Hagar of the Pawnshop," is commenced in this issue and promises to be a masterly piece of work. A new and commendable feature is a department of "Nacional sport," which will be of much interest to all those who take an interest in athletics or amusements of any kind. The only really heavy article in the issue is that on "Measure mending," in which a new system of weights and measures is preposed. The whole number is certainly magnificent, the contents being purely Canadian, yet varied enough to meet all tastes.
