Sir Arthur Sullivan went to see Rubinstein at his hotel in London. The composer asked him to step out on the balcony and smoke a cigarette. They sat down, twisted their cigarettes and puffed the blue clouds into the air. After a long pause Sir Arthur Sullivan observed :

"You are a great admirer of Beethoven presume?" "Yes," said Rubinstein.

"And Wagner?" "No," was the reply. Not another word was spoken. They rocked themselves in their chairs and smoked away. After a very long time Sullivan said : "I think it is time for me to be going." the hydrant at the corner of Bond and Cambridge streets moved so as it will not be in the centre of the sidewall.
