Fire.—The partially burned building on was burned down on the night of Tuesday, years ago, had left that morning. Fortutask of the firemen in extinguishing the fire upon the whole the performance was about cannot give with every dozen of photos, but it certainly will pay you to call and see their gallery. They have been for a number of years the old gallery as long occupied by Mr. Bell, they have renovated it throughout and have supplied it with new furniture and instruments, and they are now prepared to do work equal to any city work. They are the leading photographers of Lindsay; they have the experience and everything else that enables them to do it. They use the so-called wet process, lightening process, the instantaneous process, and every other process required to do first class work. They will take photos of their friends, or their children, or call on Fowler & Co. They have a nice scenery as well as found in Canada, and there is the only gallery of the sort
