It will be enough It would appear that at the Union school to prove this to show the true character of the building several of the more advanced classes writer. He states that the boy Graham have an hour or so daily during which they "came down to consult to Dr. Coulter," are not engaged in class work. This is whereas Graham's sworn evidence reads "1 easily understood; but would it not be much got to Lindsey; I was sick; I asked for a docbetter that the pupils in such classes, during tor; I went to Dr. Coulter's—I went into the surgery and sat down." "A Member of the Council" (?) also states, "After a careful exstudy in the class rooms or at home, instead amination"; Dr. Coulter's evidence reads, "I of lounging about the building, etc.? The met him at the door; I did not allow him to latter does not tend to perfect discipline, nor come in"; he did not examine him at all—"he latter does not tend to perfect discipline, nor does it look well.

At several, if not at all, of the ward schools the pupils are allowed to desert the play grounds for the streets during intermission, and at the noon hour. This is not as it should be. Besides, how is it that the fences are allowed to be injured, and the of health and medical health office? Also, we have constructed about and the players which these matrices should should be. Besides, how is it that the fences are allowed to be injured, and the pickets scattered about, and the playgrounds littered with pieces of board and stones, which the pupils leave there promiscuously? Do not the school law and regulations require the teachers to superintend the playgrounds, and make them responsible for the safe keeping of the school house and premises? If this be so, and as a natural liking for tidiness and order does not seem to prevail with the average teacher, would it not be well for the Board to insist upon proper attention to this important matter? The pupils ought to be taught, and can easily be so, that they also are guardians of the school property, and responsible largely for the order and neatness of the grounds. Such discipline lays the foundation of habits invaluable in after life.
