Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Graham of Dalrymple were in town this week, and visited Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Lee brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Graham.

The skating match on Tuesday evening at the rink was well contested. Barclay Colton took first place, Fletcher Mark second. Several others started but dropped out.

Mr. Joseph Stone of Dakota, nephew of J. D. Armstrong is here on a visit. Like his uncle he is a member of the Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. and is a member of the Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F.

Dr. Stafford's lecture tonight in the Queen St. Methodist church, those who fall to hear him will miss one of the finest intellectual treats offered to a Lindsay audience this season.

St. John's McKee has blacksmith of the British family from Mr. Edwin Mark, and will continue the business with the same energy as before.

Rev. F. McAnnamond, B. A., will preach in the Queen St. Methodist church, Lindsay, morning and evening, Sabbath, Feb. 10th, and at 8 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day.

Rev. Dr. Williams will preach in Cambridge street Methodist church on Sunday next at 11 and 7 quarterly services. Evening subject, "What sense has Satan the power of death over men?"

A California paper says that a party who ascended Mount Lassen recently became electrified, the hair of their heads standing straight out, and sparks of electricity flying from the ends of their noses and fingers.

A new schedule of prices for pews in Plymouth church has been devised by the trustees. The old system of fixing a moderate valuation and then auctioning the choice of location to the highest bidder will be abandoned, and the money thus lost in the lack of premiums will be made up in the higher valuation.

John Shinnons of Guelph found a good sized pearl in a dish of raw oysters a few days since. He placed the pearl in a collar box in his bedroom. Two days later he found the pearl a soft grayish mass with a red center. If a finger is placed on the pearl it becomes hard and the red spot disappears.

The American girl dances as she does everything—better than any one else. Her movements are full of nervous fire and grace and her feet seem to fall naturally into the trick of the dance.

Traps for Vain Men. Notwithstanding the fact that the police recently raided a gambling den in Lamar block and seized and destroyed the gambling paraphernalia, gambling still flourishes in the same building, and young men, particularly Yale students, continue to congregate there.

The Chinese Petitioner. As the name suggests, the Chinese petitioner comes from Asia. For the window, conservatory or greenhouse, from holding time until not weathered, I know of no other plant so constant to bloom in such profusion as this. It adds much beauty and life to every plant collection.

There is considerable diversity, both in foliage and flowers, especially in the latter. The fern leaved ones are especially pretty, but in amount of bloom they do not equal other kinds. The colors run from red and purple crimson to white, and in many cases occur striped and mottled forms, all being beautiful. None of the kinds possess a great amount of odor, although both leaves and flowers are somewhat fragrant, of which I am very fond, while many persons think it offensive.

Turning Out the Ties. A writer in an English periodical devoted to the science of nursing contents that the custom of turning out the ties in standing and in walking is absolutely incompatible with grace in movement and with the maintenance of good standing in trying circumstances. The feet should be placed in this. If held that the military position, "an angle of 45 degs.," is not only more elegant but gives the security of the tripod, remember the poet's words, "A tower that stood four square to every wind that blew." So after all the North American Indian is a graceful creature. And what becomes of the dancing master and the young ladies of the ballet—Boston Transcript.

Novel Freight Cars. Of all the ingenious devices in freight cars the one known as the "Preston" car was the most novel. For some considerable time transients from cylinders, each capable of holding 2,000 bushels of grain. Ties were struck upon them in such manner as to form fungus fitting the rails, to keep them in place. Two of the cars, each together by a sturdy cable from the road on journals or axles, one in the center of each cylinder end. When loaded, which was done through a sort of manhole which was then sealed, the engine was coupled on and the cylinders rolled over and over to the destination of the grain. They took a number of these peculiar cars on a trial trip from Chicago to New York, and they were such a curiosity that they drew larger crowds than any train would have drawn. But as the cylinders started rolling down a big hill in New York one of the manholes burst off. Then the cars began to fly. It peppered the faces of those who had gathered at a station, which the strange vehicle passed, like bird shot. It formed a perfect cloud as it scattered the corn about in its own liberal manner, without regard to whether it fell on thorny ground by the wayside or on fertile soil. By the time the trainmen discovered the loadings fully 1,000 bushels had been strewn, and the cars were relegated to the scrap pile. I recommended that they be put on as a milk train. Start them out with milk, and they would have brought in a load of butter, churned in transit. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Business Methods of Modern Girls. A Toronto Mail reporter investigated thirty-four girls in two advertisements. In one advertisement he expressed a desire to make the acquaintance of a young lady not over 25, object, fun and mutual improvement. In the other he solicited correspondents from a young lady between 20 and 25 years; object matrimony. To the first he received one answer, to the second forty-seven; only one being going in for recreation and improvement, and forty-seven got down to a business basis. The number of replies started the reporter out of his matrimonial intentions, and the one answer written by him was addressed to the giddy thing anxious to be improved. She had an artless manner and was brimful of spirits early on the first and only evening. As the hour for parting drew near, however, she grew more serious, and before the forty-seven were exchanged she intimated an opinion that married life was much better than celibacy in the single state.—Chicago News.

Two Well Trained Soldiers. Forces of habit and strict discipline will do wonderful things. Here is a little story illustrating that statement, which we take from The Minneapolis Tribune: "Do you see those two soldiers coming up the street? About a military man of a report the other day. "Yes. "Those fellows belong to the regular army, and if you will observe me closely I'll give you a good illustration of the force of habit and result of strict discipline. You notice how they march? They are perfectly straight, and their feet are in a straight line. Now watch them. When the two soldiers arrived opposite the speaker he suddenly said, in a loud, sharp tone: "Attention!"

In an instant the two men turned to the left and had taken several steps toward the gutter before they were aware of it. A loud laugh resulted, and the two confused looking defendants of the author proposed that they should without looking back.—Philadelphia Times.

CASTORIA for Infants and Children. "Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as well adapted to any preparation known to man." R. A. Adams, M. D., 211 St. Charles St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

W. W. LOGAN, Lindsay, Ont., dealer in Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines.

NOTICE

Two long-faced, elderly looking men, who call themselves agents for Organs and Sewing Machines, have several times taken the liberty, or in other words had the audacity, to run past my man and horses on the road. I beg to say to those parties that they do not, nor never did, own a team that can either walk, trot or run past mine if I wish to prevent them. I have no desire to encourage rowdian, but do not wish to be imposed upon or insulted by such characters.

Market Notes. On Tuesday Mr. Galt Hooper of South Harrison sold his wheat to Sadder Dundas & Co's mill here for $1.00 per bushel.

Albert Ward of Cambridge sold wheat to Alex. Macdonell for $1.00 this week. Beef in considerable quantities is coming into town dressed by the farmers. It sells cheap by the quarter on the market. The bottom has fairly fallen out of barley. If the United States Congress would but inquire into "combines and trusts" the barley which exists almost entirely in the United States might be broken, and United States farmers as well as Canadian be benefited. But there seems no recourse but to enter the English market by growing the two ryeed barley.

The present state of the grain market is a matter which the farming community should take into their account with serious consideration. Day after day from the American side of the Great Lakes, where most of the Canadian barley is consumed, in answer to telegrams asking for prices for barley, come offers one to two cents per bushel lower than the market. The simple fact is, our neighbors do not use as much of our barley as they formerly did, and it is a mistaken policy for Canadian farmers to devote their whole time to growing barley. Canadian farmers will grow other good cereals which are marketable, or better yet, will grow large root crops. This is where the Canadian farmer has the advantage over his American neighbor. In New York State vegetables are sold at such ridiculously low prices that in a great many instances the receipts from the sales of these products of field and labor have been insufficient to pay the cost of carrying them to market. Freight in New York State are lower than in Ontario and the city markets are as readily reached. Now that the crop of barley grown this year is so much greater than the present crop, the best thing to do is to hold back as much as possible until prices improve. If the supply were cut off for a short time, perhaps for only one or two weeks, the grain would probably be relieved, and then instead of having to plead for buyers, barley would be in active demand and consequently prices more in accordance with actual value.—Toronto World.
