The Edison Electric Light.

DEAR STR. There seems to be an impression upon the public that regarding the anculling of a certain Edison patent in Canada, by Bro. R. H. Hell, "That, whereas for many Mr. Edison's patent rights on all his electrical arrangements have been cancelled. Permit me, through your valuable paper, to correct such apprehensions. Mr. Edison still retains all his patent rights in Canada on his electric all his parent rights in Canada on his electric system with but one exception, which is on the mechanical arrangements of his incandescent lamp. The cancelling of this patent right is due to not having manufactured the lamp in Canada as is required by the regulations of the Patent Department at Ottawa. Shortly after receiving his letters patent on his incandescent lamp he opened a factory for the manufacture of the same in Plamilton; but soon discovered that he could make it in the United States and import it cheaper than it could be made here. Useful Hints on the Care of Milk for Cheese Making.

To the Militer of The Warder.

In dairy matters as in most other affairs continuous progress is essential to successful practice. The philosophy of successful dairying is like that of bicycle riding, the man who does not keep going on will quickly go off. Thus, in order to maintain our reputa-tion as detrymen, we must improve and in-crease the quality and quantity of our dairy crease the quality and quantity of our dairy products per cow and per acre.

Before dairymen undertake to prepare milk for chasse factories, they should make careful provision for their cows that they may have a chance to yield good, wholesome milk. While the products of milk may be easily preserved from speedy decay, it is impossible to reorganise good milk out of that which is inferior in the first place. Hence, I urge upon every dairymen the importance and necessity for keeping only healthy cows. They should receive plenty of untritious and wholesome feed. The quality of feed will show itself in the milk and cheese.

Cowe should have access to pure water only, and that in abundance. A great many farmers are careless as to the quality of the water which their cows drink. They seem to imagine that if the cowe drink anything liquid the milk will not be in any way affected thereby. Some farmers will argue that cowe the nitk will not be in any way affected thereby. Some farmers will argue that cowe like to drink stuff that is not fit nor good for them. So do some other animals; but the animal is not always the heat judge. The anperior intelligence of the dairyman is always indicated by the special care he gives to the surroundings of the cows.

Chesse made from such milk will not keep sound as long as if the cows had drunk only met the fermer has.

Milk should not be sent to the factory till after the eighth milking after the calf birth. Theirs may also be impacted from the vessel such as the control of the property of the milkers, but offener from their sensel.

The milk should be strained immediately after the eighth milking. Some dirt may have falled the one last twinted and it winted fault to the hard the some of answer could result in mothing, its till the core last the core for the property of the milker. After the every impact to one large on and left, just as the core wave of the milk after one large on and left, just as the core large the implies three they fall the core large on and left, just as the core large on and left, just as the core large on the large lar

The Patent Combination,

This delectable clique of selfish and inc petent politicians are not dead, neither are they sleeping, but wide awake, and with Mr. Mowat as influential as ever. Like some others we read of, they forget nothing that may possibly benefit themselves, and yet so dull they cannot learn by experience no matter how bitter the dose may have been, that has been administered to them. Honor, they never had, and it would seem that they have of fine quality unless the milk used is clean, pure and wholesome.

Another requirement is that cows should have access to all the salt they care to lick, as often as they like to take is. It is often salt that if cows he allowed to take as much salt as they like, they will take too much and thereby harm themselves. When denied men. No one clae, not even a decent free church presbyterian, need apply except to be insulted; no matter what his standing may have been in the party; no matter as to the services he may have rendered, no matter as to individual obligations, there is no influence that can be brought to bear that will avail any thing, he must stand aside for some stupid blockhead, who was a decent free people.

That in the opinion of this House the passage of the Act by the Legislature of the Province of Quebec intituled "an Act respecting the settlement of the Jesuita Estates," is best can be brought to bear that will avail any thing, he must stand aside for some stupid blockhead, who was a decent free people.

That in the opinion of this House the passage of the Act by the Legislature of the Province of Quebec intituled "an Act respecting the settlement of the Jesuita. Estates," is best can be brought to bear that will avail any thing, he must stand aside for some stupid denominations before the law. Secondly, because it recognizes the usurpation of the Combination.

Now we sak, are independent reformers who happen to belong to other denominations in more numerous, and quite as respectable to be treated in this contemptuous manner? Are methodists, baptists, decent presbyterians and others, to be the tools of a few consing, underhanded political sharpers, who have put their heads together advantage? We think not, though such it restment has been borne for years, but there is a time when forbearance ceases to be syirtue. It is safe to say that a large number, for the reasons given, will never act assing with the reform party until they have some definite and reliable assurance, that such treacherous, hypocritical were pullers who form the Patent Combination. Will not be the leaders. Selfrespecting men of shility, character and influence, are not going to play the isokal to those who are far beneath them, in all that pertains to honorable manhood. They will have something to asy; if they cannot be heard, they will do as they have doue, age tout, and no longer assist political black-constitutes, who have guested their secret favore, on the score of respectability. The game has been played out, the farce ended, and the ourtain rung down.

Our otherway Letter.

OTTAWA, MARCH 26th, 1889, One of those amusing little episodes which do so much toward relieving the dulness and monotopy of parliamentary routine, occurred Mr. Peter Mitchell of Montreal is a man who is not going to be overlooked, and he does not allow the House to forget it too. Just as the speaker was declaring the motion carried.

Our Ottawa Letter.

Not much, Mr Speaker, It is not carried yet, for I want to say something in this matter. Now, Sir, when we look at the composition of this committee, it means that the best members we have in the Cabinet.

(Hear, hear.) Yes, I do think so, and I say it sincerely and honestly that I believe Sir Hector does his duty well and faithfully. Then another member of the committee is Mr. Bowell. Well, I have very little confidence is Mr. Bowell, very little indeed. He will collect every doller that he can scoop out of the industry of the people and construct the Customs Ac on a way to get every shilling he can, whether it is legal or not, and he will then appeal to the majority behind him to sustain him, so that I have little confidence in Mr. Bowell. I come to the next member of the committee, Mr. Foster. I described a man to-day a fleedling politician with the pen feather chair of him yet and that the should support the Government for once in his life, and wished that christian charity should prevail among us.

On the motion of Mr. Dalton Macarthy the debate was adjourned.

Wednesday, the crowd which beseiged the gallery doors long before admittance, showed rather an increase than dimunition of interest. Lady Stanley and party, also Lady Macdonald, occupied seats in the Speaker's Gallery.

Mr. McCarty rose at 3.30, and spoke till six o'clock to an attentive and interested House. His voice showed some signs of weakness at first, but this disappeared later out. into we cannot tell, because we have not seen any signs as yet of economy or anything else from him. Now as to another member of the committee—Mr. White of Rentrew. He is committee—Mr. White of Rentrew. He is a disappointed man his "two-faced shield." Considerable applause his "two-faced shield."

Sire John A. Macdonald. "Will the hou. gentleman allow me to interrupt him one moment? I move that the motion be amended by striking out the name of Mr. Bowell, in whom the hom gentleman has no confidence, and inserting the name of the hom. Mr. Mirchell instead."

Mr. Mirchell instead."

Mr. Speaker, i will not take up the time of the House any longer. I think if there is anything to be done by a minority of the committee, my hom. friend from North Norfolk and myself will accomplish something."
