should have Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It saves thousands of lives annually, and is especially efficacious in Croup, Whooping Cough, and Sore Throat.

After an extensive practice of nearly one-third of a century, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is one of the most reliable and most successful remedies ever offered to the people.

Some years ago Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of asthma after the best medical skill had failed to give me relief. A few weeks since, being again afflicted with the disease, I was promptly Relieved By the same remedy. I gladly offer this testimony for the benefit of all similarly afflicted.

Making a Nation.

Sir John Macdonald is not a sectional politician; he does not believe that mere facilities of travel between the various provinces will be sufficient of themselves to create a strongly national feeling in Canada, though facilities of travel may work toward that end.

Lord Cecil Drowned.

THE WELL-KNOWN HEAD OF THE FLYING DUTCHMAN LOST IN THE LAKE.

Kirkhampton, June 16.—Yesterday, about three o'clock, a melancholy accident occurred near Kirkhampton, by which Lord Cecil lost his life.

Lord Cecil was in the company with Mr. Charnell, who had been invited to the house of Mr. Mowat, a short distance from the wharf, he rose up in the boat to adjust the sail when, losing his hold, he fell into the water.

Coming up at some distance and then such before the boat could get around to where he was, he was being held a series of meetings in the Town Hall.

His death will be heard of with deep regret by his many followers, and by all who knew and valued him.

He was understood to be a good swimmer, and at that time he thought he might reach the shore safely, or at least keep afloat until he was rescued.

Mr. Cooke, who witnessed the accident from the shore, shouted to him to keep up his courage, and he would be rescued all right.

He answered back "no," and immediately went under. Lord Cecil generally spent the summer at Kirkhampton, where he was the head of the Flying Dutchman, who received all his attention and income.

He was to proceed here on Sunday. The body was recovered on the afternoon of the 18th and is being brought here to be embalmed.

Lord A. P. Cecil was in Kirkhampton on Tuesday, seeking to hire a sail boat from Mr. Black, but as Mr. Black saw that he and his servant did not know how to handle a sail boat he refused the use of his craft.

They hired from F. Damsell a boat about twenty feet long, with a broad keel. Their ignorance as to the handling of which was made apparent as they were leaving the harbor.

From this craft Lord Cecil was drowned. The cause is apparent from the above statement of facts.

The Globe Versus Truth.

To the Editor of the Toronto Enquirer.

Sir,—Since according to its usual custom, when anyone does not contradict its dictum, the Globe has recently honored me by making two vile and untruthful attacks upon my character.

I beg to inform you that the matter is in your hands to put the matter right before your readers.

I will first note the polite and gentlemanly language of the Globe. It lectures me, a Christian minister, for having made a certain statement.

See ye gods the Christian language it employs! "Lies unaided," "covered man," "professed exponent of Christianity," "leather-headed," "lost to conscience," "without sense," "without responsibility to God or man," "outrageous conduct," "this man, we expect him as a Barrister would a rat."

This is the language of the Globe in reference to a Christian minister whose character and reputation has stood unchallenged in any particular, and particularly in any spot for more than 30 years of public life, and of whom the Globe, according to its own confession, knows nothing, save by a single utterance which has nothing whatever to do with morality.

These Billingsgate utterances may appear beautiful in the eyes of the editor of the Globe. It is possible, I suppose, for the editor of a merely partisan paper to sink so low; but I am sure that the Christian public will easily see that no one would use such language who had not a degraded and coarse nature, and very probably a very vile heart as well. It must be a desperate case that requires such language for its defence.

I will first note the face of the case! Surely these are the facts of the case! In the course of a public address, in which I was endeavoring to show that the governments of this country were too much under the influence and power of the romish hierarchy, I asserted in proof of my assertion that the Ontario government had made it necessary for romish catholic parents to pay their taxes and send their children to the separate schools! This was my mortal offense, for the utterance of which, the Globe hurled all the foregoing epithets at my defenceless head. Well, sir, I am yet alive.

I will now to the question at issue. Was I justified by the facts of the case in using such language? I certainly thought I was at the time I used it, and notwithstanding all the anathemas vituperation of the Globe I think so still. I have read the separate school Act. I have consulted eminent lawyers as to its interpretation. I have talked with intelligent men who have to do with its administration, and they have all said it was substantially correct. This fact is further evidenced by the judgment of Judge Sigel in the celebrated case of Wm. Land and August Melrose, two romish catholics, who wished to be freed from the separate school tax in 1877. It is also shown by school tax in 1877. It is also shown by school tax in 1877. It is also shown by school tax in 1877.

The Party Papers and Equal Rights.

The Equal Rights Association may not say it is so many words but it is in effect to tell Sir John Macdonald that he is in the wrong in his bill for the Quebec and in the wrong in his bill for the Ontario Legislature and for shutting his eyes to the "Frenchiefication" of Prescott and Russell.

The Globe, however, would have you believe that the smallest of men, Sir John is the blame-worthy man. The blame is that Mr. Mowat is to be commended.

Codlin's your friend, not Short cries one. Short's your friend, not Codlin, cries the other.

The truth is that both have been the friend of special and class legislation and both to class aggression.

Sir John's main defence, we imagine is that no one could rule the country and set differently. But instead of trying to make a defence, Sir John devotes his strength to Mr. Mowat.

The Globe on the other hand admits that Mr. Mowat never made any concessions and that Sir John ought to hang from a sour apple tree.

Do not, Mr. Olsson, pay any attention to either, but let them and the politicians understand that you are an Equal Rights Association man and that you will vote against any party or Premier who outrages your views in this direction.

To the Editor of The Warder.

LETTERS FROM PROCLAM.—I wish it to be distinctly understood that the many articles which have appeared from time to time in THE WARDER and POST sent to the L. school trouble, none of them have been written by me. My belief is, if one individual has anything against another it would be much better to go and tell him so, rather than write through the public press. The sooner the writing of such articles ceases, and men employ their minds with something nobler and better, the sooner will peace and happiness be restored to our community.
