Canada Wants a New Minister of Militia.

Formerly, Sir John Macdonald was Minister of Militia. Then the battalions were well equipped and thoroughly drilled. That system was continued until Mr. Mackenzie came into power.

A COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE MATTER.

A proposal is made by the Board of Education to increase the salary of the classical master of the collegiate institute from $1000 to $1200 a year.

From 1870 onward an approach to the policy of Sir John Macdonald was affected but for several years, a fixed determination seems to possess the present Minister of Militia, to gradually dissolve the Active Militia except in cities.

To such policy strong opposition will be, may be manifested by all true lovers of economic, responsible government.

The present Minister of Militia seems rapidly developing his plans on similar lines. The difficulty, not in knowledge but in courage, of obtaining a military certificate has been gradually increased.

Further, the present schools are very expensive. Large numbers of men are kept at great cost, partly as a standing army, but, nominally, for the instruction of candidates for certificates.

Another fault with the present system is that certain districts such as East Durham have an active militia to every 50 of the population, while in Victoria there is but one to every 210.

The letter of Rev. Dr. Campbell, the well known Methodist clergyman of Victoria, is well worth perusing. It is on the inside page.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Rev. Dr. Parker, of the Methodist Church, Toronto, last Sunday, compared the Irish romanists of America to the Chinese.

The Ontario Government commission to inquire into the French-romanist schools in Ontario has not yet reported.

The Toronto Globe with its usual vigour, not content to exercise its right of fair criticism of remarks made by clergyman or others, invariably treats any opponent in the innuendo ruffianly style characteristic of the cocoa-nut shaper canonism of the Descon.

The Patent Combination held a council of war on Wednesday in Lindsay. What the result was only the initiated know.

On various occasions militia bands have been recommended for appearing in non-militia events, in regimental uniform.

Last week the warden of Kingston penitentiary received warning from a convict that a revolt of the prisoners was projected for Saturday night.

"Father Coffey," late editor of the "Catholic Record" in an open letter to the Mowat Government last election.

Rev. Dr. W. Williams will remain in Lindsay another year at least, in charge of the first, or Cambridge, at Methodist church.

It is very doubtful. Is the classical mastership of Lindsay, with but few students in classics, worth $1200? If it is, then what should be the value of the History and English, or the Science departments, where many more times the number are taught?

Again, let us repeat, the classical master of Lindsay Collegiate Institute is a superior scholar in his department and will, we hope, fill a chair in one of the universities; but Lindsay cannot afford to pay for that preparation.

It certainly cannot afford any such salary. There are very few students in the classical department and these are not aiming for advanced work.

There are very few students in the classical department and these are not aiming for advanced work. Indeed, not only in England, but also in Ontario, here the best educationalists long decided that, in the past, undue importance had been given to classics to the sacrifice of English, Science, History, and French and German.

Therefore, should the Board of Education be careful in recklessly increasing the salaries in unimportant departments. The leading positions must be filled by good men at good salaries, and that is all the town can afford.

The order of importance is (1) History and English, (2) Mathematics, (3) Science, (4) French and German, and (5) Classics. If men not equal to the order are not forthcoming let them be found; but do not rush to increase in squandering money on an inferior department.

If the Board has money to spend, they are a number of deserving, well-educated, excellent teachers on the staff struggling along at $600. Quite a contrast with $1200. These ladies would characterize much more than does the classical master of collegiate institute.

WOODVILLE.

The Farmers' excursion to Guelph announced of last week is postponed for the present, as the G. & N. Co. say, they will allow two days limit, and the directors wanted a week, or at least three days, as they thought that they could not get to Guelph and see the model farm and get home inside two days.

We are pleased to learn that the council have paid a small sum for cedar timber. If that is all, it is probable that amount has been used, which all they had intended. But we still think there is something about the cedar business that requires some explanation, which we will give as soon as we can obtain the facts.

When he required as much of the clerk, why did he not have him tell, or why the printing was not let by tender, as he must have known, at least one third of the price paid would have been saved to the village, if that had been done. Are we to suppose that money has been used, which was given with the contract to Mr. Cove for the purpose of having him do as he has done, abuse and slander the minority of the council, who is the performance of their duty, asked to have the price paid and all other contracts let by tender?

This council have put an end of favoritism, which evidently did not suit the trader, there would have been too much fair play in such a course, as it would have given every one a chance who desired it. But this mode of procedure was not approved of by the voters, and his forehead bows, they must always do business in some underhanded double-dealing sort of way, so that few can know, or understand what they really are doing or intend. If the voters had seen fit to have come out for once in a manly sort of way, and given some explanation of his official conduct, it would have been more satisfactory, more decent, more like a public man, than some insignificant little fellow, going about with a beggar's petition, with which he hoped to whitewash himself in the presence of the County Council at their last meeting, so they could see what they had lost when they had failed to make him the Warden of the county. How triumphantly he could flout his petition in their faces, proudly exclaiming, see what you have missed; see what kind of a man I am; see my judgment of my great worth, integrity and ability; see the long list of names that form the brilliant list of my political life, which would I would have become the warden again, and filled the warden's chair. This was no doubt, the intention of the famous Woodville of the names of those who refused to sign the beggar's petition, so the public could have compared the number, standing and respectability of the signers, in order to judge of his impotence. It would have looked as if he was not ashamed as he ought to have been, of what he was doing, trying to get into a place he would only disgrace and from, which it is the interest of all decent people to keep him out. But after all, we should not expect too much from one whose advantages are not proportion to his opportunities, whose want of foresight and naturally weak understanding should excite our sorrow more than anger, and our pity more than contempt. He is travelling a hard road, taking bitter lessons in the severe school of experience; and the only consolation we can afford him is in the assurance that fools will learn in no other.
