As Mr. Barron seems anxious to have the matter between us laid bare before the public, he seems to think it belongs to hims-if to expose (as he alleges) a blackmailer, or it I am a blackmailer. bere before the public, he seems to think it belongs to himself to expose (as he alleges) a blackmatler. If I am a blackmatler, or it I have tried to black mail him—in such case, I in the eye of the law am criminal, and he member for North Victoria I will say, that in February, 1887. Mr Barron engaged me to work in his interest to return him as member for the House of Commons, for North Victoria, In March, 1887, after the election, I called on Mr. B— for pay He saked me to wait on him until after time would elapse for protesting his election—and farther—he would have to make affi lavit of his personal disbursements and it would not do to have my bill appear there, which would have to be done; in case be would then pay me, but promised to pay me after time would expire for protesting his election and after his affidavit of dishursements be made I wait d the larger part of two years, then when I a-ked him to pay me he beat about the bush by promising to pay, and refusing to pay, and accused me of attempt to blackmail him. He again promised to pay what is right and demanded my account, which I afterwards sent him, and a very moderate account under the circumstances it is, and he wound up with his base accusation of blackmeiling, and finally invites me to sue intend when it suits my convenience to accommodate him to a suit in the Division Court.

The following is my repty to Mr. Barron, published in last week's WARDER:—

BEAVERTON, 17th June, 1889. John Augustus Barron M.P., Lindsay. DEAR NIR. -I am in receipt of yours, dated you will as swer no more from me 1 beg to inform you I will write you more, and so often se I see fit. If you don't pay me, and that hefere long, you will be obliged to answer me. Your accusation that I am trying to black-mail you, is gratuitous and false, and you know it. Every knave and so undrel in the land has as much right to ere out black mail as you is may publish his name. Under the then circumstance I would have supported you, were you still meaner than you are Y-s, Sir, bad your hide been as black as you have shown to me your heart ie, I wulld have supported you stand in the dark and coolly strike down in that election against Cameron. I will, Sir, take my own time for exrosing you. You warm me to be careful. Were your note of warning honest and disinterested, you would receive my thanks, but as it implies a threat, I treat it with disdain. When you first accused me of black mail, I ffered to take such sum as your reduced sense of justice would dictate I afterward sent you as account, and you hawk it about the country to be verified by Wm. Cameron and Mr. Di-kson. I want you to pay me at an early day the account I sent yu. and also fifty cants each for the last and this letter. If you do not pay me soon and that roo fatily, I will have vou explain to Judge Darhell the reason why you demur, and may hope you will them meet your Toronto friend whom you tod Sidney McKenzie.

A Local Editorial.

found in a local paper, we can only make reference, sa the editor of THE WARDER will not be persuaded, nor can be induced upon any refer claims to be conservative, but it appears to be as watchfu' for the Mowat and Fraser Combination as if it were their paid organ. This wretched journal is any thing to suit the times, or rather the advancement of the individual, in whose interest it was so unexpectedly called into being. It is regarded by the public as a family affair which they have not been currous to enquire into, thinking it would be indecorous to look too closely into such matters, especially of so private a nature. The ters, especially of so private a nature. The conservative party know it not, it is a bastard production, claiming a paternity which is not acknowledged for the evident purpose of putting in a future claim to the estate, and like some other illegitimates, its pride is only equalled by its assumption of respectability. It has no influence, no standing, no ability, and no worth, only as it hopes to fraudulently ob ain it from a respectable to fraudulently ob ain it from a respectable source. The object of this paper was in the first place, cheap advertising for the firm, in which its known progenitor is a partner, and while engaged in this, do for the same party a little political log-rosling as well; hence it has no principles to sustain and no party to defend, it is here, there and every where, watching for the main chance, ready to take any expressed to hencit the have I tell you again, it was a political friend of yours who told me vou said it was McKenzie and the doctor you had to thank for your election in North Victoria. That political friend would be a thousand and one times more likely to assist you to money, to elevate the standard of political purity than to work up a case to unseat you. That gentleyou have a provincial fame, and I some time. In this particular, the object of this merry-begot pournal is so dishonorable, so mean and conremarking a provincial fame, and I some time.

them, except to the very lowest specimens of humanity with whom they originated, should never prefer a charge of blackguardism against any one. But it is always the abandened who pamphlet form and present it to the honest yeomany of North Victoria in his electioneering campign when n-xr he presents himself the true meaning of the word, any recollection of his past conduct, and how much he is despised by the public, he would hide his head in shame at the very mention of it. It is only the most depraved of fallen humanity; the miscreant lost to all sense of propriety, who would have the audacity to charge another with his own sins, for which a term in the penetentiary might not only improve his understanding but mend his mora's; if he is not past all power of reformation. Our accusa-tions have always been of a put lic nature, and if we have ridiculed some, it was because their presumption upon the public had become in-tolerable. But no man can be injured by ridicule who is not a proper subject and de-served it. But any thing we may have said will bear an explanation in any company, which he very well knows is not the case with

Mr. Anderson ably defended, and notwithstanding the or that way, as the man at the wheel may ledged by all, to be the most tyrannical, over bearing, and insolent of any other in the place; and it is he that we shall hold responeible for the cupidity and malevolence, which to its disgrace is so often displayed. the beginning to rule, or ruin every thing that comes in his way. Every thing must be account to allow the name of this paper to dis- arbitrarily controlled by him, and run upon promising opposition. This is the opinion of the courage to arraign him, and demand a just account—letting him know exactly how he is regarded by his fellow citizens, whom he has both insulted and injured with impunity. It is supposed by philosophers that every thing will have an end, and when it gets to the Let us hope that such may be the case in this somewhat disagreeable matter. This individual has run the church with very unsatisfactory results without cause within the precincts of the sanctuary, in the presence of the whole congregation, he grossly insulted one of its most prominent and influential mem-bers, which had it been done in any other place and to a less forbearing person, his timerity might have cost him the price of a

Then he took in hand the grain and egg markets, until the farmers left the town having become so disgusted at according to his sage dictation. To do this effectively, THE WARDER was in the first pay do that for him, which he should have had the honesty and the manhood to do for him-so far proved an abortion. Its progenitors lacked the mental stamina to impart to it a power and a vim to maintain a long life. So long as it can be made to serve the purpose of private advertising medium it may survive, but when that fails it must go hence to be seen no more forever. Then will have ended the Lindsay's ancient literary men. But as a party organ it can never be, no confidence can e placed in a paper conducted with so little ability. The artifice was too transparent for any one of ordinary understanding not to see through. The figure behind the screen is too plainly outlined for the party and the public not to know what it is, and as a matter of course will take steps to guard themselves against any further imposition. They are not likely to be surprised by any thing so superficial, so greedy, so selfish, and so dishonor-
