Cured by Cuticura Our oldest child, now six years of age, when an infant six months old was attacked with a virulent, maingant skin disease. All ordinary remedies failing, we called our family physician, who attempted to ours it; but it apread with almost incredible rapidley, until the lower person of the intelefellow's person, from the middle of his back down to his knees, was one solid rash, ugly, painful, biotoked, and malticlous We had no rest as alight, no peace by day. Finally, we were adviced to by the Ovitoura. Ramapriar file effect was simply marvellous. In three of four weeks a complete cure was wrought, leaving the little ferlow's person as white and healthy as though he had never been attacked. In my opinion, your valuable remedies saved his life, and to day he less strong, healthy child, partectly vell, no repetition of the disease having ever occurred.

My boy, aged nine years, has been troubled all his life with a very had homor, which appeared all over his body in small red blotokes, with a dry white soub on them. Law year he was worse than ever, being covered with scale from the top of his head to his feet, and continually growing worse, although he had been treated by two physicians. As a last resort, I determined to try the Coylouna Rummuns, and amhappy to, say they did alt that I could, wish. Using them according to directions, the humor rapidly disappeared, leaving the skin fair and smooth, and performing a thorough oure. The Curiouna Rummuns are all you claim for them. They are worth their weight in gold.

In the light of to-day them "the plan of salvation" has no rational excuse for continued existence one day more. Of course it will exist for a good while longer. Inertia, prejudice, bigotry, fear, vested interests, tradition, habit,—these are always the friends of established institutions. But, "the stars in their courses," intelligence, light, love, truth, God, all these fight for the better future. And by and by the world will look back on these things and wonder that they were endured so long.

Created innocent, indeed, but of necessity without experience; left to the mercy of a superhuman tempter; made the representative of a countless race of descendants; condemued with all his children to eternal pain; left to wander the earth, for the most part ignorant of his condition or destiny, even to this day; the offer of salvation made to a few, but so made that even the most of them cannot see or accept its claims; the helpless, hopeless millions sinking hourly into hell;— such is the picture of Man as contained in the creed. Looked at in the light of human justice, it seems like a nightmare, a madman's fancies, or the plottings of an Inferno.

Such then are some of the causes of the great theological changes the world is passing D. McLean, J. Stewart, J. Brown. J. Wylie, through. What is to be the outcome? Is J. Grant, J. Porter, J. Campbell, J. Vaustone, through. What is to be the outcome? Is religion dying? No more than it means death for the life within to burst the chrysalis, to take to itself wings and be at home in God's upper sunshine and air. No more than it means death for childhood to put away childieh things and enter man's estate. A grander faith in God, a larger trust in man, a higher type of religious thought and life, a pobler outlook for the future,—these are some of the things it means. It is not faith, but the lack of it, that is displayed by those who dare not fearlessly face the search for truth and take the consequences of investigation. The real infidelity to day is to be found with those who stand with their backs to the sunrise, and see no resitive except in the shadows.
