The Editor of The Warder was on Tuesday aummened before the potice magistrate for publishing a letter from "Swipes," whom the Post charges to be Dr. P. H. Clark. The editor of the Post conceives himself improperly referred to in the letter, and has accordingly entered libel suits against both us, as publisher, and Dr. Clark, the supposed writer of the article. The hearing was of course merely pre iminary, as the defence in such cases cannot enter any evidence or argument until it comes for trial. The matter was reterred to the next court of competent jurisdiction, i.e., the maises, beil being given by Meusre, Hudspeth, Dobson and Hughes.
