THE BIDDULPH TRIALS.
Acquittal of James Carroll.

The trial of James Carroll for the murder of Judith Donnelly came to an end on Wednesday last, and resulted in the acquittal of the prisoner. The Judge's charge, which was a very impartial one, began at 9.30 a.m. and lasted until 11.45; and from then until 2.55, a little over three hours, the jury were in consultation. At length they returned into court, and in reply to the questions of the Clerk, said that they had agreed upon a verdict and they found the prisoner "not guilty," an announcement which was received with cheers from all parts of the room. After a brief address from Mr. Justice Cameron, Carroll was released on bail, as also were the other five prisoners, the prosecution feeling convinced that, as Carroll was acquitted, it would be useless to proceed with the trial of the rest. The surviving members of the Donnelly family are of course terribly disappointed, and are determined to spare no pains to avenge the fate of their relatives; but, as it is not likely that they will be able to obtain any fresh evidence, none of the suspected parties may ever be called upon to answer the charges still hanging over them.

A Light Sentence.
Persons who are in the habit of reading the proceedings at criminal courts must often be struck by the disproportion of punishments to the offences for which they are imposed, and wonder how it is that one man is sent to the penitentiary for a trifling offence while another gets only a few months in jail for a much more serious crime. Sometimes the fault is in the law, which has fixed the maximum penalty too low or the minimum too high for a certain class of offences; and sometimes in the judge, who inflicts an extreme of the prescribed punishment when the other would be much more in accord with the requirements of justice. A case in point occurred lately at Belleville, where a man named Atkins was found guilty of what the Intelligencer calls "one of the most shameless and cowardly assaults ever made upon female honour," and was sentenced to only four months in the common jail. He had jumped from his cell, while driving along the Kingston road, and made an attack upon a respectable young woman who was walking homeward and who refused his invitation to ride with him; and but for her desperate and protracted resistance, during which nearly all her clothes were torn off, and her screams, which brought assistance just in time to save her, she would have suffered a wrong to which many women—and some of them in the humblest ranks—would prefer death. And yet his punishment is only to be four months in jail—less than is sometimes inflicted for stealing an article worth a shilling. If that were the most severe penalty allowed by law, the law ought to be amended; if not, the magistrate who inflicted it ought to have been rotten-egged as he left the court.

The School Money Muddle.
All the ratepayers know that the village school trustees are involved in a law suit with Mr. Keith, for the purpose of ascertaining how much of the money stolen by Davis he (Mr. Keith) is to replace; but some of them may not be aware that another lawsuit—one almost inevitable. The old council, at its last session, passed a resolution to retain $633, on the ground that that sum had been illegally demanded and paid in past years; and the new council, on Monday night, instead of rescinding that resolution, as many feared they might be induced to do, made a discovery that they thought justified them in refusing to pay over any of the money levied for school purposes, thus reducing the unfortunate trustees to a condition of utter impotency. This discovery was, that of the $1,000 asked for, $450 was to be applied on the now celebrated debentures, to provide for the payments of which and the interest thereon is clearly the duty of the council, and they therefore instructed their treasurer to retain the $450 in his possession. This sum and the $633 were mentioned make $1,113; and as the entire amount from all sources expected by the school trustees was $1,332, and as they have already had $335 75 from the village treasurer, there is not enough left to satisfy the demands of the old and new councils. The trustees, therefore, will be under the necessity of borrowing money to pay the working expenses of the school, unless the action at law which we understand they intend to commence forthwith, have the effect of compelling the council to "fork over." It appears to be a tolerably well established fact that of the $1,400, more or less, stolen by the defaulting treasurer of the school board, only a small portion will have to be replaced by his surety, Mr. Keith, and who is to pay the remainder is yet to be ascertained. The trustees blame the council, the council blame the trustees, the ratepayers blame both and there will probably be some lively discussions between the school board and the city fathers before the knotty question is definitely settled. Although it does not appear in the minutes, there was a warm debate between a new councillor and an old trustee at the council meeting on Monday evening last, and as the council will meet again on Monday next, there will probably be a good many ratepayers present in hopes of hearing a renewal of the wordy war. As almost every man in the village has something to say on the subject of the grand financial muddle, it is somewhat singular that not one of them will express his view through the columns of the Gazette, instead of leaving us to say all that is said in print on the subject.

District News.
—Mr. Jas. Mackie, of Onemee, shot no less than five lynxes the week before last.
—Mr. Sine's proposal to start a cheese factory in Onemee meets with great encouragement, and the site will soon be decided upon.
—Mr. Henry Collins, of North Monaghan, recently sold in Peterborough a two-year-old Berkshire pig that tipped the scales at 500 lbs.
—A few days ago a two-year-old daughter of Mr. Robert McQuade, of Emily, fell from a chair and broke her left arm between the elbow and wrist.
—In Belleville, a few days ago, a runaway horse, after knocking down and injuring a boy, took a desperate leap through the plate glass window of a drug store, cutting itself badly and doing a great deal of damage.
—Mr. Jas. Edwards, hardware merchant of Bobaygeon, has bought out Mr. G. H. Bertram, of Lindsay, and will take possession on the last of March, but the Bobaygeon store will be continued. Mr. Bertram's intention is to embark in the wholesale hardware business in Toronto.
—Charles Butler, who sold Mr. Robert Graham a sewing machine and took the note advertised in the Gazette, was arrested for obtaining the said note by false pretences, and the Lindsay magistrate committed him for trial; but he was liberated on bail furnished by his father, who lives in Hastings county.
—Mr. Duncan McLean, of Mariposa, died at Veitch's hotel, Lindsay, on Sunday last from the effects of an accident which happened the Wednesday previous at the Victoria Railway crossing on Kent street. His horses being alarmed at a passing train, he jumped off the sleigh and tried to catch them by their heads, but they knocked him down and ran away, and the sleigh, which contained a load of bricks, passed over him, inflicting fatal injuries.

POSTPONED.—The Missionary fund collection that should have been taken up in St. James's Church on Sunday last was postponed until Sunday next.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. Wm. Handcock, of Fenelon, fractured one of the bones of his right forearm last Friday afternoon by falling from a load of straw which he was binding. Hearing, on Monday, that Dr. Wilson was at a neighbour's house he went to consult him, and the doctor, after ascertaining the nature of the injury, put on splints and bandages, and the patient is doing well.

A SUCCESS.—The entertainment given in Ingram's hall, on Wednesday evening, by a number of the ladies of the village, in aid of the poor, was well attended and about $50 was realized, which is very creditable, considering the extreme scarcity of money just at present. The ladies desire to thank all who promptly responded to their call, and especially Mr. Ingram, who with his usual kindness gave them the use of the hall free of charge.

CHANGE OF LOCATION.—The Montreal Telegraph Company having decided to remove their wire between Lindsay and Fenelon Falls from the travelled road to the railway track, a number of men are now at work making the necessary change. On Monday they appeared in the village, and of course had a little knot of admiring spectators while they ran up the posts with the agility of cats and fixed the insulators—which the boys call thingamajigs—at the top.

LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE MEETING.
A meeting of the Liberal Conservative Association of the north riding of the County of Victoria was held at Glenora on the 26th of January. A resolution of sympathy was passed and a copy ordered to be sent to the widow and family of the late President, Mr. James Armstrong, who died a few months ago. The following officers were elected:—John Fell, Esq., President; John Kennedy, 2nd vice-president; John McTaggart, secretary and treasurer. An adjourned meeting will be held at Fenelon Falls, on Thursday, February 17th, at 12 o'clock noon.

FIRE IN SOMERVILLE.—About 10 o'clock on the night of Thursday, the 27th of January, Mr. Jas. Armstrong's residence, one concession from the Presbyterian church in Somerville, caught fire from a stove-pipe which passed through the roof and was burned to the ground. Mr. Armstrong was away from home, and his wife and children, who were in bed and asleep on the ground floor, were awakened by the noise made by a falling raft. Mrs. Armstrong made an attempt, but of course a vain one, to extinguish the flames, after which she took out the little ones, five or six in number, and packed them in a sleigh, and then proceeded to remove the furniture, a good deal of which she saved. All this time she had nothing on but her night dress, and the soles of her bare feet were so badly frozen that she had to send for Dr. Wilson, who visited her at the residence of her father, Mr. John Schell and who fears that she will be confined to the house for some time to come. Mr. Armstrong's dwelling and its contents were insured for $400; but we have not heard what he estimates his loss at.

Too BAD.—The Bobaygeon Cornet Band, under the leadership of Mr. J. H. Smith, gave a very good entertainment in Ingram's hall, Fenelon Falls, on Monday evening last; but we were sorry to notice that the audience was mainly composed of people who drove up with them from Bobaygeon. The small attendance was attributable to a lower charge for admission no doubt had a good deal to do with it; and added to these was the recollection that when, two or three years ago, a number of young fellows from Fenelon Falls gave an exhibition in Bobaygeon, they met with treatment by no means flattering to their vanity. For the offence then given the roughs of the village were alone responsible, and the members of the band, which was not in existence until long afterwards, were entirely innocent; but from what we have heard since Monday evening we have no doubt there would have been a much better audience but for the circumstance mentioned. Those who did attend were pleased with the entertainment, which was a great deal better than is generally given by amateurs from much more pretensions places than Bobaygeon. The band, which is only about seven months old, will make an excellent one in time, and already plays numerous selections with commendable spirit and accuracy. There was vocal as well as instrumental music, the principals singers being Miss Reynolds, Mr. McDermot and Mr. C. E. Stewart, all of whom have fine voices and were warmly applauded. The drama entitled "The Black Stature," with which the entertainment concluded, was exceedingly well played, the leading parts being taken by Mr. McDermot and Mr. Stewart; Mr. J. H. Smith made a good "statue." Mr. Spellman, of the Independent office, played the part of Rose, the farmer's daughter, with considerable ability, and the other characters were very fairly sustained. The piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. Stewart, who with her daughter favoured the audience with a number of popular airs while preparations were being made for the drama. Bobaygeon can get up a good entertainment—there's no doubt about that; and we hope when next her musicians and artists visit this village they will have an audience that will make up for the slim attendance last Monday evening.

Elliot Stock, a London publisher, lately issued an edition of the New Testament for two cents. He had sold 400,000 copies at last accounts.

Living and Dying in Solitude.
LONDON, Jan. 29.—Mr. Robert Taylor, an old inhabitant of London township, was found dead in his bed at his home in the 5th concession a few nights ago. He was aged 82 years, and a bachelor recluse. His only companions through life were dogs and cats. No woman was allowed to enter his door. He had amassed a fortune by stock-raising, and always kept his money hidden in different parts of the house. Once a party of robbers entered and gagged him, and then took from him a large sum of money. He was ever after suspicious of strangers, and denied them admission. He leaves a large amount in the banks of this city, and one of the finest farms in London township.

Fatally Burned.
THE INSANE ACTION OF A GERMAN WOMAN IN WESTMINSTER TOWNSHIP.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—A terrible affair is reported from the township of Westminster. Last summer a woman of middle age and of German extraction entered the family of Mr. Thomas Wilkins, and though she appeared to be a tramp she was received as a domestic. On Thursday evening last about seven the woman went into the kitchen, where she made up a large fire, the family taking no notice, as she was in the habit of doing such things. It appears that after building the fire, she took off all her clothes except her undergarments and saturated them with kerosene. It is thought that she poured oil on her undergarments too. She then laid the clothes she had taken off on the stove, where they were soon all aflame. Mr. Wilkins, hearing piercing screams, rushed into the kitchen and saw things as described. He threw his coat about her and succeeded in smothering the flames. Dr. McDaniel was quickly on the spot, but despite all his efforts she succumbed to her terrible injuries some hours afterwards.

Land League Rajeoings.

The Herald's Dublin cable says:—Ireland has been ablaze for the last few days with rajeoings at the result of the state trials. "Parnell is free?" is emblazoned on a thousand banners in the towns and villages to which the League has extended its operations. Bonfires were burned on every hillside. The popular demonstration passed without particular disturbance, though there have been isolated instances where the constabulary with mistaken zeal interfered when bonfires were erected in the market places and displays of fireworks were attempted in the streets. In Dublin a mob broke the windows of one of the jurors suspected of having voted against acquittal. This is the solitary exceptional disturbance of the peace. It is thought here that we have heard the last of the trials, and it is generally admitted that they have been a mistake and only had the effect of making the principles of the League more thoroughly known and understood than before throughout Ireland, Scotland, and England. Notwithstanding the justice of Judge Fitzgibbon's declaration that the institution and action of the League against the common law of the land the Executive never for a moment entertained the idea of putting the law in force in a summary manner. Even the leaders of the movement recognize that they are safe now to carry on their operations until the potent coercive weapon slowly forged at Westminster is ready for use.

A Terrible Accident.
While engaged at a thrashing near Yarrow, recently, a young man named Jacob King met with a frightful accident. Young King was cutting bands, when the drive wheel of the machine, which was made of wood, burst. A piece of the wheel about two feet long, several inches wide, and two inches in thickness, and splintered or somewhat pointed at the end, struck him on the nose, tearing that organ to pieces, and penetrating to the depth of two and a half inches, crushing the bones before it and wedging itself firmly under the base of the skull. The outer portion broke off even with the face, and continuing on its course was picked up several hundred feet off covered with blood. Strange to say King did not become insensible, but when he got up made an attempt to draw out the portion of the wood lodged in his head, which, however, he could not do, as it was as firmly imbedded as if held in a vice. Drs. Wainwright, of Elmira, and Varion, of Hawkesville, were at once called, and it was with difficulty they succeeded in getting the splinters removed. They also had to remove a large portion of the surrounding bones that had been crushed. King stood the operation like a hero. The splinters when removed measured two and three quarter inches in length, one and half inches in width, and three quarters of an inch in thickness.

A Wide Choice.
A Boston doctor is a gentleman of very particular tastes. He wants a wife and cannot find one to suit him in even cultured Boston, so he has sent the Whig, and we presume every other paper on the continent, a long circular describing the girl he would like and his reasons for advertising. The combined description and apology would fill a column and half of this paper. He would have to be at least an earthly saint to be worthy of the woman whom he desires. His modesty does not mark him for a saint, however, and his check in asking a paper to publish so much personal nonsense will forever forbid his canonization with our will and consent.—Kingston Whig.

A Faithful Dog.

On Monday evening a horse belonging to Mr. H. C. Winch ran away, and during the run down street a buffalo robe which was in the sleigh was thrown out on the road. An employee of the Review saw the spill, and picked up the robe, but not knowing who the owner was brought it to the office. While carrying it up street he felt something tugging at it and found that a bound was following him and trying to take the robe away from him. Not feeling disposed to hand the robe over to the care of a dog, he brought it to the office, followed by the dog. He laid the robe on the floor of the press-room about 7 o'clock, and the dog immediately lay down on it and took possession, keeping at bay all who tried to touch the robe. When the hour of 10 o'clock arrived preparations were made for closing up; but the dog refused to stir, and accordingly was locked up with its charge for the night. When the shop was opened in the morning the bound was still at its post, and was just as savage as on the previous evening. The pressmen were in a fix and could not get rid of the animal by any means, until, as luck would have it, one of the boys recognized the dog as Mr. Winch's, and, going to the market, one of that gentleman's employees accompanied the messenger back, and the dog recognizing him instantly gave up the robe and scampered off, evidently thinking that it had performed its duty.—Peterborough Review.
