heedless ears. We cannot hurry the "Keith suit" to an issue, nor can we wish—present its terminating in favour of Mr. Keith, as it appears likely to do.

DENTAL NOTICE.—Persons wishing to see Mr. Neelds, dentist, will please call early on Monday at the McArthur House, as he will remain only one day.

VERULAM SHOW.—The fall show of the Verulam Agricultural Society was held at Bobayagon on Wednesday last, and was, we hear, a very poor one.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—Thursday next, the 20th inst., has been appointed by royal proclamation a day of thanksgiving for the bountiful harvest, and we suppose it will be observed in Fenelon Falls as elsewhere.

PERSONAL.—Mr. George Laidlaw, of Toronto, and one of his daughters were guests at the McArthur House in this village during the first half of the week.

HOME AGAIN.—Mr. James Dickson, P. L. S., of this village, returned home on Wednesday evening from his survey of the township of Hunter in the Muskoka District, and his many friends will be glad to learn that he is in the best of health.

A VISITOR.—Mr. Didaee Grise, formerly of this village, but now a resident of Midland, is visiting his old acquaintance in Fenelon Falls. He speaks very favourably of the "city," which is growing rapidly and is bound sooner or later to be a place of considerable importance.

RAIN.—There was a very heavy rain on Tuesday night, which gave a fresh impetus to the grass, and pasturage is becoming abundant again. Notwithstanding the recent showers, some of the bush fires were still fighting for existence, but the deluge of Tuesday no doubt finished them.

COLD.—There have been two or three frosty nights of late, the cold being sufficiently severe to form ice nearly half an inch thick on still water. But the weather is now mild again, and long may it continue so, for if the setting in of winter can be postponed until the beginning of December so much the better.

THE NEW MILL.—The smoke-stack on McArthur & Thomson's new mill was put up last Monday, and those who assisted in its erection say it was one of the largest they ever saw, though none could give us the exact length and circumference. We expect every day to hear that the mill is in operation, and it is time it was, for the proprietors have been put to great loss and annoyance by repeated delays in the fulfilment of contracts for machinery, &c.

MILL ACCIDENT.—In Smith & Fell's shingle mill, last Monday, a pulley suddenly burst and a fragment of it struck Mr. Ronald Mackay, one of the employees, on the back, inflicting a long but fortunately not a deep, gash near his shoulder. About two seconds before the accident Mr. Mackay had moved a few steps, and by so doing probably saved his life, for a large piece of the pulley passed over the spot where he had just been standing and went through the side of the mill. The wound was not sufficiently serious to keep Mr. Mackay from work for more than two or three days.

A VALUABLE ACQUISITION.—Mr. George Manning, of this village, has just purchased the well known stallion Netherby from Mr. Colquhoun, of Carden. Netherby is a dark bay, with an extraordinary mane and tail, the former measuring 4 feet 5 inches in length. He is from imported stock on both sides and will be nine years old next spring. He has taken the first prize as a general purpose horse wherever shown, and several of his colts have been sold at what are considered very high prices in this part of the country. Mr. Henry Bozoin, of Cambridge, bought him (but where we do not know) when a foal and sold him in his second year to Mr. Colquhoun for $500. Mr. Manning is rather reticent about getting what he gave for him, but says that he has already been offered $200 more than he paid. Netherby is unquestionably a good horse; how good must be left for better judges than we are to determine.

AN UPSET.—Mr. Cochrane, butcher, of Fenelon Falls, has a new mare; that is to say, she is newly acquired, though we dare say some years have elapsed since she was made. Last Tuesday he drove her into the country a short distance and tied her to a fence while he went on to the farm to get a victim to the carnivorous appetite of man. The victim proved to be a muley heifer, and either the absence of horns or some other peculiarity in her appearance so frightened the mare that she commenced to back up, probably with the intention of running away. But she only succeeded in pulling the rail to which she was tied off the fence, which increased her fear so much that she began to kick; and, getting both legs over the shafts, she fell sideways, and in so doing turned the buggy completely upside down. Mr. Cochrane expected that it would be smashed to pieces, but it wasn't; its only injuries being a sprained axle and some slightly fractured wood-work.

ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday last Mr. John Kerr, Sr., of this village, met with an accident which we are glad to learn was much less serious than was at first reported. Mr. Kerr, who is bailiff of the 2nd Division Court, drives a sober looking black horse of mature age, and as it is always well fed and occasionally has but little to do, it is apt to be playful at times, though never vicious. While quietly jogging along the road beyond Rosedale, some colts in a field passed along at full speed just inside the fence, and the old horse probably thought he would have a race with them. At any rate he started off at a gallop, and by some means the buggy came into contact with a fence, which tore two or three spokes out of one of the wheels, and came so near upsetting the vehicle that Mr. Kerr was thrown out. The horse, after running a short distance further, either repented of his misdeed and stopped of his own accord or was caught and brought back, and Mr. Kerr was helped into his buggy by a farmer who saw the accident from his doorway and went to see if he could be of any assistance. Mr. Kerr drove to Rosedale, but by the time he got there he felt so unwell that Mr. John McIntyre, Sr., brought him home. Dr. Bryson was sent for, and rumour had it that his patient was very badly hurt, but such proves not to be the case. There are several bruises, especially on the right leg, and drawing a long breath causes a slight pain, but that is the worst, and we hope to hear in a few days that Mr. Kerr, who has nearly completed his 79th year, is as well and strong as ever.

A Blackfoot Belle. Selecting a young squaw, the wife of a chief, as an example, I took careful note of her attire, that the lady readers of THE GLOBE may be informed as to the costume of a Blackfoot belle. The upper portion of her face, including forehead, eyes and cheeks, were painted in bright chrome yellow, the lower portion of her face was scarlet; she wore a scarlet blanket thrown loosely over her shoulders, and under this was a long loose blouse made out of a dark navy blue blanket, and trimmed with pipings of scarlet and white. This blouse was fastened at the waist with a leather belt fully eight inches broad, and literally covered with large bosses of polished brass. On her neck was a string of brass beads as large as cherries. One of her bracelets consisted of a coil of heavy brass wire that would weigh not less than a pound and a half, while the other, which was nearly the same weight, was made of large brass beads, and several of her fingers were nearly covered with coils of brass wire and beads.

A Dakota Farm. Mr. Dalrymple, whose farm at Fargo, Dakota Territory, forty-five miles long, one mile wide, and on which he has this year raised 600,000 bushels of wheat, is divided into five divisions of 6,000 acres. Each of these is again divided into battalions, with a foreman or major, who has charge of 2,000 acres. Under him are three companies, each having a captain, and cultivating a section, which is 640 acres of land. Each superintendent plants his crop and harvests it, reporting from time to time to Mr. Dalrymple, who directs and oversees the whole, but spends the greater part of his time at the office, planning and calculating for the best results from the smallest outlay. The superintendents are responsible for the good order of their men, stock and machinery, and there is a decided rivalry between them as to which can produce the biggest crop. When the ploughing commences in the spring, the men go out in gangs, each taking 640 acres, under the direction of a foreman, who rides along on horseback to see that the work is done properly. Everything is in the military style.

Fair Rents in Great Britain. News comes of the reletting at a reduction in the rent of about £400 per year, or 25 per cent., of one of the best farms on the Holkham estate. Another farm on the same estate has been relet at even a greater reduction, but in this case the state of the land is not so good. A small estate of first-class land near King's Lynn, which formerly let at £3 per acre, and was then supposed to have a selling value of £100 per acre, has been offered for £45 per acre; while another farm in the same county, which was bought a few years ago for £7,000, and has had an additional £1,000 expended upon it, cannot now be sold for £400, the amount of the first mortgage, and there are two later mortgages upon it. In Scotland the state of matters appears to be even more deplorable. According to the same correspondent one farmer in Kincardineshire has certainly lost £5,000, and is doubtful of getting any drawbacks made in his rent; another, who lately committed suicide, owing presumably to money troubles, is believed to have lost a similar amount; and the dismal tale winds up with the statement that "widespread ruin to those having leases is only a question of time" in this country.

A Picturesque Scene. The Globe's North-West correspondent thus describes the crossing of a B-or-River ford by the band of Indians assembled to do honour to the Governor-General. As I reached the ford they had already collected in large numbers in a little clearing on the opposite bank, and lit up by the morning sunlight, the picturesque one. Almost every conceivable bright colour was represented in that gaily-attired group; the copper skins of the Indians themselves, the scarlet, blue, purple, green, orange, crimson, white and brilliantly striped blankets, the glistening brass ornaments, the buff, brown and white moose, buffalo and caribou skins tanned and worked into tunics, the brightly-dyed feathers and rich furs, all blended with a strange and luxurious mingling of colours more suggestive of real barbaric splendor than anything we have yet seen. The ponies, too, represented every conceivable color, and nearly all had enough of the points in their composition to insure the most startling effects in the way of white markings. They were black, brown, chestnut, bay, buckskin, cream, roan, grey, white and piebald, and nearly every one was strongly marked with a blazed face and white stockings, or irregular spots of white or black, indicating a piebald ancestry. The sunlight breaking through a rift in the foliage on the east bank threw across the swift limpid river a glittering band of golden light, and into this brilliant zone the long-tailed, shaggy-maned ponies, each carrying one, two or three gaily-dressed riders, walked in single file. The ford was so deep that often only the riders' heads, and the bodies of their riders were visible, but still the gallant little fellows, acting their unshod feet firmly upon the gravelly bottom, stoutly stemmed the current, and soon the vanguard had reached the eastern shore. For three quarters of an hour this strange, wild looking procession was crossing the ford, looking in that gleaming watery path like a narrow strip of fantastic embroidery worked into a broad belt of burnished gold.

Another Biddulph Sensation. BILL AND ROBERT DONNELLY IMPLICATED IN AN ATTEMPT TO BURN A MILL. LUCAN, Oct. 10.—Parties were caught in the act of firing Stanley, Dight & Co.'s mills at eleven o'clock last night. They succeeded in boring four holes through the side of the building and pouring coal oil in the holes, and were in the act of applying the match, when they were pounced upon by a constable and posse of men lying in wait for them. One of the parties escaped to the woods, but Bill Donnelly, Bob Donnelly, Con Carthy, his son Patrick, and John Kent have been arrested and are now safe in the lock-up. Other arrests will be made before morning.

A Mormon Incident. Here is a horrible story told by a correspondent of the Eureka Leader of what he saw at Ogden, a railroad town in Utah, where a number of Swedish immigrants were waiting to take the train to Brigham City:—"I was looking on with great curiosity, when I discovered a tow-headed, boxy girl weeping bitterly. Two or three old women were sordid at her, and a withered old Mormon stood with his arm around her. He finally coaxed her off to his wagon, she screaming and crying that she would not marry him, and he never letting go of her until he set her down upon the wagon tongue. A girl was following them. I halted her and asked what was the trouble. She said that this girl was pledged to the old man and that he had paid her passage out, and now she did not want to marry him, because he already had a wife and seven children. I asked her if she would be forced to do so. The girl replied: "Of course she will. They have pledged her to him." Poor thing! the last I saw of her she was struggling to get away from him, and the withered old fellow was holding on with both arms around her. It is sickening to think of such doings in a civilized land. Dark as that girl's mind was, she had some grains of virtue and some delicate instincts. The despair pictured on her face showed that."

West Virginia City. A city has lately been founded in Dakota in four days, with nine saloons, two bar banks, and a daily newspaper. It happened in this fashion. Some time ago an old prospector named Redpath found some flat rock on the hills, about ten miles from the city of Deadwood, which he thought was pure carbonate. He brought it to Deadwood, had it assayed, and found that it "went up" to thousands of ounces to the ton. The secret finally leaked out as to where the stuff came from, and in a short time the "stampede of the season" was inaugurated. The ground on which the discovery was made was in a wild portion of the country that had never been prospected. There was no road to the spot, and the first mob of treasure seekers made their way there on horse-back or on foot as best they could. They came back with specimens of rich rock, and in a day or two Deadwood, Central City and Lead City were almost depopulated. A town was laid out, lots drawn for by all present, rules of Government agreed to, and the place named "West Virginia City." In forty-eight hours the town contained nearly 1,000 inhabitants, and the saloons were in full operation. On the third day two bar banks were opened, restaurants were started, and on the fourth day a daily newspaper called the Carbonate Reporter was issued. Fifty buildings were erected during one week last month, and as much as $500 has been paid for building lots. The sanitary arrangements of the town are, however, as yet in their infancy.

Fair Trade and Land Reform. The World's London correspondent says:—"While the Fair Trade movement has not in any way lost its hold upon the masses, the Land Reform question is rapidly coming to the front, both in England and Scotland. Farmers who have threshed their wheat find that the yield is even smaller than they anticipated, and the bloom in the agricultural districts is almost unparalleled. To make matters worse the Austrian Steamship Company has just shown that it is possible to ship beef and mutton from the Antipodes and to land them in good condition in our markets, and a number of large vessels are now being fitted up on the refrigerator plan specially for this trade. The farmer thought things had surely reached their worst when the United States and Canada began to pour their surplus wheat and cattle into Liverpool and London; but now that Australia, the continent and sheep walks, has taken up the business, he can see nothing between him and ruin except a radical measure of land reform. The Aberdeenshire farmers estimate that the fall in the price of beef represents a loss to them of £180,000 pounds a year. Hundreds of farmers have already pulled up stakes and flocked into the manufacturing centres, only to increase the depression there. Those who are still struggling on their farms agree that the Government must step in at once and deal with the question once for all, and it is well known that Mr. Gladstone is ambitious to crown his life's work with a Land Reform Bill of stupendous proportions.

The Radicals have done encourage the demand for an bill, and of late the ministerial organs, like the London Daily News, have been printing letters from special correspondents sent into the provinces to make the most of the farmers' side of the case. Everything betokens an early attempt on the part of the ministry to grapple with the question, and unless a great leader springs up in the Fair Trade ranks Land Reform will probably overshadow that Tory movement. Various organizations representing English and Scotch farmers have prepared drafts of land bills, which agree upon the following planks:—"The abolition of entail and primogeniture; cheap transfer and registration; freedom of sale by the tenant of the right and goodwill of the holding; the abolition of restrictions in leases by which the owner of the soil regulates cropping; compensation for unexhausted improvements and the reclamation of wastes; the total abolition of the game laws and of hypothecic distraint; fair rents, to be fixed by the County Courts.

Iowa is erecting churches at the rate of one per fortnight. The Land League has selected 400 cases as tests under the Land Act. It was so old in the churches of Winnipeg, Sunday before last, that the congregations could barely endure it. An electric railroad is to be opened in Ireland from Port Rush to the Giant's Causeway, a distance of a few miles. Munton will be dear in England this winter, as there are 2,000,000 fewer sheep in the country than there were three years ago. It is said that President Garfield executed his will in the latter part of last August, giving all his property to his wife, about twenty-five thousand dollars. This was his saving from a service in the Government of nearly twenty years. The typhoid fever epidemic in Coaticook is attributed to the disgusting smell emitted from the bones which are brought there in large quantities and burned, after which they are used in clarifying the sugar for the beet root sugar works. The captain of a Hamburg steamer recently arrived in port with a cargo of eleven veritable cannibals whom he obtained near the Straits of Magellan. At first he fed them with cooked food, but they all sickened upon that diet. A large supply of raw meat, however, restored the tone of their stomachs, and by the aid of a few such delicacies as tallow candles they reached Hamburg in good condition. Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters are in every sense of the word a worthy family medicine, and we are glad to learn that they are taking the place of those nauseous little Pills John Nugent is agent for the Bitters here.

COMMUNICATIONS. To the Editor of the Fenelon Falls Gazette. Sir.—I was pleased to see in the last issue of the Gazette that you had partially recovered from the state of mental lethargy that you have for some time been laboring under, and regaled your readers with a little healthily criticism of our chief municipal officer and his action with reference to the bridge. The ratepayers have heard, on more than one occasion, from H. W. Green how he would do their business for them if they would only entrust him with the doing of it; and to our sorrow we now know his business capacity both as a Trustee and Receiver. I am sorry, sir, you did not give us your opinion of Mr. Green's fence and suit. C. W. Moore is a nice old gentleman and has endeared himself to some of the older members of the board by his intelligent social qualities, while some of the younger are under obligations to him for many an enjoyable evening on the off-boarding place councillor Campbell's motion was put in the minute book. So I think C. W. M. has a right to the road from the kindness he has shown to our municipal body, just as much as the man Davis had a right to take illegally from the village hundreds of dollars for school money, to pay a three-quarters salary for this year. Six hundred dollars of that twenty-three hundred is to pay the arrears occasioned by Davis. Mark you, it is not Mr. Keith that is asked for the money, but the ratepayers, and so it will be to the school committee, unless we rid ourselves of the "Taxation" man, by trying to govern in the council and school board, and select fearless, honest men who have no axes to grind and who will not aid and abet dishonesty, and see that the offending trustees in that Davis matter pay that money back into the village treasury; that money back into the hands of Mr. Keith or not. But just so long as the present men are at the head of affairs in the council and school board, just so long will the ratepayers be without their fourteen hundred dollars, as they are portions of the same money, and fair. I do sincerely hope, Mr. Editor, that you will steadily improve, and that we will hear from you again shortly. Yours truly, VILLAGER.
