Guiteau's Trial. The trial of Guiteau for the murder of President Garfield will, it is expected, terminate next week, a little over a month from its commencement. It has certainly been one of the most singular judicial exhibitions ever witnessed; but Judge Cox gives the not unreasonable explanation that he allowed the prisoner the extraordinary latitude of speech and action that he has enjoyed in order that the jury might be better able to form an opinion as to his mental condition; and he also stated, a few days ago, that "a judge in a criminal court had no right in law for restraining a prisoner on trial for his life from making any demonstrations he chose to make, except they amounted to actual violence to those around him." The defence closed on Tuesday last, and the attempt to establish Guiteau's insanity is thought to have failed, as only a few of the experts summoned on his behalf were called into the witness-box, and even their evidence did not tell much in his favor. That a conviction that the prisoner is responsible for his actions, and consequently ought to be hanged, prevailed widely throughout the country is proved by a letter which has lately appeared in print over the signature of "The President of the Garfield Avengers." It demands the execution of Guiteau, and says that if he is acquitted an army of the Avengers will march to Washington, in accordance with an oath they have taken, and lynch not only the assassin but Judge Cox and the jury also.

The Third Time's the Charm. The meeting on Monday evening last was, like the previous one, a regular fizzle, and, with the proceedings conducted in the same manner, it would occupy a month of Mondays to give public matters that thorough discussion which Mr. Greene said was the object of his first meeting, but which it really appears to us he is anxious to prevent. The attendance on Monday evening was large and respectable, but about an hour and a half of precious time was consumed in loitering around the stove and squabbling over the appointment of a chairman; and in the end Mr. John Moffat was elected to that position, which he accepted with much reluctance, as he said he had never before presided at a public meeting. However, he, at last took the chair, which he filled in a very creditable manner, and after a few remarks called upon the first speaker to come forward. Then arose another squabble over, firstly, the time which each speaker was to keep the floor, and, secondly, as to who should speak first. Mr. Greene wishing to follow Mr. Dickson, and Mr. Dickson expressing a determination not to speak until he had been preceded by Mr. Greene. And so the night wore on, the time being consumed chiefly in "bald, disjointed chat" and brief speeches which were nipped in the bud by interruptions before the pith of the matter—whatever it was—could be extracted by the attentive rat-payers. To take intelligible notes of the cross-fire of words that was constantly indulged in would have been a difficult achievement for an ambidextrous reporter with two lead pencils, and we gave it up in despair after we had got twelve pages of abbreviations which, with the "missing links" supplied, would furnish enough copy to fill at least three columns of the Gazette with nothing in particular, of which the discussion regarding the now celebrated "Moore's fence" would form no inconsiderable portion. About 11 o'clock it was moved by Mr. Dickson and seconded by Mr. John Austin, "That this meeting stand adjourned until next Monday evening at 8 o'clock, for further discussion of public questions," and the chairman put the motion and declared it carried. As the audience was in the act of leaving at the moment, and no show of hands in the negative was called for, Mr. Greene objected to the adjournment, and said he would take no part in any further meeting beyond listening to what was said and replying if he thought fit; whereupon Mr. Dickson stepped to the front and said that he would call a meeting on his own account, and on next Monday evening would enter fully into all public matters of interest to the rat-payers. The two meetings already held hardly amounted to the proverbial "row of pins"; but "the third time's the charm," and we sincerely hope that Mr. Dickson will be allowed to carry out his intention and give all the ins and outs of the various transactions that have terminated so disastrously for the pockets of the people.

Gooderham. ((Correspondence of the Gazette.)) The year is fast closing in, and will soon end. I have on sundry occasions during the past intimated to you that important matters for this immediate district would likely happen when the plans of the spirited gentlemen who have them in hand had somewhat further matured. I am fully of opinion that another year, whoever sees it in our township, cannot get so near its close as this is now without some of my long spoken of hopes being at least partially realized. Slowly but surely the indefatigable gentlemen above alluded to are moving forward, and I trust that by the time I address another few lines to you I shall be in possession of tangible facts to back up my present assertions. Our various lumbering gangs are making good progress in this township, as the weather has been very favourable. We hear of one firm who has lately changed one of its principal officers, and are sure it is that very few of the settlers have any occasion to regret his removal, for some will remember him to their sorrow. Our annual elections are fast approaching, and as far as I can learn there is a determination amongst my fellow rat-payers to make a change next year. I am almost certain of important business coming before our council at an early date, and it is to be hoped that the sagest of our men will form our council; but here, as in so many other places, the most fitting refuse to take office in such unliking times. Labour in our township has been plentiful this season so far as the lumber trade is concerned, and many settlers have had good opportunities of meeting the tax collector with a bolder front than usual at this time of year. The genial countenance of Mr. Alexander McArthur, who is getting out much lumber he has brought here, is often welcomed as amongst us.

Bobcaygeon. ((Correspondence of the Gazette.)) Owing to the state of the roads—there is but little traffic going on. It is a pity that so little effort is made for their improvement. If good roads are a sure evidence of an advanced state of civilization, what would those around here indicate? Let our councillors answer. Over two weeks ago Mr. Harry Simpson, a well known resident in this locality, went missing without leaving any trace of where he had gone. When last seen he was walking through the village, and as he had said he was going off to Harvey, a few miles distant, to boss a shanty for Mr. Elliott, no notice was taken of his absence until inquiries from there as to where he had gone led to the belief that something was wrong. All search has as yet failed to show what became of him, but the impression gains ground that he perished in the lake. The new hotel now building in Bobcaygeon for Mr. Goulais will certainly prove a great attraction to visitors, both by its size and outward appearance. The architect, Mr. Belcher, has done his part well—in fact so admirably that visitors will be sure to inquire as to who furnished the design. Of course the site is a first class one; few could be better for giving the architect a chance to display his ability. It is too soon yet to speak of the interior arrangements of the hotel, but if they are at all in keeping with the exterior it may well be called a first class house. The residents are felicitating themselves on the change from the unsightly building which gave such an unfavourable impression of their village.

A Clergyman on Governments. The following, clipped from a St. Paul newspaper, is an extract from a sermon preached there on their late Thanksgiving Day, and is worth reading just now, when the subject of what form of government is best for a country is being so often discussed:—"Manhood is the final cause of humanity. For this reason the government, the general character of social life, will not be better than the intelligence and morality of the people.... There is no other form of government so weak as ours, and no social system so likely to become perverted if there are not self-respecting upright men to test upon. On the contrary, no government is so strong as ours of individual citizens are self-helpful, virtuous and intelligent in thought and purpose. All this goes to show how much depends on personal character." To this we say amen.

OUR POST-OFFICE.—Mr. Cunningham, our village post-master, is making changes in the internal arrangement of the post-office which will make it more convenient for himself and his assistant and no less so for the public. A much needed new floor has also been laid down and something in the way of a dormitory is, we believe, to be done.

SCHOOL MEETING.—The trustees held a meeting on Wednesday evening last, and selected two out of the numerous applicants to fill the vacancies about to be created by the withdrawal of Miss Lottie Lockhead and Miss Janet Lockhart from their positions as teachers of the third and fourth departments. Miss McMurchy, of Onanace, will succeed

Miss Lockhead and Miss Lockhart will be succeeded by Miss Williams, of Orillia. CHRISTMAS TREE AND FESTIVAL.—We beg to remind our readers of St. James' Sunday School Christmas tree to be held in Ingram's hall on Thursday, the 22nd inst. Tea will be served during the evening. St. James' Sunday School scholars free. All others 15 cents for admission and tea. Private presents may be put on the tree, such as from husbands to wives, etc. HOLIDAY PRESENTS.—Our village watchmaker, Mr. Slater, is opening out a very large and choice assortment of Christmas and New Year's gifts, to which he invites public attention by a large advertisement in another column. Last year he had the best stock ever brought into Fenelon Falls, and owing to their excellence and cheapness, they sold so rapidly that this year he has bought more than double the quantity, and we do not doubt that he will be able to dispose of all of them.

ALMOST A FIRE.—As Mr. James Inkster was passing Mr. E. Sandford's carriage factory (in which he is employed) about 11 o'clock last Saturday night, he noticed a light shining through the windows of the blacksmith's shop, and upon entering found that one of the walls was burning close to a forge, a spark from which probably caused the fire. Mr. Inkster was only just in time to save the premises from destruction, for he was hard at work for nearly two hours before the danger was over, as the fire was burning inside the sheeting of the wall.

THOUGHTFUL GENEROSITY.—A few days ago the Rev. W. Logan received through the post-office a note containing five dollars from a member of St. Peter's church, Verulam, which he was under no legal obligation to pay. The note stated that it was only "poverty" that had prevented the writer doing something of the same kind sooner. The note further stated that the money was in consideration of the past, and had no reference to the present year. This looks like a return of prosperity and an exhibition of gratitude for the same. The act is so unusual that it deserves to be put on record.

A SKATING RINK.—Mr. John Finn is making preparations to establish a skating rink at the rear of his lot on Bond street, where there is a gully about 150 feet long by 75 feet wide, which always contains a considerable quantity of water throughout the winter months, and enough to flood the rink occasionally can be obtained from a deep well near the house. Mr. Finn is confident that his enterprise will be crowned with success, as he already has a large number of subscribers, and the rink being centrally situated, sheltered from winds, and safe for juveniles, it is probable that it will be pretty well patronized.

A BAD FALL.—Last Saturday evening Mr. David Laub, of Verulam, slipped while coming out of the door of the Mansion House, in this village, and fell with such force on his right hand, which he stretched out to try and save himself, that one of the bones of the forearm was broken about two inches above the wrist. He immediately walked to Dr. Wilson's office, where the fracture was reduced and bandages applied. As the fact that the accident happened at the door of a tavern may cause those who do not know Mr. Laub to suspect that it was caused by liquor, we may mention that he is a strict temperance man and went into the Mansion House on business.

OMITTED.—In our report of last week's meeting we omitted the name of Mr. Joseph McArthur from the list of persons "suggested" as candidates for the reevehip of this village. The omission, which we regret, will not in the least affect Mr. McArthur's chances of election, as the naming of candidates at such a meeting was informal and premature, and was only done as a sort of compromise with Mr. Greene, who apparently wished to transact not only the business of the last Monday in December but that of the first Monday in January also. The contest for the reevehip is, as far as we can learn, to be between Mr. Dickson and Mr. McArthur.

DEER OR DEVIL—WHICH?—There is said to be a white deer, or what looks like one, on Mr. Schell's farm in Somerville; but as a couple of pounds of bullets have been fired at, and some of them through, it at short range without producing any effect upon the creature beyond inducing it to wink and derisively wag its tail, some are inclined to fancy that it is a fiend that has assumed the similitude of a deer in order to provoke the local sports into the use of profane language. The strange story was told to us so late in the week that we are forced to give it short of half its wonders; but we were assured most positively that it was true, and were too polite to say, or even insinuate, that a thousand assurances would not induce us to believe it.

ACCIDENT TO A DEAF MUTE.—A young man named Stephenson, who is a deaf mute and has been working in Dunbar's shanty, about seven miles from Kinmount, for the purpose of earning enough money to take him to the Deaf and Dumb Asylum at Belleville, inflicted a very serious wound on his right foot with an axe about 7 o'clock on the morning of the 2nd inst. He was drawn on a jumper to Kinmount, and a telegram was sent to Dr. Lowe, of Fenelon Falls, who went to Kinmount by the evening train, which was delayed so long on the road from some cause that he did not reach his destination until 7.30, by which time the patient was so weak from loss of blood that the doctor almost feared he would not recover. The wound was a terrible one, the second, third and fourth toes being so badly mangled that it was necessary to amputate them, and some of the long bones of the foot so shattered that they had to be cut out. The doctor told us to-day (Thursday) that he had just heard from his patient, and that he was getting along fully as well as could be expected; but of course he will be laid up for a considerable length of time.

The Toronto, Grey & Bruce Railway has adopted the standard gauge.

Terrible Explosion. THREE ACRES OF FOREST MOWN DOWN.

BRADFORD, Pa., Dec. 5th.—About noon to-day one of the R-berts Company's glycerine magazines at Kizuzee junction, twelve miles from this city, and containing 1,230 pounds of glycerine, exploded with terrific force. The earth trembled as if shaken by an earthquake, the shock being distinctly felt in Bradford. The explosion was mysterious in its origin, combustion being cited as the cause. The forest covering at least three acres in the vicinity was laid low, and houses at Kizuzee were nearly shaken from their foundations. It is said to be the only known case of glycerine exploding from combustion.

Death Struggle on a Train. A CONVICT MAKES AN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE.

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—Henry White, sentenced to thirty-nine years imprisonment for robbing a stage in New Mexico, has been brought here by United States Marshal Wilcox. On a train near Pokagon, White picked the lock of his handcuffs with a tooth-pick and attacked Wilcox with the handcuffs. A fierce struggle ensued, and Wilcox was knocked down. Seventeen men in the car left the officer to struggle alone. White seized Wilcox's revolver and tried to shoot him. Mrs. Smithson, wife of a Denver engineer, the only woman in the car, sprang upon the seat behind him and caught the convict's arm. The men in the car then came to the officer's assistance, and White was again secured. Mrs. Smithson declined a reward, but Marshal Wilcox will send her $500. White is a notorious stage robber.

Affairs in Ireland. DELAY IN THE COURT.

DUBLIN, Dec. 5.—It is believed that the present crisis is the most important of the whole land movement, for the people thus far have successfully resisted all the strength of coercion. It is a startling fact that two-thirds of the rents are not being paid, and tenants have no intention of paying them without heavy reductions, which the landlords refuse. The Land Courts are so slow that the Act is as yet no remedy whatever for the troubles. The Government did not expect this delay, believing that after a few decisions the landlords and tenants would settle matters between themselves. The country is experiencing a reign of terror. In the eastern counties the Assizes have begun, and the judge spoke of the great increase of crime. He said that threatening letters of intimidation were everywhere on the increase, and the crime of arson much more frequent. The opinion that Parnell's arrest was a mistake is being every day vindicated.

Roman Relics in Great Britain. Some interesting Roman remains have been discovered at the village of Wingham; and, considering it lies on the direct road to the centre of England from Richborough, the favourite landing place, and the strongest seaside fortress of the earliest conquerors of Britain, the find is not surprising. The first curiosity which the explorers noticed upon was a bath-room, the walls of which were found to be covered with black and white tesserae. The floor had also been paved, but unfortunately this part of the ancient building had been destroyed. On the north two other chambers, ornamented in the same manner, have been uncovered, and on the west a part of the hypocaust, with passages for the admission of hot air, has been disclosed to the light. At the present time the investigators are driving to the south, and have already come upon traces of more remains. From the descriptions of the remains this ancient villa is not unlike that which was found at Bignor, in Sussex, exactly seventy years ago, but the rooms are neither so large nor so elaborately ornamented.—St. James' Gazette.

Newspapers in the East. An odd testimony to the power of the fourth estate comes from Constantinople. The Osmanli (native paper) declares that it is the wish and intention of the Sultan to promote an interest in newspapers and books among his subjects. In order to evoke them and withdraw them from imitation of European civilization." At the same time, by a curious coincidence, the Russian Government itself proposes to publish a gazette, of which three or four copies are to be distributed to the volosts in each village on every Sunday or fête day, to be read aloud by them to the assembled inhabitants. Special editions are to be published for the different races and sects—Catholics, Orthodox, Great and Little Russians, Tartars, Finns, etc. By this means his subjects will learn to look on passing events and politics through the czar's own eyes. Their ideas will be about as fresh and modern as those of the people of Peebles, the Scotch hamlet, where, as Chambers tells us, the intellectual life was sustained in his youth by an old cobbler, who went about in winter with an odd volume of Josephus, reading a chapter a night for a penny. "Sirius" times ahead, my friends!" he would say, looking round on his breathless audience. "Ye'll hear what that relict Titus did next."

Business Change. On account of the falling health of W. J. MARSHALL, he has sold his business to the undersigned, who, in addition to the usual stock of Musical Instruments by the best makers, Book and Sheet Music, &c., will keep a large assortment of Books, Stationery & Fancy Goods, such as School Books, Prize Books, Albums, Bibles, Hymn Books, Wall Paper, Window Blinds, Toys, Vases, &c., &c. Christmas & New Year's Gifts in great variety. Picture Framing in all its branches. The public are respectfully requested to call and inspect the stock and ascertain the prices. As the undersigned are both experienced and well known to the School Teachers, they will be glad to receive a visit from any member of that profession. PIERCE & METHERELL, Opposite the English Church, 40-5, KENT STREET, LINDSAY.

Irish Poverty. Captain Spaight, one of the Government Inspectors, reports that the Union of Swineford, County Mayo, is without an equal in any part of the world for poverty and wretchedness. A succession of bad seasons has left the people without clothing, bedding, or anything but the miserable huts in which they live, and which generally consist of one room only, with very low walls, and very imperfectly thatched. The only covering of the family at night is, in nine cases out of ten, an old quilt too bad to be pawned, or a few bays. "I have found," Captain Spaight adds, "the mother and children sitting on the mud floor eating small, wet, ill-grown potatoes off the floor with a little salt and nothing else, not a stool nor a plate being in the house. The male portion of the population are away all the summer, and this year their earnings have not been as good as usual."

The Reporters' Ravage. The short-hand reporters of Sydney, N. S. W., having been found fault with for their method of reporting the speeches in the Legislative Council, retaliated by giving the speech of one of the council exactly as it was spoken, as follows:—"The reporters—ought not to—the reporters ought not to—the reporters ought not to be the ones to judge of what is important—not to say what should be left out—but—the member can only judge of what is important. As I—as my speeches—as the reports—as what I say is reported sometimes, no one—nobody can understand from the reports—what it is—what I mean. So—it strikes me—it has struck me certain matters—things that appear of importance—are sometimes left out—omitted. The reporters—the papers—points are reported—I mean—to make a brief statement—what the paper thinks of interest—is reported." Similar incidents might be of everyday occurrence in the case of Canadian politicians and preachers.

COMMUNICATIONS. To the Editor of the Fenelon Falls Gazette. Sir— Please to give me space in your valuable paper to reply to the scandalous charges your learned reporter at Powles's Corner made in your issue of Nov'r 26th against the trustees of that action, charging them with squandering public money. I think I can safely call your correspondent W. P. If I am right, the only reason I can find out why he should be ridiculing H. W. Shuttleworth and the present board of trustees is simply because at the time of H. W. Shuttleworth's first engagement his son made application for the school, but the then existing board of trustees refused him the school. Ever since that time he has been going vent to a blast of wind now and again, making out that H. W. Shuttleworth was not a fit teacher to teach our school; but I can prove by good authority that he is the best teacher we have had for many years. I hope when your correspondent again makes a charge of such a nature he will sign his name at the bottom of his letter. Yours &c., NATHAN DAY, Trustee No. 3 No. 4, Fenelon.
