Apples as Food.

There is no fruit grown in the temperate zone that is so valuable to the mass of mankind as apples, none other which is so great a benefactor to so large a proportion of the community in which they are known and appreciated. Apples are the oldest fruit known, and must have originally come from the East, for they are credited with having been used to tempt mother Eve, and with having imparted to her the knowledge of good and evil.

Pleurisy, Liver Complaint. YARMOUTH, N. S., June 14, 1880.

Dear Sir,—Last summer I was troubled with Pleurisy and Liver Complaint, was unable to work for seven weeks. I had the advice of two able physicians and took their medicine without getting any relief. One day your agent happened to tass my door and handed me a circular, which I read, and at once cone uded to try your Vegetine. In three days I was like work in a short time. Have since enjoyed the best of health. I have recommended Vegetine to several of my neighbours and know it to have accomplished wonderful cures.

Yours truly, P. A. VANHORN,
Foreman of A. F. Stoneman & Co.'s wharf. P.S.—I consider I owe a great deal to Vege-tine. I sincerely believe if it had not been for P. A. VANHORN.
