The Canal Works at Bobcaygeon.

The Report of the Minister of Railways & Public Works has a notice of the Trent Valley works, and makes special mention of the canal works at Bobcaygeon. The locks and canal are described as being in such a dilapidated condition as to require a thorough overhauling and a new dam as an absolute necessity. This last is, in the opinion of those who have some knowledge of its ruinous condition, not put even strong enough, as great fears are entertained that it will give way in the coming spring flood; and should this be the case, the consequences to Bobcaygeon and far down the river would be appalling, as the whole weight of Starzong Lake and the river from Lindsay would come upon them with the fury of an Alpine avalanche and carry everything before it. It is most fervently to be hoped that such a calamity may be averted by the dam holding its ground until a new one is built. How things have been allowed to get into such a dangerous condition is only to be accounted for by the pressure on the Public Works Department by other and more important matters. Should any disaster occur, Sir Charles Tupper may thank Mr. Hector Cameron for placing the Trent Works under his care. Mr. McKenzie, when he held the same office, had agreed to transfer them to the Province of Ontario, as of right belonging to it; but to this Mr. Cameron objected in a long and eloquent speech after Sir Charles had stepped into Mr. McKenzie's place. Some patronage was to be gained by the retention of these works, and not a little influence in the case of elections, and the conservatives being all-powerful in the Dominion parliament, the works were retained under Sir Charles Tupper's care. Mr. Mowat's Government were weakened by this stroke of policy, but happily not overthrown. What was intended as an injury turns out a fortunate thing for them, as they will be saved the trouble and expense of putting these works into an efficient condition. And should any disaster such as is anticipated arise from their present defective state, the Ontario Government will escape all blame, which will fall on the Public Works Department of the Dominion, and Mr. Cameron will incur censure from all sides, but more especially from his own political friends.

Fenelon Falls Races.

The sixth annual meeting of the Fenelon Falls Trotting Association was held last Wednesday and Thursday on Cameron Lake, and passed off satisfactorily, especially to the owners of local trotters, as, owing to the bad state of the roads, only three outside competitors made their appearance. The attendance of spectators was less than on former similar occasions. The track was in excellent condition and on Wednesday the weather was very pleasant, but next day there was a keen cutting wind, which drove many people from the ice before the races were over. The results were as follows:—

- FIRST DAY. Green Race. J. Simpson's Lapidist Chief... 1 1 1 D. Wilson's br. mare Nellie... 2 2 2 J. Byers's Ploughboy... 3 3 3 Named Race. J. Simpson's Lapidist Chief... 1 1 1 M. Gooderham.

(Correspondence of the Gazette.) The elections being now over, the usual path of every-day life is again being trodden by most of us. I believe you have found my prognostications as regards the election fully borne out, notwithstanding that this township gave Mr. Peck a larger majority than on the former occasion. We have now to accept the situation as we find it, and Mr. Fell will be able to perform all his promises towards us, which both opponents and supporters believe he will honestly endeavour to do. There never was a better opportunity for a newly elected member, being on the opposition benches, as Mr. Fell will be, to acquire popularity amongst those who voted against him. Let Mr. Fell successfully exert himself to get aid for the railway extension intended to promote mining in these townships, and settlers of all shades of politics will assist him to keep M. P. P. after his name when he comes back for re-election. We are now daily expecting our post-master and hotel-keeper Mr. Way and his wife from England, where they have spent the past three months. We are apparently on the point of a thaw, which is much needed, for the snow has materially injured many of us, being so deep that all work in the woods is suspended, especially in the generalities of men who do not go to shanty work have most of their interest in the shape of a few ties, poles &c. There has been no winter to equal this during my six years here. We are hoping and expecting news from Mr. Pusey concerning the iron ore which was to be taken from one of our large mines here for testing purposes, which has been delayed solely by a trifling sum of about ten dollars not being included in the estimate of costs. On that test depends a large item in our future prospects. I still cling to my former assertions (as progress is gradually being made) that before long an industry will exist here the mention of which four years ago would have caused many knowing ones to laugh and ridicule the idea.

DENTAL.—Persons wishing to see Mr. Neelands, dentist, will please call at the McArthur House on Monday, the 19th inst., after the arrival of the train, also on Tuesday, the 20th inst.

SOIREE.—A soiree, in connection with the Presbyterian church is to be held in the Grange Hall, at Rosedale, on Friday, the 23rd inst. Tea to be served from 4 o'clock p. m.

PROLIFIC SHEEP.—Whether or not Leicester ewes are more prolific than others we do not know, but Mr. John Copp has two which each this season produced three lambs each, and he hopes that the rest of them may do as well. The lambs are a cross between the Leicester and the Southdown. Mr. Copp having bought a ram lamb of the latter breed last fall from Mr. T. Guy, of Oshawa, for $15, and the animal was so small that when he got it home his neighbours all thought he had got a bad bargain, but they are now inclined to change their opinion.

SUSPICIOUS.—It is generally believed by the Reformers in this riding—and they do not hesitate to declare it—that the large majority against Mr. Peck at the late election was the result of downright bribery by persons interested in the success of his opponent; and in support of this theory they adduce—amongst other suspicious circumstances—that in one locality, at least, in the north, a number of persons who alleged, as late as nomination day, that they could not meet their taxes or store accounts, have since paid the collector and the merchant with bills not previously in circulation in that part of the riding.

A DANGEROUS DRAUGHT.—A few days ago a little boy about two years old, son of Mr. Charles Harling, of this village, took a sup or two out of a bottle of muriatic acid which his father kept in the house to use when soldering metals. Soon afterwards the child complained of a burning pain in his stomach, and his mother, suspecting he had swallowed some of the acid, immediately gave him a dose of salt and water, which caused him to vomit. Dr. Wilson, who was at once sent for, administered some other remedies and the little fellow was soon all right again. Muriatic acid is a poison, but he had probably taken but a very small quantity, and his mother's prompt action saved him from any serious consequences.

KICKED BY A HORSE.—Last Friday Frank Bell, a young man from Fenelon Falls who was working at Minden, went into a stable to harness a horse, and as he was about to put the crupper under its tail the animal suddenly stepped forward and then kicked. Fortunately the horse was not shod on its hind feet, as one of them struck Bell on the forehead over the left eye with such violence that he was insensible for several hours, and had there been a shoe on the foot he would almost certainly have been killed. As it was he had a narrow escape, as he received an ugly wound about two inches long and down to the bone. Dr. Curry, of Minden, sewed up the cut and on Sunday the patient was brought home, where he has since been under the care of Dr. Wilson. At first there were some unfavourable symptoms, but they have entirely disappeared and he is now doing well.

A FRENCH FRACAS.—Last Monday afternoon there was a tremendous hubbub on Colborne street amongst a number of Frenchmen, and of course they were soon surrounded by a crowd of villagers of various nationalities, who intensely enjoyed it. What the row was about we have not been able to find out, but a dispute arose between two or three half drunken men, whom a number of sober ones were trying to pacify, and the whole lot of them argued and shrugged their shoulders and gesticulated as only Frenchmen can. The only one who got hurt was one of the original disputants, who was twice knocked down by a stout lad aged about 17, named Christian, whose coat he had torn, and who wasn't a good enough Christian to stand that. They say he is a Frenchman, and he expressed his opinions in French, but he certainly knocked down in English. Of course he instantly became a hero, and while he was undergoing admiration his opponent left for home and the row soon after terminated.

The Country Newspaper.

Referring to the country journalist, Geo. Peck, of Milwaukee, says: "When we think of the hard drudgery that these enterprising indefatigable workers do in a week, and the small amount of thanks and cash they receive in return, we feel as though something was wrong somewhere. Why is it that in many localities the people do not appreciate the importance of a good newspaper, and sustain it by a liberal patronage? thus making it a better paper, is one of the most unaccountable things in the world. We have no urgent call now to say what we do; but we tell people in every locality where a paper is published, no matter how small and insignificant the paper may be, that every dollar they pay it for subscriptions or judgments advertising puts two dollars cash in their own pockets. We have figured on it and we know. It may not look so on the face, but it is very deceiving. Lots of schemes that look as though they had millions in them, like the man who is sure he can pick out the right card in three months, fail to return any thing like millions, while other schemes, that do not appear to amount to anything scarcely, pan out whole handfuls of nickels unexpectedly. And the country newspaper is one of this class. Subscribe for your paper and pay for it in advance, and if you feel at the end of the year that you haven't got your money's worth, then your fortune is made. You can go to the museum and get $5,000 a year as a curiosity."

Adulteration of Food.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—We have received a communication from a farmer who resides in the neighbourhood, stating that one day last week he took a small dose of what was bought for Cream of Tartar. Shortly after taking it he was seized with a severe illness, which continued for nearly two days. His suspicions aroused as to the purity of the drug from its strange taste, he submitted it to Dr. McCamus, who examined it, and found that it contained but a very small proportion of Cream of Tartar. It is not supposed that the retail dealers adulterate such things as this, the guilt most probably lies with the wholesale dealers. Be it as it may, it is certain that adulteration is carried to a very great and dangerous extent, and that a general system of inspection by public analysts is most desirable in the interests of the people. If it is proper that we should be protected from being cheated, by a host of Weight and Measure Inspectors, is it not of vastly greater consequence that we should be protected from fraud, imposition and poison. If our legislators would give less attention to the retaining or obtaining of the political fish pots, and more to such matters as this, it would be much greater to their credit, and far better for the country.

Dead in the Snow.

The Port Hope Guide says that a bout noon on Monday Mr. Aaron Thomson, who was chopping in the woods on his father's farm, lot 13, 1st concession of Hope, found the body of a man buried in the snow. The deceased seemed to be between 55 and 60 years of age, about 5 feet 6 inches in height, bald headed with full beard. On his person was found a pair of tailor's shears, a tailor's thimble and a small glass bottle containing a lot of needles. He was well clothed, had on a good comfortable suit, flannel shirt and drawers, India rubber overshoes, one pair of extra pants wrapped around his feet and another around his head. There was nothing on his person by which he could be identified. A book containing a lot of figures with some writing in German would lead to the supposition that he was a German tailor. He had evidently laid down deliberately—not like a person that was intoxicated—for the snow had been scooped away at the foot of an upturned tree. Besides the articles mentioned above, there was found a small hand looking glass, a comb, a briar root pipe and a quantity of tobacco and matches. An inquest was held by Coroner Maxwell, and a verdict rendered in accordance with the above facts. He was an entire stranger in this section of the country.

A Domestic Murderer.

PHILADELPHIA, March 9th.—Catharine Metzger this morning struck her employer, Mrs. May, while the latter was in bed, several blows on the head with a hatchet, then fractured the skull of Mrs. May's child, aged eight months, with a bottle. Mrs. May's cries brought a policeman. It is believed the woman will recover, but the child will die. The girl is aged 18 and came from Germany three months ago. She had only been a week in the employ of the May family, and gives no reason for the assault except that she was prompted several days ago to do it. She rose in the middle of the night and went to the cellar after the hatchet. The investigation shows that the servant seized her mistress by the hair and beat her on the head with the blunt end of the hatchet. A desperate struggle ensued. Mrs. May wrenched the hatchet from Catharine's hand, and the girl then seized a bottle of bay rum and flung it at Mrs. May, missing her, but striking the infant in the crib. The struggle between the women recommenced, and ended by Mrs. May throwing the servant out of the room and locking the door. The girl then went to bed, where the police found her.

An Assassin's Death.

MILWAUKEE, March 9.—A story is published in an evening paper to-night which caused a great sensation, and especially among the Irish-American citizens. A few days ago Michael Holmes, an Irishman who had been here but a short time, died. Little is known of him before his death, though a few acquaintances that he made regard him as a man with whose history there seems to be some mystery connected, as he was reticent concerning himself. He quarrelled with another Irishman named Patrick Johnson, and received stabs which caused his death. After being wounded, and before death he partially took a fellow-countryman, named Nick Fitzgerald, into his confidence. His story is now made public for the first time. He told Fitzgerald that with three accomplices he secretly escaped from London the night after the Phoenix Park murder, and after coming to this country the four men separated. He could not be brought to say that he participated in the assassination, but was in fear of detection, and said some of the men charged with the murder were innocent. He admitted that he had not even written home to his wife for fear the English detectives would be on his track. The general belief is that he was connected with the assassination.
