The Fenelon Falls Gazette

Saturday, June 23rd, 1883.

The Fall into the Canal.

Under the heading of "Nearly a fatal Accident," last week's Post has the following:—

"Before the locks at Fenelon Falls are completed the possibility is that several lives will have been lost through either the carelessness of the contractor or negligence of the village authorities. The late unfortunate is a young man named Frank Stinson, for some time bartender at Irwin's hotel, Lindsay, and still in the employ of Mr. Irwin. Stinson drove a number of horses to Fenelon Falls on Thursday last week, and stayed in the village until after dark. About 11 o'clock he started to walk to Lindsay and left Irwin's hotel at that hour. Early next morning the young man was found in a senseless condition lying on the rock at the bottom of the canal cutting. He had in the darkness of the preceding night walked over the edge of the cutting and fell a distance of over 22 feet. He was at once removed to the village hotel and medical assistance promptly given. On Saturday he was removed to Lindsay, where he now lies in a critical condition. Dr. Coulter, who is in attendance, informs us that the collar bone is broken, shoulder badly hurt, and head and parts of the limbs of the young man badly cut and bruised. The authorities of Fenelon village are to be censured for culpable neglect in not providing a suitable barricade or other precaution to guard against accidents, and it is a question if the village is not saddled with heavy damages to teach a lesson for the future."

The above paragraph reflects so strongly upon our village council and Mr. McDonald, who is superintending the public works here, that it cannot be allowed to pass unnoticed. From all we can learn, and we have made close enquiries, Stinson was very much under the influence of liquor, so much so that had there been a fence all along the canal he would have been just as likely as not to have climbed over it under the impression that he was taking a short cut to somewhere. No other person has fallen into the canal, nor would he have done so had he been in a condition to notice where he was going; in fact it required considerable dodging of impediments to pursue the sinuous path by which he reached the spot from which he fell. Some of our informants say that he was downright drunk, and was walking about shouting and howling and calling for somebody to fight for some time before he met with the accident, which could scarcely have happened to any person who was sane and sober. The distance he fell, as stated in last week's Gazette, was about fifteen feet in two separate descents, and instead of being insensible he attracted attention by his shouting. His injuries, when examined by a doctor, appeared to be confined to a few bruises and a cut over one eye; and he had so far recovered by Saturday morning that he walked down the hotel stair unassisted and was about to proceed on foot to the railway station when the landlord offered him a ride. Apparently he has tried to make a mountain out of a molehill, and the Post has been deceived. We must protest against any blame being laid upon either the contractor or our village authorities, as there is no danger of any person getting into the canal unless he goes blundering along headlong in the dark, over or around all obstacles, as Stinson appears to have done.

Caught in the Act.

When, early last week, we heard that some person unknown had stolen the strap and bell worn by Mr. Thomas Roberts's cow, we did not feel very sympathetic; remembering that the bell in question was a bell of preternatural loudness, eminently calculated to murder sleep, and that during our residence in Mr. Roberts's vicinity we had frequently been compelled to get up in the night and send the bovine bell-ringer flying down street with our canine coadjutor attached to her tail. Even the subsequent intelligence that Mr. Roberts had lost a second bell failed to touch our sensibilities, as we thought it might have been as objectionable a one as the first; but it makes a great difference whose bell is stolen as well as whose ox is gored, and when our own eow came home last Sunday morning minus her musical instrument, we felt quite sorry for Mr. Roberts, and expressed the opinion that there were persons in this village whose honesty might be improved by a week or two's residence in the little stone mansion on the market square. Believing in advertising, and the Gazette not being due for nearly a week, we told several persons what had occurred, and on Wednesday morning Mr. Jeremiah Twomey Sr. opened the office door, exhibited his jovial countenance and said: "You lost a cow-bell, didn't you?" and upon our answering "yes," added, "Go up to Tom Roberts's and you'll get it. I just got mine, with a new strap on." (He ought to have said Mr. Roberts's; but he didn't.) He said Tom—which is just like him). Mystified, we proceeded to Mr. Roberts's immediately, and found him at home, and he delighted us with a little narrative that has set half the village laughing. When his first bell disappeared he was of course vexed, thinking that it had been stolen or that the strap had been by some means broken; but as the second strap and bell were taken also, he thought it was high time to try and find out what had become of them, and, fancying that the inmates of a certain house not very far from his own were worth watching, he watched them accordingly. His surmise proved to be correct; for about 12 p. m. on Saturday he saw the suspected parties stealthily creep out, remove the bells from the necks of two or three cows that were making night hideouts, and as stealthily retreat indoors again. Mr. Roberts, being a strict Sabbatharian, waited patiently until Monday morning, when he put on an austere countenance, presented himself before the midnight marauders, and said he had called for cowbells, and what was more, was bound to have them. The marauders were virtuously indignant, didn't know what he meant, &c., &c. Mr. Roberts had, however, seen by the light of the moon where the bells had been hidden, and walking with that calm deliberate step of his to the spot, he discovered, very much to his surprise, no less than seven, two of which he claimed as his own. Marauders wondered what on earth induced so many bells to come and secrete themselves on their premises, and said that if two of them had strayed from Mr. Roberts's of course he could have them. But Mr. Roberts said he would take all of them, because he felt sure the rest belonged to his neighbours, and it was the duty of every man to be as solicitous for his neighbours' cow-bells as for his own. Very well, then; he could have them all. Next as to the straps; what had become of them? Marauders didn't know anything about the straps; but thought that perhaps they had strayed off somewhere else, worried out by the tongues of the bells to which they had so long been attached—like a good many men, you know. But as austerity accumulated on Mr. Roberts's countenance the marauders began to feel uncomfortable, and no doubt joyfully agreed to his proposal that they should buy new straps for all the bells and that the affair should be buried in oblivion. The straps were bought accordingly—seven, at 75 cents each—and we have got one of them; but, as we don't want to make money out of the transaction, and as our old strap wasn't worth more than half a dollar, we shall be happy to hand the difference to either of the marauders if he will kindly call for it at this office.

Moved by Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. Thomson, That Mr. Crandell's petition, signed by Messrs. H. Humphrey, John Wallace and twenty-five others, be laid on the table until next meeting.—Carried.

BUTTER WANTED.—Mr. John St. Lawrence, of the Montreal Cash Store, is prepared to pay cash for any quantity of first class butter.

MEN WANTED.—As the weather appears to be settled the force on the canal is to be increased, and Mr. McDonald wishes to hire from fifteen to twenty-five good men as soon as possible.

STURGEON POINT HOTEL.—On Monday last Captain Crandell sold the well known summer hotel at Sturgeon Point to E. H. Dunham, of Montreal, for $6,000. Mr. Dunham intends to rejuvenate and build additions to the hotel and keep it in first class style.

INGRAM'S BAYS.—Last Saturday Mr. Noble Ingram, of the McArthur House, sold his span of bay horses for $350 to Mr. E. H. Dunham, of Montreal, who has taken them to that city. They are handsome animals, pretty well matched, and Mr. Dunham, should he wish to dispose of them, will no doubt be able to do so to advantage.

CUTTING WEEDS.—Mr. Warren has been employed by the Council to cut down weeds growing along the sides of the village streets, and is performing the work conscientiously. When it is finished the vacant lots, which are over-crowded with thistles, &c., will look worse than ever by contrast.

STUMPING THE CEMETERY.—It will be seen by the Council proceedings that a contract to extract the stumps in the cemetery has been let to Mr. John McGee at $1 25 per stump. How many tenders there were we do not know; but we do know that they were not publicly advertised for, unless by written notices which we did not see.

BILLIARDS.—Mr. Ingram, of the McArthur House, has just received two new billiard tables, with all the necessary paraphernalia of balls and cues, and set them up in the room lately added to the hotel. They were manufactured by Schulenberg & Co., of Detroit, cost $600, and are as handsome tables as we ever saw. One has six pockets and the other none.

THE ELECTION TRIALS.—At a recent meeting of the Judges of the High Court at Osooche Hall it was decided that nine of the pending election trials should be held during the coming vacation; and the South Victoria petition will be tried in Lindsay on the 9th of July; but it has not yet been announced when the one for this riding will be disposed of.

SOLD AGAIN.—A few days ago Mr. John Simpson, of this village, sold to Mr. Hopkins, of Peterborough, for $85, the sucking foal which he bought for $65 from Mr. W. H. Stevenson, as noticed in the Gazette of the 9th inst. The little animal, which was three weeks old the day it changed owners the second time, will of course remain with its dam until old enough to be weaned.

DOMINION DAY.—There is to be a grand celebration in Lindsay on Monday, July 2nd, and a gorgeous and gigantic poster announces that the amusements will consist of games and sports and canoe races during the day, and a torchlight procession and fireworks after dark. Trains on the Midland railway will be run at reduced fares, and will remain in Lindsay until the celebration is concluded.

BLOCKED UP.—The road between the McArthur House and the canal is temporarily blocked by the derriek, which it was necessary to place there for a few days, and teams from the south have to be driven through the grove and along May and Francis streets to reach the business part of the village. There is of course some grumbling at the circuitous route that has to be pursued; but the obstruction to traffic will be for so short a time that it will be for no unreasonable to expect the contractors to go to the expense of a temporary bridge on a line with Colborne street.

Appalling Disaster.

ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY CHILDREN CRUSHED TO DEATH.

LONDON, June 16.—A terrible calamity, involving the death of 178 children, occurred in the town of Sunderland in the county of Durham this evening. From the details thus far received it appears that an entertainment had been given in Victoria Hall by a conjurer, which was attended almost altogether by children, several thousand being in attendance. An accident occurred at the close of the performance. The body of the hall had been entirely cleared of its occupants, when some 1,200 little ones came rushing down from the gallery. At the top of the first flight of stairs there was a door which opened only twenty inches, and thus only one child was permitted to pass through at a time. At this point, while the mass of children were pushing forward, one of them fell and was unable to rise owing to the others crowding on. The result was a great number were pushed down, trampled on, and suffocated. The scene was terrible, and no effort could stop the mad rush of frightened children. They came on pell mell, though strangely without much shouting, and soon 178 of them were knocked down and suffocated to death by others trampling upon them. The greatest number of bodies, which were badly mangled from trampling, lay seven or eight deep. Many victims and others who were not killed had the clothing torn from their bodies, and this, together with the bleeding bodies of the unfortunate, shows the terrible nature of the struggle. The ages of the 178 children known to have been killed ranged from four to fourteen years.

SUNDERLAND, June 19.—The number of deaths resulting from the catastrophe at the children's entertainment in Victoria Hall has now reached 202. The funerals of a great many of the victims of Saturday's disaster took place to-day.
